POSTAL RATE INCREASE FOR SINGLE YEAR IS PREDICTED

Compromise Solution of P. O. Wage Boost Looms.

SAVE NEWSPAPERS

Second Class Jumps Will be Sharply Reduced.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—American publishers won a sweeping victory today when the senate post office committee adopted a new postal rate schedule, sharply reducing the administration's recommediations for increases and second class mail.

The new rate bill, including also provisions for a $68,000,000 salary increase for postoffice employees, will be reported to the senate late this afternoon. It was drafted as a compromise to meet the storm of opposition raised against the new schedules, proposed by the postoffice department, which would have made publishers bear the burden of the salary increases.

Administration leaders hope to substitute the compromise measure for the postal salary bill which President Coolidge vetoed, before the senate reaches a scheduled vote on it next Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—A temporary increase in postal rates, effective for a single year, appeared today as a compromise solution to the administration's problem of financing the $69,000,000 wage advance to postoffice employees.

Under this plan administration leaders would materially amend the Postoffice Department's new rate schedule in the Sterling bill, which would place the burden of the rate increases upon American Newspapers and Magazines. The compromise would sharply reduce the department's recommendations for increases on second class rates, which apply to newspapers and publications.

Plan To Study Problem.

This action was virtually decided upon by administration leaders because of the great opposition levelled at the department's schedule by publishers and other users of the mails. The condemnation convinced administration leaders that the Sterling rates could never be enacted into law. Senator Moses, Republican of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate committee in charge of the bill, proposed the compromise.

"I believe that any changes in postal rates at this time should be of temporary character," said Moses. "Congress should initiate an investigation of the whole rate structure before making any permanent changes. That is why I offered a compromise plan, which could be adopted to provide increased revenues to meet the pay increases, for the coming year.

"Permanent changes could be made by the next Congress after sufficient time has been allowed for a thorough study of rate structure."

Consider Compromise.

The Moses plan incidentally would meet one of the chief objections raised by publishers which was that they had not had enough time to study the Sterling bill. They also contended the Sterling rates did not take into consideration the "problem of public service," for which the postoffice department was founded.

The senate postoffice committee met today to study the Moses compromise and to draft a report on the Sterling bill. Its work was hurried at the request of administration leaders, who want the omnibus measure reported to the senate by Monday so an effort can be made to substitute it for the postal pay bill, vetoed last spring by President Coolidge. Under an agreement, the senate votes next Tuesday on the question of overriding the veto, but if the substitution is made the president has indicated he will approve the pay increases because congress will have provided the additional revenue.

STONE OUSTS DEFIANT AIDE

The women were discovered a few minutes later by Mathias Rudibaugh, who resides on the Georgetown road, as he was enroute to Lisbon. To avert striking the women, who were lying in the road, Rudibaugh ditched his car, putting it out of running order. He assisted the two women to their homes where they were attended by Dr. Hugh Maxwell, of Lisbon. ORDER ARREST OF MOTORISTS WHO FAIL TO HEED WARNING

Drivers Must Halt at Intersections of Streets.

ONE-WAY EDICT

Accidents Increased in 1924, Says Chief McDermott.

Declaring that 1924 had been a record-breaking year for automobile accidents in East Liverpool, Chief of Police McDermott today declared war on traffic violators.

Police have been instructed to enforce the one-way street regulations, as provided in the newly enacted traffic ordinance and also arrest motorists who fail to halt at street intersections. Cars parked in the restricted acreas will also be "tagged."

Traffic Hazards.

"East Liverpool is one of the worst cities in the state for traffic hazards," the chief said. "A man is taking his own life in his hands when he attempts to cross the busy street intersection because of careless drivers.

"During the last year there have been more traffic accidents here than in any other year, and we are determined to make the streets safe for the pedestrain as well as the automobile driver. Fully one-third of the machines which are being driven here are ready for the junk pile, and the drivers are not only endangering their own lives but also the lives of others.

"The practice of parking cars on the streets night and day must cease. Some automobile owners have no garages and permit their machines to stand on the streets 24 hours per day. These machines will be towed to garages in the future at the expense of the owners."

One-Way Streets.

One-way traffic regulations will be made effective on Washington street, between Fourth and Sixth street. Cars parked on the west side of this street must be backed into the curb instead of heading in. Automobiles parked in the wrong manner on this street will be "tagged" and the owners notified to appear before the mayor, the chief declared. Traffic will move in a northerly direction only.

Other one-way thoroughfares include Crook alley, from Fourth to Sixth street, northbound traffic only; Diamond street, from Broadway to Jackson street, westbound traffic only; Peach alley, from Fifth to Sixth street, adjoining Ceramic cafeteria, for northbound traffic only; Potters' alley from St. Clair avenue to Broadway for eastbound traffic only.

Police have been instructed to take the license numbers of cars which are "tagged" in order to make certain that the offenders appear in police court.

The department head also warned that no leniency would be shown motorists who have failed to have their brakes and headlights adjusted. It is claimed that less than one-half of the cars in use here have been tested.

The condemnation convinced administration leaders that the Sterling rates could never be enacted into law. Senator Moses, Republican of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate committee in charge of the bill, proposed the compromise.

"I believe that any changes in postal rates at this time should be of temporary character," said Moses. "Congress should initiate an investigation of the whole rate structure before making any permanent changes. That is why I offered a compromise plan, which could be adopted to provide increased revenues to meet the pay increases, for the coming year.

"Permanent changes could be made by the next Congress after sufficient time has been allowed for a thorough study of rate structure."

Consider Compromise.

The Moses plan incidentally would meet one of the chief objections raised by publishers which was that they had not had enough time to study the Sterling bill. They also contended the Sterling rates did not take into consideration the "problem of public service," for which the postoffice department was founded.

The senate postoffice committee met today to study the Moses compromise and to draft a report on the Sterling bill. Its work was hurried at the request of administration leaders, who want the omnibus measure reported to the senate by Monday so an effort can be made to substitute it for the postal pay bill, vetoed last spring by President Coolidge. Under an agreement, the senate votes next Tuesday on the question of overriding the veto, but if the substitution is made the president has indicated he will approve the pay increases because congress will have provided the additional revenue.

FIVE INJURED ON NEW YEAR'S

Three Coasters Hurt—Auto Runs Down Two Women.

Five persons, three of them coasters, were victims of traffic accidents, in East Liverpool and vicinity, yesterday and today.

Billy Reark, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reark, 715 Edwards avenue, and Charles Taylor, seven-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taylor, 951 West Eighth street, were injured when they collided with an automobile while coasting on Division street, shortly after the noon hour New Year's day. The two youngsters, it is claimed, failed to notice the approach of the car.

They were taken to the city hospital where they were attended by Dr. C. R. Larkins. The Reark lad was lacerated about the face and his right knee fractured. His companion sustained lacerations and bruises only. The name of the automobile driver could not be ascertained.

Louis Michel, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Michel, Sixth and Jackson street, was injured about the left leg at 10:30 o'clock this morning when he collided with an automobile at the sharp turn in St. Clair avenue, just north of Walnut street. The lad, coasting down the hill, rolled off his sled to avert striking the car, which was traveling up the hill. The sled was demolished.

Mrs. Florence Gilmore, 42, and her daughter, Leola Gilmore, residing along the Lincoln Highway near Gilmore's stop, were run down by an unidentified motorist while returning from a neighbor's home about 10 o'clock last night. The women claim they were walking along the road on the left side when the machine traveling in the direction of East Liverpool, struck them. The driver failed to halt.

The women were discovered a few minutes later by Mathias Rudibaugh, who resides on the Georgetown road, as he was enroute to Lisbon. To avert striking the women, who were lying in the road, Rudibaugh ditched his car, putting it out of running order. He assisted the two women to their homes where they were attended by Dr. Hugh Maxwell, of Lisbon. Mrs. Gilmore suffered a broken collar bone while her daughter was injured about the lower part of the body.

Cars owned by Elmer Gray, of Ravenna and John Smith, of St. Clair township collided along the Lincoln highway near Lisbon Thursday morning. Both machines were badly damaged, but no one was injured.

Big Ears, Big Feet Are Born, Not Made, Says Scientist

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—Big ears and big feet are born, not made, to paraphrase the language of the scientists who have discovered that heredity and not environments is responsible for the differences in the physicial make up of individuals.

This fact was brought out here today by Dr. Adolph H. Schultz, of the Carnegie Institute, Baltimore, who declared the "trained eye of the anthropologist detects these individual characteristics at a stage in development when the individual is as yet but an inch or so in size."

"The person with unusually large ears," said Dr. Schultz did not acquire this distinctive feature by having his ears pulled by a tyrinical parent but possessed more conspicuous ears than other babies before birth."

ORDER ARREST OF MOTORISTS WHO FAIL TO HEED WARNING

Accidents Increased in 1924, Says Chief McDermott.

Declaring that 1924 had been a record-breaking year for automobile accidents in East Liverpool, Chief of Police McDermott today declared war on traffic violators.

Police have been instructed to enforce the one-way street regulations, as provided in the newly enacted traffic ordinance and also arrest motorists who fail to halt at street intersections. Cars parked in the restricted acreas will also be "tagged."

Traffic Hazards.

"East Liverpool is one of the worst cities in the state for traffic hazards," the chief said. "A man is taking his own life in his hands when he attempts to cross the busy street intersection because of careless drivers.

"During the last year there have been more traffic accidents here than in any other year, and we are determined to make the streets safe for the pedestrain as well as the automobile driver. Fully one-third of the machines which are being driven here are ready for the junk pile, and the drivers are not only endangering their own lives but also the lives of others.

"The practice of parking cars on the streets night and day must cease. Some automobile owners have no garages and permit their machines to stand on the streets 24 hours per day. These machines will be towed to garages in the future at the expense of the owners."

One-Way Streets.

One-way traffic regulations will be made effective on Washington street, between Fourth and Sixth street. Cars parked on the west side of this street must be backed into the curb instead of heading in. Automobiles parked in the wrong manner on this street will be "tagged" and the owners notified to appear before the mayor, the chief declared. Traffic will move in a northerly direction only.

Other one-way thoroughfares include Crook alley, from Fourth to Sixth street, northbound traffic only; Diamond street, from Broadway to Jackson street, westbound traffic only; Peach alley, from Fifth to Sixth street, adjoining Ceramic cafeteria, for northbound traffic only; Potters' alley from St. Clair avenue to Broadway for eastbound traffic only.

Police have been instructed to take the license numbers of cars which are "tagged" in order to make certain that the offenders appear in police court.

The department head also warned that no leniency would be shown motorists who have failed to have their brakes and headlights adjusted. It is claimed that less than one-half of the cars in use here have been tested.

Army Recruiting Service Resumed by Corporal Grossman

Places are now open in the infantry, field artillery and coast artillery on the Hawaiian islands; medical corps at Carlisle barracks, Pa., and for qualified musicians at West Point and Marfa, Texas.

The recruiting office will be maintained in the basement of the postoffice building.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Unhappy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a fellow for the last four years and I love him with all my heart and soul. I have done everything to make him happy. He was away from me for a while. I have found he has been out with other girls and it just breaks my heart. I want to leave him and every one tells me to do so, but I will never be happy without him. He makes me cry all the time. I want to go somewhere and forget him. Do you think a man loves a woman when he goes out with other girls? He never said anything about marrying me. I want a home so badly for I haven't any. Should I ask him if he will ever marry me? I am clean and always neat about myself. He never had me out to his home. I have gone through with so much that I don't want to live any more. I don't care what happens to me now. What should I do? I know he will never find a girl like me for I have been like a mother to him in every way.

BLUE.

My dear, you have worked yourself into a most unfortunate mental state and until you take hold of yourself and get over your blues and tears you cannot hope to hold the love of the man who is causing you so much suffering. Perhaps you have overpowered him with your love and he is getting tired of your devotion. No man likes to feel that his sweetheart is just like a mother to him. In the future let him feel that you are light hearted and happy even if you have to pretend. Don't try to boss him and by no means take offense if he goes out with other girls. He has not asked you to marry him and therefore he is free to go with any girl and as many as he cares to. You, too, are free to go with other young men, and if you have the opportunity I would certainly advise you to do so. Do not ask the young man if he intends to marry you. It is his place to mention the subject. You can do a great deal to bring about a proposal by changing from the unhappy girl you are now into a cheerful, enticing companion. Make it a rule never to show jealousy or to interfere when he shows interest in other girls. The more freedom you give him to do as he pleases, the more apt he is to cling to you. When a man is in love, he rarely cares to go with other girls. Perhaps your friend loves you but thinks he has grown tired of you because of the way you have been acting. Brace up and win back his regard.

No Cause To Worry.

Perplexed: From your husband's point of view he is doing nothing wrong. His recreation is quite harmless in my opinion and will not lead to anything worse. At least you have no cause to worry now and are making a great mistake in opposing him so strenuously and forcing him to disregard your wishes in the matter. When he goes away for an evening every three or four weeks, you ought to be very grateful that he does not return to you drunk and that it is every three or four weeks and not every night that he leaves you.

BROKEN - HEARTED — By all means let the man you love go. He does not love you as you love him or he would want to protect you. Of course it will be hard never to see him again, but unless you take that course your whole life will be broken.

And we'll never miss the typhoid 'til the shallow well is dry.

COUNTY DEEDED HOME FOR TOTS

Pennsy Co. Also Turns Over Land at Yellow Creek.

The Fidelity Title & Trust company of Pittsburgh, executors of the estate of William B. McCullough, who gave to Jefferson county under certain conditions the Jefferson County Children's Home at Yellow Creek, has deeded to the county the 70-acre tract on which the home is located.

The deed was recorded this week and along with it a deed from the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad company to the county, conveying land at Yellow Creek in Saline township.

The deeds are the culmination of a long period of negotiations between the county, the railroad company and the executors of the McCullough estate.

The railroad company contemplates and has planned the building of a "Y" at Yellow Creek to further its freight transportation facilities and to construct it, it was necessary to acquire a new right of way near the children's home.

The county deeds to the railroad company a new right of way and in return the railroad company trades to the county 2 and 601-1000 acres, gives the county $17,500 and agrees to build a new 20-foot macadam road to replace the road which will be vacated, it being located on the plot traded to the railroad company and across which it will build its tracks.

In the course of the dealings between the railroad company and the county commissioners, the former took up the work of attempting to secure for the county a clear title to the home and did so.

The home has been in the hands of the commissioners under certain conditions, but the deed obtained through the efforts of railroad counsel gives the county clear title to the children's home estate and is worded so as to give the county full protection in the future.

Services preparatory to communion Sunday in the Second Presbyterian church will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock, Rev. T. G. Berger, pastor, announced today.

Spitting Spreads Tuberculosis

Of importance, in view of the campaign of the City Federation of Women's Clubs here against the spread of tuberculosis, in which financial aid was sought through the sale of health seals, it is interesting to note the comment of a public health officer on expectoration.

Says the official: "If we can get folks not to spit, we will have the fight on the white plague won. It is not a pleasant thing to discuss, but neither is the disease."

Other factors in the struggle against tuberculosis are fairly under control. Physicians have learned the essential things about diet, fresh air and adequate rest to prevent the disease from appearing in most cases, or overcome it when it has appeared. And such knowledge is pretty well spread among the public. But there remains always the danger of unnecessary infection with tubercular germs. Such infection is probably spread more by careless expectoration than in any other way. There are a surprisingly large number of otherwise intelligent persons who persist in acting as if disease germs did not exist. And although America has improved in this respect, since Dickens accused the nation of universal spitting in public, it is shocking how many persons still cling to that unclean and dangerous habit.

A sign observed in a postoffice reads: "If you spit on the flor at home, by all means do so here. We want you to feel at home. But remember that it spreads disease." It might be a good thing to plaster the whole country with that sign. For there are not many who spit on their floors at home or who want to spread disease.

Why Not Summer Woolens?

If furs were used only for warmth, there would be little fear of exterminating the wild creatures from which they are taken. The region in which fur garments are essential is small compared with the rest of the world.

But furs are worn in most parts of the United States primarily for ornament. Dress trimmings, evening wraps of fur, cuffs and collars of fur on winter coats, are all sheer luxury. Indulgence in this luxury is likely to end, in time, in the disappearance of the fur-bearing creatures.

According to the government taxidermist at Victoria museum in Ottowa, Ont., the summer fur is the least justified of all milady's furs. If the summer fur is not soon barred, he maintains, the fur-bearers cannot be protected. "There should be a closed season for fur neckpieces," and no season seems more suitable for closing in this way than summer in the temperate zone.

This taxidermist suggests that women try summer woolens as a substitute for summer furs. Such a fad wouldn't put an end to wool production, because the domestic sheep supply can be made practically unlimited.

"Summer woolens!" one can imagine a chorus of ladies saying, and shuddering as they say it. "How silly!" But why any sillier than summer furs?

Mrs. Mary Clark, riding with her family in an automobile on Christmas night, was knocked out of the car by a collision with a Big Four express train near Oakland, Ind., and was caught on the "cow-catcher" and carried onward in the darkness, without the engineer knowing what had happened.

She clung to the pilot until at last the bitter cold forced her to relax her hold and she fell off, unconscious, about 20 miles from the scene of the accident. She was picked up, only slightly injured, by a passing farmer ,and is little the worse for her experience.

In the movies that would be "impossible melodrama." But in life, nothing is impossible. Life itself is the great moving picture.

Ibanez, the novelist, may be foolish to tilt at kings and dictators, but he is wise enough not to accept duel challenges sent him by men who can't argue any other way.

MR. WARFIELD'S PLAN

S. Davies Warfield, president of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, plans an increase in profits for railroads and better freight service for the public through common sense consolidation of box car service.

There are in the country 1,100,000 ordinary box cars owned by the different railroads. The life of these cars is wasted in being hauled back and forth, operated on sidings, empty. Mr. Warfield suggests a central agency to handle cars for the benefit of all railsoads and all carrying business. That would be legal under the plan that Mr. Warfield suggests. It couldn't be accomplished otherwise, except by putting all railroads into one great consolidation. That doubtless will come.

KILL POTATO BUGS

Britain forbids importation of United States potatoes; too many potato bugs. Canada also has potato bugs, but Canadian potatoes are not shut out.

Secretary Hughes' protest calls for equal treatment from Great Britain that potato bugs within the empire have important redeeming qualities.

The British empire takes care of the British empire, and all inside it. Therein, it differs from some of our mushy imitation statesmen, everlastingly worrying about outside nations.

Why not take a few of the millions we lavish on foreign countries and use them to kill off systematically all potato bugs, mosquitoes and such enemies. If cattle ticks can be killed off, why not other pests? How many billions would it be worth to get rid of flies, potato bugs and mosquitoes?

What would that mean to the public health?

QUEER JUSTICE

Justice works in her own queer way. The distinguished prize fighter, "Kid" McCoy, in private life Norman Selby, was accused of murdering a woman. A bullet went into the back of her head. He says she killed herself. The prosecutor says he killed her and planned to kill her.

The jury brings in a verdict of manslaughter, in spite of the fact that it was either murder or not murder. "Kid" McCoy, now safe from hanging, at all events, will appeal and can only be convicted of manslaughter.

Judging by recent juries it will probably be decided that he has "suffered enough" and he'll get off.

SNAKES ON STOCKINGS

Ladies in Berlin wear snakes embroidered on their stockings, and golden snakes for garters. It's eccentric, but based on gratitude. Ladies would not have any stockings but, perhaps, for the original snake, that walked on the tip of his tail until sentenced.

Woman, the restless element in humanity, is certainly working out some important step in evolution, and no one should presumptuously judge her.

Collins, chief of police in Chicago, says there are 93,000 men out of work in the city, and predicts "more crime" where there is already plenty. It might be cheaper to find work for men, instead of waiting to find prison room for them.

The trouble is that it's paternalism, almost socialism, to suggest creating government jobs, whereas it is quite all right to give the man free board in prison, after he has started as a criminal.

To discourage crime might seem unfair to lawyers. The gentlemen who saved Leopold and Loeb from the gallows have been paid $150,000 for their work. It was worth it to the parents. They kept hangings out of the family record, so far as is known.

The doctors got even more money than the lawyers. It's worth more to swear that a murderer is crazy than merely to tell the judge that the murderer is innocent.

DINNER STORIES

The story that follows is told at the expense of both Horace Greeley and Henry Watterson, but Greeley really appears to have inspired it.

Greeley's handwriting was the worst ever seen even in a newspaper office, unless it was Watterson's.

There was only one compositor in the Tribune office who could read Greeley's copy. One day while the compositor was out a bird had flown into the office, walked into some printing ink and then on a number of loose sheets lying on the floor, the story goes.

"Why,' said one of the printers, picking up a sheet, "this looks like the old man's writing." So saying, he fastened the sheets together and put them on the absent compositor's case.

Presently the compositor came back and with all eyes turned on his picked up the sheets and to the amazement of the room started setting up the supposed "copy."

Presently, however, he hesitated at a word and asked the man nearest him what it was.

"How should I know?" was the reply. "You know that you alone can read the old man's writing. Better ask him."

Reluctantly the baffled compositor took the sheet to Greeley's sanctum.

"Well," said the great man, "what is it?"

"It's this word, Mr. Greeley."

Greeley snatched the sheet from the man's hand, looked at the alleged word and threw himself back with a snort of disgust. "Why," he shouted, "any fool could see what it is! It's 'unconstitutional.'"

Colonel Tilford Huston, once 50-50 owner of the Yankees with Colonel Jake Ruppert, sat on a restaurant stool one day when a youngster at his elbow introduced himself. He said he had been in the colonel's regiment over in France.

"I'm the guy," said he, "who ran Frenchy out of the cookhouse. He said I was going to kill him."

The colonel did not remember the event.

"What did I say?" he asked.

"You says," replied the ex-roughboy, "'Frenchy, go on back and git killed.'

"And there wasn't any fight."

Two brothers were being entertained by a rich friend. As ill luck would have it, the talk drifted away from ordinary topics.

"Do you like Omar Khayyam?" thoughtlessly asked the host, trying to make conversation. The elder brother plunged heroically into the breach.

"Pretty well," he said, "but I prefer Chianti."

Nothing more was said on this subject until the brothers were on their way home.

"Bill," said the younger brother, breaking a painful silence, "why can't you leave things that you don't understand to me? Omar Khayyam ain't a wine, you chump; it's a cheese."

A farmer, who indulged in sprees, was observed in his Sunday clothes throwing five bushels of corn on the ear into the pen where he kept a half a dozen hogs, and he was heard to mutter:

"Thar, blast ye! if ye're prudent, that orter last ye."

An ancient car chugged painfully up to the gate at the races.

The gatekeeper demanding the usual fee for automobiles, called:

"A dollar for the car."

"Sold."

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

PARIS, Jan. 2.—Portia is a common sight in Paris, where the courts of justice are accustomed to women in sombre black robes, with white frills, carrying brief cases under their arms. More than two hundred women have been added to the Paris bar in the last 20 years, and some 20 or 30 of them already have become well-known figures at the palace of justice. Nearly all of the pretty lawyers are young. Madame Lucille Tinayre, the daughter of the famous writer, at the age of 25, has attained greater recognition than any other woman of the French bar, except, of course, Madame Marie Verone, the veteran of the palace of justice. Madame Verone is heard most often in the children's court. Madame Mirelpolska, a Pole, is one of the most brilliant pleaders, as is Madame Suzanne Grimberg, wife, mother and lawyer. Little by little the public is becoming accustomed to French heels and curls around the venerable old law courts.

Twenty-five thousand francs has been awarded by the Academie Francaise to Madame Dubreil, the mother of 10 living children, including quadruplets, who bear the names Raymond, George, Elizabeth and Alexandra, after the illustrious godparents, President Poincare, King George of England, Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians and Empress Alexandra of Russia.

A restaurant built with an elastic floor will be one of the greatest novelties at the exhibition of Decorative Arts in 1925, for which elaborate preparations are now being made. The restaurant will be of special material, with a certain space reserved for dancing, and will be lighted from underneath. The tables and chairs will be set upon two platforms, turning in concentric fashion, not fast enough to make one dizzy, with the result of bringing each table alongside another. The little switchboard railway will be much longer than the one seen at Wembley this summer, and the cars will run at a speed of 60 miles an hour.

The family will not wear "mourning." This is the latest decision made by the Swiss, who find that a death in the family causes too many expenditures. Steps are being taken to curtail a few. To have old garments dyed black costs four times what it did before the war. To buy new ones makes a huge hole in the budget. The conclusion is that it is all unnecessary—this wearing of one's heart upon the sleeve. Now the funeral notices will not only read: "Now flowers or wreaths," but, also, "The family will wear no mourning."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Women in line to buy prize fight tickets. A movie studio. Tangled scenery and glaring lights. And always an orchestra to inspire the actors. There's Alan Dwan with a megaphone.

An old German cafe now an undertaking parlor. A full lipped and wise eyed movie star carrying a cane. She used to cry "Cash" in a five and ten. Now she poses as a Spanish noblewoman. How much is a widow's mite? There goes my hat again.

Three mental-rest-cures in a block. And the little shop where for 20 years an old man has been trying to urn carbon into diamonds. Winnie Sheehan and his ponderous car and a place where they make dummies for ventriloquists.

Lounging groups at the Palace. Gaudy paterned overcoats. Hats with tiny flaming feathers. And empty pockets. A swivel chaired lunch where you may read books as you eat. Butterflies beating frail wings against the winter.

Today an extra. Tomorrow a star. And vice versa. Boarding mouse window ledges. White jars. Muds and ointments. The futile cosmetic battle against age. A pawn broker district. Where men seem to have ice water in their veins.

The frightened bleat of an auto struck dog. Wiggles a little. And is lifeless. Poor little fellow. Now my day is ruined. The fringe of Hell's Kitchen. A few queer old peak-roofed houses. And little pen like yards. Where children shrink from passersby.

The smell of gas houses. Big dray horses. Men with bulging shoulders and undershot jaws. Never was a district so aptly named. And it's no place for a dude cop. Fire sales. Cheap jewelry auctions. Raw meat sandwich stands. And now for a fast walk home.

The Green Room club gave a dinner the other evening to honor Percy Hammond, the dramatic critic, and Jack Lait, recently made managing editor of the American. Both are from Chicago. One speaker said he was in Chicago recently and a group of newspapermen asked if it were true that Hammond was New York's highest paid critic and Lait a managing editor. He affirmed the report. "Funny," said the questioner, "they were driven out of Chicago by the ornithorynchi." And looking it up in the dictionary the speaker found it was a beast with a bill. Another speaker said he had understood that Chicago named "The Loop" after Hammond and Lait. And added: "They got the idea watching them go home in the early morning."

The old homes on lower Fifth avenue are giving way to ornate apartment houses. The section has failed ingloriously to halt the onslaught of the three room and bath. Ten of the old mansions where fine old families still retained their horse-drawn carriages for afternoon drives uptown have been torn down.

H. T. Webster, the cartoonist, says that when he was a boy his ambition was to be a cook stove namer. Another pleasant and similar task it seems to me, would be to name new apartment houses. In a block one sees such names as "Beverly Court," "Sheldon Arms," "Roosevelt Terrace," "Hildonia," "The Hillcrest" and the like.

WHO'S WHO

FREDERICK HUNTINGTON GILLETT.

When President Coolidge was only a member of the Massachusetts legislature, Frederick Huntington Gillett, of Springfield, who will enter the United States senate March 4, was in congress and a Republican power in his state. He was first elected to the house of representatives in 1892, and he was re-elected every two years until this fall, when he was successful candidate for the upper house. He was eminent in that body as its best bridge player until six years ago he added to that distinction the speakership.

F. H. Gillett.

Seventy-three years old, he is a thin little man whose voice has the same quality that President Coolidge's has. Like the president he was graduated from Amherst college, and is the only alumnus ever to address that body in a dinner coat and tan shoes.

Following graduation from Amherst college with the degrees of A. B. and M. A., Gillett attended the Harvard law school and was admitted to the Springfield, Mass., bar in 1877. From 1879 to 1882 he was assistant attorney general of Massachusetts.

Shortly after his election to the house in 1892 Gillett was offered his life's ambition, a judgeship. The battle to decide for or against was the greatest fight of his career. He decided against it and remained in the house, winning his re-election 15 consecutive times.

THE SPEAKERSHIP PRIZE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—One of the interesting features of the closing weeks of the Sixty-eighth congress is the fight that is being waged for the office of speaker of the house of representatives of the new congress, which will date from March 4, next. Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, and Martin B. Madden, of Illinois, are the contestants. It is a friendly fight, in the sense that the two men are on terms of amity and hold each other in esteem and respect, but the rivalry is none the less intense.

For the speakership of the house is a great prize. It gives the man who attains it tremendous power and influence in national affairs, and along with that go political and social prestige not to be held lightly.

It has long been regarded as a stepping stone to the presidency, although, singularly enough, with one exception, a speaker has never been able to make the next big step. The exception was James K. Polk, of Tennessee, who was speaker during the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth congresses.

Henry Clay, James G. Blain, Thomas B. Reed, Joseph G. Cannon and Champ Clark are conspicuous among the speakers who made strong bids for the presidency, but failed to make the grade. Blaine and Clark, one a Republican and the other a Democrat, came nearest attaining the supreme goal of American statesmen. Blaine was nominated by his party, and but for a foolish speech of one of his supporters—the famous "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" utterance of the Rev. Dr. Burchard—in all probability would have been elected.

Clark was the leading candidate of his party when the Democrats assembled in nation convention in 1912 and received more than a maority of the votes of the delegates on several ballots. But he could not secure the two-thirds necessary to a nomination. His old friend, William Jennings Bryan, encompassed his defeat with a speech attacking him as the candidate of Tammany and Wall Street financial interests.

Had Clark been nominated he would undoubtedly have been elected president, for that was the year when Roosevelt and Taft split the Republican forces and the door of the White House was opened wide to a Democrat.

TWO FATEFUL SPEECHES

Thus both Blaine and Clark were thwarted in their ambitions by speeches, and in both instances the speeches were delivered by friends. Burchard was a real friend of Blaine, no matter how indiscreet and erring in judgment he may have been. Bryan, however, was only an erstwhile friend of Clark—one who had received and accepted Clark's support for the presidency in three campaigns, but who was deaf to the call of friendship in Clark's hour of need.

Out of the present situation and contest there may emerge another speaker with White House aspirations and possibilities. Madden cannot be regarded as a prospective presidential candidate, whether or not he becomes the presiding officer of the lower branch of congress, for the very good reason that he was born in England, but Longworth is rated as a probable candidate.

Given the power and prestige of the speakership and a successful administration of that office, Ohio may present him as her candidate to succeed President Coolidge in the election of 1928. Madden might be eliminated by the age factor, if not by the accident of birth, since he will be 70 years old next March, and four years more would put him beyond the age of men who are nominated and elected to the presidency.

Longworth, however, will celebrate his fifty-ninth birthday just about the time voters are going to the polls in 1928. Ohio has a live presidential possibility for 1928, on the Democratic side of the political fence, in the person of Governor Vic Donahey, and as a state that insists upon mothering presidents she may insist on furnishing both the Republican and Democratic nominees four years hence, as she did in 1920 when Warren G. Harding and James M. Cox were the standard bearers of their respective parties.

Time was—in fact, it was for almost 95 years—when the speakership was a real stepping stone to the presidency. Under the statute of March 1, 1792, it was provided that in case of the removal, death, resignation, or inability of both the president and vice president, the first in line for the succession to the White House should be the president of the senate, or, if there should be none, the speaker of the house for the time being should act as president until the disability should be removed or a president should be elected.

CHANGED IN 1886.

That law stood until by the act of January 19, 1886, congress provided for the succession to the presidency through the secretary of state and other members of the cabinet down to and including the secretary of the interior.

The contingency provided for, and which might have brought a speaker direct from the capitol to the executive offices at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue, never occurred. This is said to have been fortunate for the country, because there were grave doubts as to the constitutionality of the law which remained in force for almost a century. If a situation has been presented in which a president of the senate or a speaker might have been in line for the presidency the succession of either might have been seriously contested.

The basis for such a contest would have been found in the fact that the constitution says that congress may provide by law what "officer" shall act as president in case both the president and vice president have been eliminated. The question would have been raised, doubtless, whether the word "officer" as used in the constitution did not mean an officer of the United States, and, if so, whether the president of the senate and the speaker of the house are such officers or are only representatives of states or the people, chosen by the two branches of congress to preside over their deliberations.

There have been 68 congresses and 36 speakers. The new congress will be the sixty-ninth, and the new speager the thirty-seventh. The discrepancy is due, of course, to the fact that in many cases the same man has been re-elected speaker one or more times.

Of the 36 speakers the house has had, five were representatives from Massachusetts, three from Indiana, two from New Jersey, two from South Carolina, two from Georgia, two from Maine, two from Tennessee and one each from Connecticut, North Carolina, New York, Ohio, Iowa, Illinois and Missouri.

Henry Clay, of Kentucky, held the speakership longer than any other man, having been elected to the office six times. Clay did not, however, serve six full terms, as he resigned from the office twice before the expiration of the congresses for which he had been chosen.

In the present situation it is interesting to note that the states of the two candidates have each had he speakership once; both Longworth and Madden represent the First congressional districts of their states, and both have served the same length of time in congress—20 years. Longworth got a two-years' start on Madden, having been first elected to the Fifty-eighth congress, while the Illinoisan first won his seat in the Fifty-ninth. Longworth dropped out one congress, the Sixty-third, however, while Madden has served continuously.

Both are popular, able and hard working members, and so regarded by their colleagues on both sides of the house.

Spitting Spreads Tuberculosis

Of importance, in view of the campaign of the City Federation of Women's Clubs here against the spread of tuberculosis, in which financial aid was sought through the sale of health seals, it is interesting to note the comment of a public health officer on expectoration.

Says the official: "If we can get folks not to spit, we will have the fight on the white plague won. It is not a pleasant thing to discuss, but neither is the disease."

Other factors in the struggle against tuberculosis are fairly under control. Physicians have learned the essential things about diet, fresh air and adequate rest to prevent the disease from appearing in most cases, or overcome it when it has appeared. And such knowledge is pretty well spread among the public. But there remains always the danger of unnecessary infection with tubercular germs. Such infection is probably spread more by careless expectoration than in any other way. There are a surprisingly large number of otherwise intelligent persons who persist in acting as if disease germs did not exist. And although America has improved in this respect, since Dickens accused the nation of universal spitting in public, it is shocking how many persons still cling to that unclean and dangerous habit.

A sign observed in a postoffice reads: "If you spit on the flor at home, by all means do so here. We want you to feel at home. But remember that it spreads disease." It might be a good thing to plaster the whole country with that sign. For there are not many who spit on their floors at home or who want to spread disease.

Why Not Summer Woolens?

If furs were used only for warmth, there would be little fear of exterminating the wild creatures from which they are taken. The region in which fur garments are essential is small compared with the rest of the world.

But furs are worn in most parts of the United States primarily for ornament. Dress trimmings, evening wraps of fur, cuffs and collars of fur on winter coats, are all sheer luxury. Indulgence in this luxury is likely to end, in time, in the disappearance of the fur-bearing creatures.

According to the government taxidermist at Victoria museum in Ottowa, Ont., the summer fur is the least justified of all milady's furs. If the summer fur is not soon barred, he maintains, the fur-bearers cannot be protected. "There should be a closed season for fur neckpieces," and no season seems more suitable for closing in this way than summer in the temperate zone.

This taxidermist suggests that women try summer woolens as a substitute for summer furs. Such a fad wouldn't put an end to wool production, because the domestic sheep supply can be made practically unlimited.

"Summer woolens!" one can imagine a chorus of ladies saying, and shuddering as they say it. "How silly!" But why any sillier than summer furs?

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All The Trains

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

PARIS, Jan. 2.—Portia is a common sight in Paris, where the courts of justice are accustomed to women in sombre black robes, with white frills, carrying brief cases under their arms. More than two hundred women have been added to the Paris bar in the last 20 years, and some 20 or 30 of them already have become well-known figures at the palace of justice. Nearly all of the pretty lawyers are young. Madame Lucille Tinayre, the daughter of the famous writer, at the age of 25, has attained greater recognition than any other woman of the French bar, except, of course, Madame Marie Verone, the veteran of the palace of justice. Madame Verone is heard most often in the children's court. Madame Mirelpolska, a Pole, is one of the most brilliant pleaders, as is Madame Suzanne Grimberg, wife, mother and lawyer. Little by little the public is becoming accustomed to French heels and curls around the venerable old law courts.

Twenty-five thousand francs has been awarded by the Academie Francaise to Madame Dubreil, the mother of 10 living children, including quadruplets, who bear the names Raymond, George, Elizabeth and Alexandra, after the illustrious godparents, President Poincare, King George of England, Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians and Empress Alexandra of Russia.

A restaurant built with an elastic floor will be one of the greatest novelties at the exhibition of Decorative Arts in 1925, for which elaborate preparations are now being made. The restaurant will be of special material, with a certain space reserved for dancing, and will be lighted from underneath. The tables and chairs will be set upon two platforms, turning in concentric fashion, not fast enough to make one dizzy, with the result of bringing each table alongside another. The little switchboard railway will be much longer than the one seen at Wembley this summer, and the cars will run at a speed of 60 miles an hour.

The family will not wear "mourning." This is the latest decision made by the Swiss, who find that a death in the family causes too many expenditures. Steps are being taken to curtail a few. To have old garments dyed black costs four times what it did before the war. To buy new ones makes a huge hole in the budget. The conclusion is that it is all unnecessary—this wearing of one's heart upon the sleeve. Now the funeral notices will not only read: "Now flowers or wreaths," but, also, "The family will wear no mourning."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Women in line to buy prize fight tickets. A movie studio. Tangled scenery and glaring lights. And always an orchestra to inspire the actors. There's Alan Dwan with a megaphone.

An old German cafe now an undertaking parlor. A full lipped and wise eyed movie star carrying a cane. She used to cry "Cash" in a five and ten. Now she poses as a Spanish noblewoman. How much is a widow's mite? There goes my hat again.

Three mental-rest-cures in a block. And the little shop where for 20 years an old man has been trying to urn carbon into diamonds. Winnie Sheehan and his ponderous car and a place where they make dummies for ventriloquists.

Lounging groups at the Palace. Gaudy paterned overcoats. Hats with tiny flaming feathers. And empty pockets. A swivel chaired lunch where you may read books as you eat. Butterflies beating frail wings against the winter.

Today an extra. Tomorrow a star. And vice versa. Boarding mouse window ledges. White jars. Muds and ointments. The futile cosmetic battle against age. A pawn broker district. Where men seem to have ice water in their veins.

The frightened bleat of an auto struck dog. Wiggles a little. And is lifeless. Poor little fellow. Now my day is ruined. The fringe of Hell's Kitchen. A few queer old peak-roofed houses. And little pen like yards. Where children shrink from passersby.

The smell of gas houses. Big dray horses. Men with bulging shoulders and undershot jaws. Never was a district so aptly named. And it's no place for a dude cop. Fire sales. Cheap jewelry auctions. Raw meat sandwich stands. And now for a fast walk home.

The Green Room club gave a dinner the other evening to honor Percy Hammond, the dramatic critic, and Jack Lait, recently made managing editor of the American. Both are from Chicago. One speaker said he was in Chicago recently and a group of newspapermen asked if it were true that Hammond was New York's highest paid critic and Lait a managing editor. He affirmed the report. "Funny," said the questioner, "they were driven out of Chicago by the ornithorynchi." And looking it up in the dictionary the speaker found it was a beast with a bill. Another speaker said he had understood that Chicago named "The Loop" after Hammond and Lait. And added: "They got the idea watching them go home in the early morning."

The old homes on lower Fifth avenue are giving way to ornate apartment houses. The section has failed ingloriously to halt the onslaught of the three room and bath. Ten of the old mansions where fine old families still retained their horse-drawn carriages for afternoon drives uptown have been torn down.

H. T. Webster, the cartoonist, says that when he was a boy his ambition was to be a cook stove namer. Another pleasant and similar task it seems to me, would be to name new apartment houses. In a block one sees such names as "Beverly Court," "Sheldon Arms," "Roosevelt Terrace," "Hildonia," "The Hillcrest" and the like.

WHO'S WHO

FREDERICK HUNTINGTON GILLETT.

When President Coolidge was only a member of the Massachusetts legislature, Frederick Huntington Gillett, of Springfield, who will enter the United States senate March 4, was in congress and a Republican power in his state. He was first elected to the house of representatives in 1892, and he was re-elected every two years until this fall, when he was successful candidate for the upper house. He was eminent in that body as its best bridge player, until six years ago he added to that distinction the speakership.

F. H. Gillett.

Seventy-three years old, he is a thin little man whose voice has the same quality that President Coolidge's has. Like the president he was graduated from Amherst college, and is the only alumnus ever to address that body in a dinner coat and tan shoes.

Following graduation from Amherst college with the degrees of A. B. and M. A., Gillett attended the Harvard law school and was admitted to the Springfield, Mass., bar in 1877. From 1879 to 1882 he was assistant attorney general of Massachusetts.

Shortly after his election to the house in 1892 Gillett was offered his life's ambition, a judgeship.

THE SPEAKERSHIP PRIZE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—One of the interesting features of the closing weeks of the Sixty-eighth congress is the fight that is being waged for the office of speaker of the house of representatives of the new congress, which will date from March 4, next. Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, and Martin B. Madden, of Illinois, are the contestants. It is a friendly fight, in the sense that the two men are on terms of amity and hold each other in esteem and respect, but the rivalry is none the less intense.

For the speakership of the house is a great prize. It gives the man who attains it tremendous power and influence in national affairs, and along with that go political and social prestige not to be held lightly.

It has long been regarded as a stepping stone to the presidency, although, singularly enough, with one exception, a speaker has never been able to make the next big step. The exception was James K. Polk, of Tennessee, who was speaker during the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth congresses.

Henry Clay, James G. Blain, Thomas B. Reed, Joseph G. Cannon and Champ Clark are conspicuous among the speakers who made strong bids for the presidency, but failed to make the grade. Blaine and Clark, one a Republican and the other a Democrat, came nearest attaining the supreme goal of American statesmen. Blaine was nominated by his party, and but for a foolish speech of one of his supporters—the famous "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" utterance of the Rev. Dr. Burchard—in all probability would have been elected.

Clark was the leading candidate of his party when the Democrats assembled in nation convention in 1912 and received more than a majority of the votes of the delegates on several ballots. But he could not secure the two-thirds necessary to a nomination. His old friend, William Jennings Bryan, encompassed his defeat with a speech attacking him as the candidate of Tammany and Wall Street financial interests.

Had Clark been nominated he would undoubtedly have been elected president, for that was the year when Roosevelt and Taft split the Republican forces and the door of the White House was opened wide to a Democrat.

TWO FATEFUL SPEECHES

Thus both Blaine and Clark were thwarted in their ambitions by speeches, and in both instances the speeches were delivered by friends. Burchard was a real friend of Blaine, no matter how indiscreet and erring in judgment he may have been. Bryan, however, was only an erstwhile friend of Clark—one who had received and accepted Clark's support for the presidency in three campaigns, but who was deaf to the call of friendship in Clark's hour of need.

Out of the present situation and contest there may emerge another speaker with White House aspirations and possibilities. Madden cannot be regarded as a prospective presidential candidate, whether or not he becomes the presiding officer of the lower branch of congress, for the very good reason that he was born in England, but Longworth is rated as a probable candidate.

Given the power and prestige of the speakership and a successful administration of that office, Ohio may present him as her candidate to succeed President Coolidge in the election of 1928. Madden might be eliminated by the age factor, if not by the accident of birth, since he will be 70 years old next March, and four years more would put him beyond the age of men who are nominated and elected to the presidency.

Longworth, however, will celebrate his fifty-ninth birthday just about the time voters are going to the polls in 1928. Ohio has a live presidential possibility for 1928, on the Democratic side of the political fence, in the person of Governor Vic Donahey, and as a state that insists upon mothering presidents she may insist on furnishing both the Republican and Democratic nominees four years hence, as she did in 1920 when Warren G. Harding and James M. Cox were the standard bearers of their respective parties.

Time was—in fact, it was for almost 95 years—when the speakership was a real stepping stone to the presidency. Under the statute of March 1, 1792, it was provided that in case of the removal, death, resignation, or inability of both the president and vice president, the first in line for the succession to the White House should be the president of the senate, or, if there should be none, the speaker of the house for the time being should act as president until the disability should be removed or a president should be elected.

CHANGED IN 1886.

That law stood until by the act of January 19, 1886, congress provided for the succession to the presidency through the secretary of state and other members of the cabinet down to and including the secretary of the interior.

The contingency provided for, and which might have brought a speaker direct from the capitol to the executive offices at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue, never occurred. This is said to have been fortunate for the country, because there were grave doubts as to the constitutionality of the law which remained in force for almost a century. If a situation has been presented in which a president of the senate or a speaker might have been in line for the presidency the succession of either might have been seriously contested.

The basis for such a contest would have been found in the fact that the constitution says that congress may provide by law what "officer" shall act as president in case both the president and vice president have been eliminated. The question would have been raised, doubtless, whether the word "officer" as used in the constitution did not mean an officer of the United States, and, if so, whether the president of the senate and the speaker of the house are such officers or are only representatives of states or the people, chosen by the two branches of congress to preside over their deliberations.

There have been 68 congresses and 36 speakers. The new congress will be the sixty-ninth, and the new speager the thirty-seventh. The discrepancy is due, of course, to the fact that in many cases the same man has been re-elected speaker one or more times.

Of the 36 speakers the house has had, five were representatives from Massachusetts, three from Indiana, two from New Jersey, two from South Carolina, two from Georgia, two from Maine, two from Tennessee and one each from Connecticut, North Carolina, New York, Ohio, Iowa, Illinois and Missouri.

Henry Clay, of Kentucky, held the speakership longer than any other man, having been elected to the office six times. Clay did not, however, serve six full terms, as he resigned from the office twice before the expiration of the congresses for which he had been chosen.

In the present situation it is interesting to note that the states of the two candidates have each had he speakership once; both Longworth and Madden represent the First congressional districts of their states, and both have served the same length of time in congress—20 years. Longworth got a two-years' start on Madden, having been first elected to the Fifty-eighth congress, while the Illinoisan first won his seat in the Fifty-ninth. Longworth dropped out one congress, the Sixty-third, however, while Madden has served continuously.

Both are popular, able and hard working members, and so regarded by their colleagues on both sides of the house.

The battle to decide for or against was the greatest fight of his career. He decided against it and remained in the house, winning his re-election 15 consecutive times.

SOCIETY

Camp Rest Dance Pavilion, Glenmoor, Will Open Tonight

A new dance pavilion, located at Camp Rest, in St. Clair township along the Y. & O. railroad and close to the Lincoln highway, will be formally opened tonight under the management of Daniel Morgan.

Dances will be conducted semi-weekly—Tuesday and Friday evening. Dorsey Mann's Swanee Serenaders will furnish the music. The floor measures 40x60 feet and contains checking and refreshment stands. It is so constructed that the sides can be opened during the summer months.

Erection of approximately 100 cottages on the camp site, consisting of 20 acres, will begin early in March. The cottages will contain two, three and four rooms each. An artificial lake for bathing, boating and fishing privileges will also be constructed during the coming season.

The Y. & O. railroad officials have established a separate stop along their line at the camp. The station, which is the second north of Stop 55, will be known as the Woodmen's Stop.

The camp is to be incorporated under the laws of Ohio this spring, with a capitalization of $50,000. The camp is owned and controlled by members of the Modern Woodmen of America.

180 Couples at Elks' Dance.

With approximately 180 couples in attendance, the Elks' New Year's eve dance proved one of the most successful affairs of its kind in the B. P. O. E. lodge in recent years.

The Seven Syncopating Sirens, feminine musicians of Youngstown, provided a varied program of music and song. Dancing started at 10 o'clock and continued until 3 a. m.

Following a thunder and lightning introduction, "Father Time," emulated by Christy Stewart, in becoming costume, appeared before the dancers at the stroke of 12 to bid adieu to the departing year and to welcome the incoming 1925.

Immediately following came the grand march, led by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Davis.

Thereafter, the program provided a succession of features, in which novel electrical designs were brought into use with brilliant effect, including the dance of the snow, confetti dance, spotlight dances, and other numbers.

Appropriate decorations were used throughout the ball room, an abundance of laurel, holly wreaths and bells suggesting the season. Spotlights played from the four corners of the room and the balcony.

Iodine Salt in Switzerland

More than 700,000 inhabitants of Switzerland are using "Standard Salt" daily according to a bulletin recently issued by Dr. H. Eggenberger, chairman of the Red Cross "sektion" in that country. This is ordinary kitchen salt containing a small quantity of iodine.

For many years Switzerland health authorities fought goiter in the schools by feeding the children chocolate tablets containing iodine.

In the Canton Appenzella about 40,000 persons have used the "Standard Salt" continuously for two years. According to the bulletin results were best with infants. Owing to the use of Standard Salt by prospective mothers no babies were born with goiter. Before there were 50 per cent of new borns who showed thyroid enlargement.

In adults no new goiter appeared and existing goiters were arrested in their development.

The frequency of operations for goiter diminished by 75 per cent during the two years. Many medical measurements showed that in young individuals goiter decreased slowly in size and many of the older cases became smaller.

The bulletin concludes with the statement that "Standard Salt will free Switzerland and other countries from goiter and Cretinism".

American health authorities have been paying close attention to the work being done to stamp out goiter in Switzerland. What is known in this country as Iodine Salt, which was placed on sale in grocery stores less than a year ago at the request of health officials, is practically the same article that the Swiss people have been using since 1922.

Mulkey's Iodine Salt was produced, as a goiter preventive, at the request of Health Authorities in Michigan. Also note the "Certificate of approval" on label.

It is to be used in all food instead of ordinary salt.

Camp Rest Dance Pavilion, Glenmoor, Will Open Tonight

A new dance pavilion, located at Camp Rest, in St. Clair township along the Y. & O. railroad and close to the Lincoln highway, will be formally opened tonight under the management of Daniel Morgan.

Dances will be conducted semi-weekly—Tuesday and Friday evening. Dorsey Mann's Swanee Serenaders will furnish the music. The floor measures 40x60 feet and contains checking and refreshment stands. It is so constructed that the sides can be opened during the summer months.

Erection of approximately 100 cottages on the camp site, consisting of 20 acres, will begin early in March. The cottages will contain two, three and four rooms each. An artificial lake for bathing, boating and fishing privileges will also be constructed during the coming season.

The Y. & O. railroad officials have established a separate stop along their line at the camp. The station, which is the second north of Stop 55, will be known as the Woodmen's Stop.

The camp is to be incorporated under the laws of Ohio this spring, with a capitalization of $50,000. The camp is owned and controlled by members of the Modern Woodmen of America.

180 Couples at Elks' Dance.

With approximately 180 couples in attendance, the Elks' New Year's eve dance proved one of the most successful affairs of its kind in the B. P. O. E. lodge in recent years.

The Seven Syncopating Sirens, feminine musicians of Youngstown, provided a varied program of music and song. Dancing started at 10 o'clock and continued until 3 a. m.

Following a thunder and lightning introduction, "Father Time," emulated by Christy Stewart, in becoming costume, appeared before the dancers at the stroke of 12 to bid adieu to the departing year and to welcome the incoming 1925.

Immediately following came the grand march, led by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Davis.

Thereafter, the program provided a succession of features, in which novel electrical designs were brought into use with brilliant effect, including the dance of the snow, confetti dance, spotlight dances, and other numbers.

Appropriate decorations were used throughout the ball room, an abundance of laurel, holly wreaths and bells suggesting the season. Spotlights played from the four corners of the room and the balcony.

Lest we forget. Smith's Home Made Bread is still the best. —Adv.

Iodine Salt in Switzerland

More than 700,000 inhabitants of Switzerland are using "Standard Salt" daily according to a bulletin recently issued by Dr. H. Eggenberger, chairman of the Red Cross "sektion" in that country. This is ordinary kitchen salt containing a small quantity of iodine.

For many years Switzerland health authorities fought goiter in the schools by feeding the children chocolate tablets containing iodine.

In the Canton Appenzella about 40,000 persons have used the "Standard Salt" continuously for two years. According to the bulletin results were best with infants. Owing to the use of Standard Salt by prospective mothers no babies were born with goiter. Before there were 50 per cent of new borns who showed thyroid enlargement.

In adults no new goiter appeared and existing goiters were arrested in their development.

The frequency of operations for goiter diminished by 75 per cent during the two years. Many medical measurements showed that in young individuals goiter decreased slowly in size and many of the older cases became smaller.

The bulletin concludes with the statement that "Standard Salt will free Switzerland and other countries from goiter and Cretinism".

American health authorities have been paying close attention to the work being done to stamp out goiter in Switzerland. What is known in this country as Iodine Salt, which was placed on sale in grocery stores less than a year ago at the request of health officials, is practically the same article that the Swiss people have been using since 1922.

Mulkey's Iodine Salt was produced, as a goiter preventive, at the request of Health Authorities in Michigan. Also note the "Certificate of approval" on label.

It is to be used in all food instead of ordinary salt.

NAB MAN AFTER LONG SEARCH

Three-year Hunt for Ambrose Grafton Ends in Indiana.

A three-year search for Ambrose Grafton, former potter, who is alleged to have abandoned his wife and three children here, ended at Indianapolis, Wednesday, when the Hoosier police apprehended the accused, who is said to have been living under the assumed name of Green.

Captain of Police Conley left yesterday for Indianapolis to bring Grafton back to East Liverpool. He is said to have expressed his willingness to return without the formality of extradition.

Grafton's whereabouts have been a mystery ever since his alleged desertion of his family here, although for a time he was thought to be residing in Boston. A few days ago, Chief McDermott received information from Boston that Grafton was working under an assumed name as an engraver in Indianapolis.

A warrant for Grafton's arrest was issued through the office of Prosecuting Attorney Hanley. The warrant, with a photograph of Grafton, was forwarded to the Indianapolis police, with instructions that he be arrested at the address given in the tip received by Chief McDermott.

The police received a telegram from Indianapolis yesterday that Grafton was being held pending the arrival of an officer.

Gales Swept British Towns.

LONDON, Jan. 3. — Unremitting gales and rains which have made the holidays a season of terror for coast towns and riverside points, continued today with a 90-miles gale sweeping England.

Havoc in the trail of this latest storm mounted higher than the damage previously exacted. England's storm bill for the week of gales will be enormous.

Shipping was having the greatest difficulty today, smaller boats making harbors only after a long fight.

A steady 12-hour rain increased the flooded area all over England.

A woman was killed by lightning in Ireland during the storm.

The wind blew a motor truck into the sea at Folkstone. The driver was drowned. Telephone communication is seriously crippled. The air ministry reported that the storm extended far into the Atlantic. Harbors were full of ships which had taken refuge from the storm. The liner Manitou went aground at Gravesend, but was refloated.

FRANCE ACTS ON WAR DEBT

Seeks Parley With U. S.-England Makes Suggestion.

BY FRANK E. MASON

PARIS, Jan. 2.—France "considers itself on the threshold of conversations with America on the subject of the Franco-American debt."

The foreign office in making this statement today added, "while the note of Finance Minister Clementel to the United States is not binding and is only semi-official it serves as a point of departure for negotiations."

Terms specified in Clementel's "semi-official note," were learned by International News service. Clementel suggested a 10-year moratorium after which payments would cover a period of 80 years, with interest at one half of one percent. All payments would be completed at the end of the 90 years.

The full text of the note will be made public, it was said, following a conference in Paris next week between Clementel and Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer.

BY DAVID M. CHURCH.

LONDON, Jan. 2—Great Britain has made an "informal suggestion" to the United States government that when France begins making payments on its debt to the United States it "shall make equal and simultaneous payments to England."

This information was learned in unofficial quarters today by international News Service.

The British "suggestion" is said to make "no mention of the question of a moratorium for France on a lower interest rate than England is paying America.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—While administration officials choose to throw an atmosphere of secrecy around the numerous "conversations" and under cover diplomatic moves now going on in London, Paris and Washington anent the whole foreign debt problem, there appears to be in official quarters here today more optimism than there ever has been that out of this activity will finally emerge a complete settlement of the six-year old controversy.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Bullish sentiment ruled in the stock market in the first session of the new year. Stock prices started with the opening of the market today to shatter the best price records of the last year.

Buying orders in the oil and specialty stocks crowded the books of the commission houses prior to the opening and prices ranged from one to four points above Wednesday's close.

Though Radio Corporations, Westinghouse, American Can and other speculative leaders were more spectacular in their movements. The most substantial feature of the market in this period was the heavy demand for oil stocks. With the turn of the year completing the selling for tax losses in oil shares, with stocks in this important group far behind the market and with evidences of a considerable decline in the amount of crude and refined oils in storage in this country, Wall Street has been gradually turning to the oil stocks as the natural leader in the forward movement in prices this year.

All of the oil shares which featured the market in the early part of the week were in good demand at higher prices. Skelly, Shell Union, Cosden Marland and the Pan-Americans and the listed Standard Oils were the leaders in a movement in which oil stocks were more prominent than in any session since December 4. Atlantic refining gained 2½ points and Pacific Oil was up 2.

Radio Corporation jumped 4¼ points to a new high at 69 and sold as high as 69½ after which profit taking set in and prices declined to around 67. The stock was the most active on the big board today. Westinghouse Electric sold nearly five points higher on heavy dealings which were also inspired by the company's successful record of accomplishments in the radio industry. General Electric declined about five points on profit-taking.

Sterling exchange rose to a new high since 1919 at 4.87¾, following its brilliant record in London yesterday. Call money renewed at five per cent, but time money was easier with 3½ per cent quoted for 60 day funds. Cotton and grain markets were steady, with slight changes in the early quotations.

NAB MAN AFTER LONG SEARCH

Three-year Hunt for Ambrose Grafton Ends in Indiana.

A three-year search for Ambrose Grafton, former potter, who is alleged to have abandoned his wife and three children here, ended at Indianapolis, Wednesday, when the Hoosier police apprehended the accused, who is said to have been living under the assumed name of Green.

Captain of Police Conley left yesterday for Indianapolis to bring Grafton back to East Liverpool. He is said to have expressed his willingness to return without the formality of extradition.

Grafton's whereabouts have been a mystery ever since his alleged desertion of his family here, although for a time he was thought to be residing in Boston. A few days ago, Chief McDermott received information from Boston that Grafton was working under an assumed name as an engraver in Indianapolis.

A warrant for Grafton's arrest was issued through the office of Prosecuting Attorney Hanley. The warrant, with a photograph of Grafton, was forwarded to the Indianapolis police, with instructions that he be arrested at the address given in the tip received by Chief McDermott.

The police received a telegram from Indianapolis yesterday that Grafton was being held pending the arrival of an officer.

Gales Swept British Towns.

LONDON, Jan. 3. — Unremitting gales and rains which have made the holidays a season of terror for coast towns and riverside points, continued today with a 90-miles gale sweeping England.

Havoc in the trail of this latest storm mounted higher than the damage previously exacted. England's storm bill for the week of gales will be enormous.

Shipping was having the greatest difficulty today, smaller boats making harbors only after a long fight.

A steady 12-hour rain increased the flooded area all over England.

A woman was killed by lightning in Ireland during the storm.

The wind blew a motor truck into the sea at Folkstone. The driver was drowned. Telephone communication is seriously crippled. The air ministry reported that the storm extended far into the Atlantic. Harbors were full of ships which had taken refuge from the storm. The liner Manitou went aground at Gravesend, but was refloated.

FRANCE ACTS ON WAR DEBT

Seeks Parley With U. S.-England Makes Suggestion.

BY FRANK E. MASON

PARIS, Jan. 2—France "considers itself on the threshold of conversations with America on the subject of the Franco-American debt."

The foreign office in making this statement today added, "while the note of Finance Minister Clementel to the United States is not binding and is only semi-official it serves as a point of departure for negotiations."

Terms specified in Clementel's "semi-official note," were learned by International News service. Clementel suggested a 10-year moratorium after which payments would cover a period of 80 years, with interest at one half of one percent. All payments would be completed at the end of the 90 years.

The full text of the note will be made public, it was said, following a conference in Paris next week between Clementel and Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer.

BY DAVID M. CHURCH.

LONDON, Jan. 2—Great Britain has made an "informal suggestion" to the United States government that when France begins making payments on its debt to the United States it "shall make equal and simultaneous payments to England."

This information was learned in unofficial quarters today by international News Service.

The British "suggestion" is said to make "no mention of the question of a moratorium for France on a lower interest rate than England is paying America.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—While administration officials choose to throw an atmosphere of secrecy around the numerous "conversations" and under cover diplomatic moves now going on in London, Paris and Washington anent the whole foreign debt problem, there appears to be in official quarters here today more optimism than there ever has been that out of this activity will finally emerge a complete settlement of the six-year old controversy.

SPYING EXPERT SEES ANOTHER WAR IN 1927

William Le Quex, Novelist, Says Germany is Getting Ready.

LONDON SPEECH

Predicts Crown Prince Will Become New Kaiser.

LONDON—There will be another war with Germany within the next two years, and Crown Prince William will become Kaiser of Germany, in the opinion of William Le Quex, novelist and former journalist, who voiced his fears in a speech before the Hastings Rotary Club.

Le Quex is understood to have intimate knowledge of the secret services of the continential Powers, and is frequently consulted by various governments on subjects connected with spying. In his book, "The Invasion," published in 1908, he predicted the outbreak of the World War.

"I expect to be ridiculed for this prediction," Le Quex said, "just as I was when I prophesied correctly the last war. But the war of revenge is on the lips of everybody in Germany today. There is now in England, as there always has been, the hidden hand at work. I hope the new Baldwin Government will take steps to be prepared."

Le Quex quoted French official intelligence reports to prove that Germany is preparing, manufacturing poison gas and germ bombs in plants supposed to be manufacturing laces and dyes; constructing more "Big Berthas" and storing up guns and ammunition in all sorts of "outlandish places."

"Outside Hanover there is an experimental laboratory established in a private house," Le Quex declared, "where well known bacteriologists are even now working on bacteria of deadly and contagious diseases. One method by which the Germans hope to spread these diseases is by exporting a great quantity of chocolates which have been infected with the various germs.

"In dozens of towns all over Germany there are hidden stores of rifles and machine guns. Many of these have been discovered by the Allied Control Commission, but the majority are well hidden.

"A great store of arms in the barracks near Leipzig was revealed by a man named Dietrich, who recently, in consequence, was sent to penal servitude for 14 years by the Imperial Court of Leipzig, the highest court in Germany.

"It is also known that stores of arms and ammunition exist in Berlin, Stendahl, Madgeberg, Halle, Hirenberg and many other places.

"In addition to the seven Big Berthas which the Germans hid successfully after the armistice and still have in readiness, it is known that she has constructed four other colossal guns, which have a range of 120 miles, so that should she get to any part of the French or Belgian coast, between Nieuport and Dieppe, London would be bombarded."

Frenchman Leaves Queer Collection of Things Ridiculous

PARIS.—An old Frenchman has just died and left the queerest collection ever imagined. He had spent his life going about the world searching for things ridiculous. He ended by creating a museum filled with the furniest fads men and women have ever been guilty of. His examples of human craziness include clothing, paintings, furniture and works of so-called art which appeared to him to exceed the limits of ordinary ridicule.

The collector often paid big sums for his treasures, and one of his greatest surprises came when a connoisseur offered him $4,000 for a picture which he had bought thirty years before on account of its utter grotesqueness.

Public Helps Agencies Urged.

The Russell Sage Foundation has recommended the establishment of public employment agencies to be conducted by states in every community, as a result of its disclosures based on the five-year study of conditions in more than 70 large cities in Canada and the United States. Unemployment is not an occasional, but a constant problem, the report says.

CASE IS APPEALED BY CAR COMPANY

When an automobile driven by Byrne Mollohan collided with a bus of the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Co., on the River Road, East Liverpool Oct. 28 last, Mollohan filed an action in the court of Justice of the Peace P. V. Mackall at East Liverpool against the company for $300 damages.

Then the company filed a counter claim against Mollohan for $196.78.

When the case went to trail, judgment for the full amount was entered in favor of the plaintiff, but the defendant has now filed their appeal bond for $600, and the case has been carried to common pleas court.

RULINGS HANDED DOWN BY COURT

On Dec. 8, Attorney K. L. Coburn of Salem filed an action for divorce in common pleas court in behalf of his client, Zora Flecker, against her husband Benjamin Flecker.

This case has been dismissed by Judge James G. Moore on motion of the plaintiff and at her costs, and the restraining order previously entered in this action has been dissolved.

The sale of property has been confirmed and a distribution ordered in the case of Keneth Walker, a minor and others against Marion Fultz and others. The action was one in partition and set.

Service by publication has been approved by the court in the case of Sol Ostrow against M. M. Marks doing business under the name of the K. & M. store, East Liverpool, and judgment by default in favor of the plaintiff for $2.794.45 has been rendered by the court. An order of sale of attached property has also been issued by the court.

TRAFFIC SURVEY NOW IN PROGRESS

The federal highway department and the state highway department jointly are now engaged in making a survey of the traffic over the main highways of the state, and representatives of both departments have been at work in Columbiana county during the last few days.

Wednesday the record of traffic on the Lincoln Highway between Stop 55 and West Point was taken, and this will continue for a few days. Cars and trucks are being stopped by these highway record keepers, and the destination of the car is asked, also from whence it came. At times the weight of a truck is taken, and the driver of the truck is asked questions as ordinary car drivers are asked to give.

The object is to determine eventually a new type of road that will withstand the heaviest kind of traffic.

Little Appeals Case.

A bill of exceptions has been filed in common pleas court in the case of Raymond E. Anderson of East Liverpool against W. B. Little of 206 Washington avenue, Wellsville, who sued for $60 damage to his automobile by that owned by Little.

Little as plaintiff in error, through his counsel Charles Boyd has filed the record of the case. The lower court rendered a judgment for $13.50 in favor of Anderson.

Columbiana

Tuesday night was alumni night for young people of Columbiana. About forty couples atended the annual dance, which was held at Kelly's park, and danced to the music of the Country Club orchestra of Youngstown. Previous to this, a large crowd witnessed the two basketball games at the Columbiana gym, seeing what proved to be the closest alumni games ever played here, the girls game resulting in a tie at 16-16, while the C. U. S. boys won from their older opponents by the close margin of 23 to 19. Both games were tied many times, first one team and then the other being ahead. The Alumni girls presented a strong line-up but showed lack of practice. The forwards were Grace Frye, Miriam Detwiler and Dorothy Calvin, while the guarding was done by Mabel Brungard, Gladys Sponseller and Grace Fellers, the latter being replaced late in the game by Helen Esterly. The shooting was very poor on both sides and the high school lassies were very weak on pass work. Miss Brungard played a wonderful guarding game, while Miss Frye's floor work was good, but she failed miserably on her shooting, where she was expected to star.

The C. H. S. boys completely outplayed the Alumni boys, but they, too, shot miserably, missing chance after chance. Crumbacher was the chief offender in this respect, missing more chances than any others, although he played a fine floor game. Marshall was the alumni star, making over half their points, while Brown guarded well for the High School.

The Youngstown & Suburban Transit Co. has added another link to its chain of bus lines, by purchasing the Blue Bus Line, which has been operated for several years by R. M. McDonald, running from Columbiana to Salem, via, Leetonia. It is understood that they will discontinue this line entirely as it has never been a great money-maker. Mr. McDonald is undecided as to his future plans.

Mrs. H. E. Detwiler was operated on Tuesday morning at the Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, for spinal trouble. Mr. Detwiler returned to his home Tuesday evening, reporting the operation as successful and the patient resting comfortably.

A marriage license has been issued to Russell Sanders of Washingtonville and Ruth Yarian, daughter of Mrs. Jonathan Yarian of Sebring, formerly of Columbiana.

Erwood Calvin and Ira Tullis were business callers in Youngstown, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Holloway of Indianapolis, were calling on Columbiana friends recently on their way to Youngstown to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Mallory and family have returned from Akron where they visited with relatives several days.

Robert Marshall of Mansfield is spending the week with old friends in Columbiana.

TOMORROW THE NEW HUPMOBILE EIGHT IS TO BE UNVEILED

At 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the eagerly-awaited Hupmobile Eight will be revealed for the first time at our salesrooms.

Hupmobile invites your immediate comparison between the performance of its new Eight, and all other eight-cylinder cars and all superior sixes.

For Hupmobile has here produced an Eight with all the sound qualities of endurance and reliability which have made Hupmobile famous the world over—

A car which now brings within reach of the average American family, for the first time, every eight-cylinder advantage for which buyers in the past willingly paid hundreds of dollars more.

The Hupmobile Eight possesses superiorities of its own, over and above the super-abilities of the eight-cylinder principle, which unquestionably single it out as a new leader among American eights.

In many important respects the Hupmobile Eight far outdistances anything hitherto accomplished in eight-cylinder engineering in America.

It produces more power per cubic inch of piston displacement than anything which has preceded it.

Its performance is so smooth and symmetrical that there is not even a murmur of "roughness" at any speed.

More than any other fine car, it combines compactness for handling and parking with roominess for riding comfort.

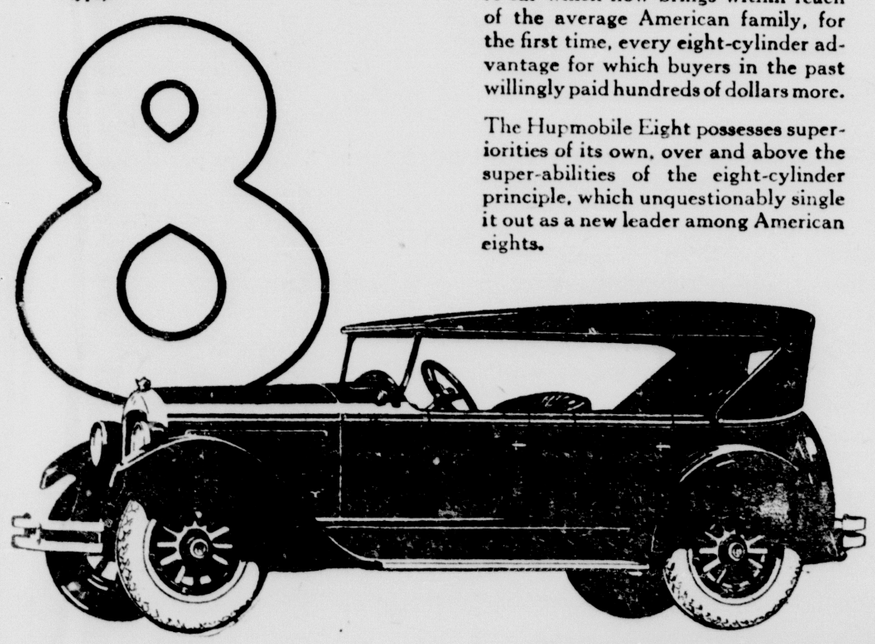

It records an average gasoline economy heretofore unequaled among eights.

It has beauty of design, finish and equipment not excelled within $1,000 of its price; and its own price is less than that of many sixes.

We venture to predict that the men and women who drive the Hupmobile Eight, in their own way and at their own pace, will never again be satisfied with any car that falls short of its amazing abilities.

Some Mechanical Features

Lockheed hydraulic four-wheel brakes.
Special six-ply balloon tires.
99½ pound balanced crank-shaft.
Light, rigid connecting rods; light pistons.

The price of the New Hupmobile Eight is undoubtedly the most attractive ever placed on such a car. We are now ready to give out complete price information when you come in to see the car.

CASE IS APPEALED BY CAR COMPANY

When an automobile driven by Byrne Mollohan collided with a bus of the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Co., on the River Road, East Liverpool Oct. 28 last, Mollohan filed an action in the court of Justice of the Peace P. V. Mackall at East Liverpool against the company for $300 damages.

Then the company filed a counter claim against Mollohan for $196.78.

When the case went to trail, judgment for the full amount was entered in favor of the plaintiff, but the defendant has now filed their appeal bond for $600, and the case has been carried to common pleas court.

RULINGS HANDED DOWN BY COURT

On Dec. 8, Attorney K. L. Coburn of Salem filed an action for divorce in common pleas court in behalf of his client, Zora Flecker, against her husband Benjamin Flecker.

This case has been dismissed by Judge James G. Moore on motion of the plaintiff and at her costs, and the restraining order previously entered in this action has been dissolved.

The sale of property has been confirmed and a distribution ordered in the case of Keneth Walker, a minor and others against Marion Fultz and others. The action was one in partition and set.

Service by publication has been approved by the court in the case of Sol Ostrow against M. M. Marks doing business under the name of the K. & M. store, East Liverpool, and judgment by default in favor of the plaintiff for $2,794.45 has been rendered by the court. An order of sale of attached property has also been issued by the court.

TRAFFIC SURVEY NOW IN PROGRESS

The federal highway department and the state highway department jointly are now engaged in making a survey of the traffic over the main highways of the state, and representatives of both departments have been at work in Columbiana county during the last few days.

Wednesday the record of traffic on the Lincoln Highway between Stop 55 and West Point was taken, and this will continue for a few days. Cars and trucks are being stopped by these highway record keepers, and the destination of the car is asked, also from whence it came. At times the weight of a truck is taken, and the driver of the truck is asked questions as ordinary car drivers are asked to give.

The object is to determine eventually a new type of road that will withstand the heaviest kind of traffic.

Little Appeals Case.

A bill of exceptions has been filed in common pleas court in the case of Raymond E. Anderson of East Liverpool against W. B. Little of 206 Washington avenue, Wellsville, who sued for $60 damage to his automobile by that owned by Little.

Little as plaintiff in error, through his counsel Charles Boyd has filed the record of the case. The lower court rendered a judgment for $43.50 in favor of Anderson.

Columbiana

Tuesday night was alumni night for young people of Columbiana. About forty couples atended the annual dance, which was held at Kelly's park, and danced to the music of the Country Club orchestra of Youngstown. Previous to this, a large crowd witnessed the two basketball games at the Columbiana gym, seeing what proved to be the closest alumni games ever played here, the girls game resulting in a tie at 16-16, while the C. H. S. boys won from their older opponents by the close margin of 23 to 19. Both games were tied many times, first one team and then the other being ahead. The Alumni girls presented a strong line-up but showed lack of practice. The forwards were Grace Frye, Miriam Detwiler and Dorothy Calvin while the guarding was done by Mabel Brungard, Gladys Sponseller and Grace Fellers, the latter being replaced late in the game by Helen Esterly. The shooting was very poor on both sides and the high school lassies were very weak on pass work. Miss Brungard played a wonderful guarding game, while Miss Frye's floor work was good, but she failed miserably on her shooting, where she was expected to star.

The C. H. S. boys completely outplayed the Alumni boys, but they, too, shot miserably, missing chance after chance. Crumbacher was the chief offender in this respect, missing more chances than any others, although he played a fine floor game. Marshall was the alumni star, making over half their points, while Brown guarded well for the High School.

The Youngstown & Suburban Transit Co. has added another link to its chain of bus lines, by purchasing the Blue Bus Line, which has been operated for several years by R. M. McDonald, running from Columbiana to Salem, via. Leetonia. It is understood that they will discontinue this line entirely as it has never been a great money-maker. Mr. McDonald is undecided as to his future plans.

Mrs. H. E. Detwiler was operated on Tuesday morning at the Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, for spinal trouble. Mr. Detwiler returned to his home Tuesday evening, reporting the operation as successful and the patient resting comfortably.

TOMORROW THE NEW HUPMOBILE EIGHT IS TO BE UNVEILED

At 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the eagerly-awaited Hupmobile Eight will be revealed for the first time at our salesrooms.

Hupmobile invites your immediate comparison between the performance of its new Eight, and all other eight-cylinder cars and all superior sixes.

For Hupmobile has here produced an Eight with all the sound qualities of endurance and reliability which have made Hupmobile famous the world over—

A car which now brings within reach of the average American family, for the first time, every eight-cylinder advantage for which buyers in the past willingly paid hundreds of dollars more.

The Hupmobile Eight possesses superiorities of its own, over and above the super-abilities of the eight-cylinder principle, which unquestionably single it out as a new leader among American eights.

In many important respects the Hupmobile Eight far outdistances anything hitherto accomplished in eight-cylinder engineering in America.

It produces more power per cubic inch of piston displacement than anything which has preceded it.

Its performance is so smooth and symmetrical that there is not even a murmur of "roughness" at any speed.

More than any other fine car, it combines compactness for handling and parking with roominess for riding comfort.

It records an average gasoline economy heretofore unequaled among eights.

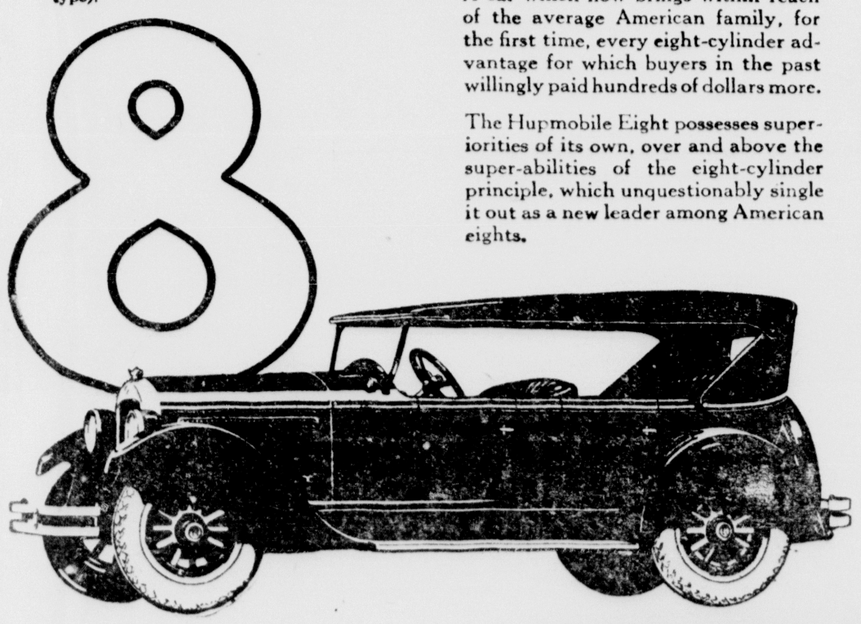

It has beauty of design, finish and equipment not excelled within $1,000 of its price; and its own price is less than that of many sixes.

We venture to predict that the men and women who drive the Hupmobile Eight, in their own way and at their own pace, will never again be satisfied with any car that falls short of its amazing abilities.

The price of the New Hupmobile Eight is undoubtedly the most attractive ever placed on such a car. We are now ready to give out complete price information when you come in to see the car.

Fashionable Women Envy Silver Fox Farm Near Oxford, Eng.

OXFORD, England — Women of fashion would go green with envy if they could see 40 little "silver" foxes —each one a potential and exquisite fur—which have just arrived in England.

They have been brought over by Captain A. S. Robertson, a Canadian, who intends to start a silver fox farm at Baldon, near Oxford.

Silver fox skins fetch anything up to $750 on the market; the demand far exceeds the supply, and Captain Robertson believes that the English climate is extremely suitable for breeding the animals.

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.

You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong, cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically run-down condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells,—the spark that rejogs your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Pretty Jap Girls Not Seeking Jobs As Conductorettes

TOKIO, Dec. — Superintendent Saaw, of the City electric bureau, is bewailing the lack of pulchritude among the women of Japan.

The bureau recently decided to install a new motor bus service and conceived the scheme of "beautifying the buses" by hiring girl conductors. It advertised for comely maidens and Sawa picked himself as the beauty expert who would select the fairest from the applicants.

More than 100 would-be conductorettes turned up. Sawa looked them over.

"They were pretty, all right," he said. "Ah, yes, pretty poor. It was a procession of the homeliest faces I ever gazed upon. I am beginning to think that Japan has no pretty girls. If there are any they certainly are not looking for jobs as bus conductors.

FAIR 'RAFFLES IS CAUGHT BY LONDON POLICE

Pretty Girl Robber Grabbed After Three Years.

LOOTED FLATS

Daring Maiden Netted From $400 to $10,000 on Each Raid.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—London's female "Raffles," heroine of several score burglaries, has met her Waterloo and been "sent up" for 21 months. Petite, auburn haired, fashionably dressed, in stolen raiment, she wept pathetically in court.

For three years she had been shadowed by detectives, always suspected, but always sufficiently clever to avoid capture. And then just a piece of bad luck led to her undoing.

Crissie Deardon specialized in robberies from flats, and her loot was jewelry, or expensive apparel. Always garbed in the height of fashion, she would walk, unnoticed, into a building filled with high-class flats and ring the bell at one of the doors.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" —bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

Below is the solution to puzzle No. 63

Copyright, 1923, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

If there was any answer, she would ask impulsive questions about an imaginary sister.

But if nobody answered, after a prolonger period, she would raise the beading in the light of the door, break the small glass panel, place the pieces in her handbag, and then, slipping her slender hand through the aperture, draw back the latch and give herself the "open sesame." Her proceeds ranged from $400 to $10,000.

One day, when Chrissie was exploiting her customary method, the door of an adjuacent flat opened, and a lady inquired what she was doing. Chrissie gave the usualy reply, but the lady recognized her as having been on a similar errand in the building a month before, and rang for the janitor.

Chrissie made a run for it, but was caught.

Heavy Sentences.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE.—Penitentiary and reformatory sentences, aggregating 210 years, were imposed by Judge W. W. Cowen, in the Belmont county criminal court, during the fall term, ending today. In addition, one life term and two death sentences were announced. Only two "not guilty" verdicts were returned out of 84 indistments.

Probably the first cast iron plow ever made in the world was fashioned by Jethrow Wood, a Moravia, N. Y., farmer, in 1814. Didn't Know His Brother

"My brother got so bad with stomach and liver trouble that when I saw him after a year I didn't know him. He was emaciated and yellow as a pumpkin and was often in great pain. He couldn't have lived long the way he was going. Doctors and medicine gave him no relief. I picked up a little booklet on Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which he said described his case perfectly. The first dose of it gave him great relief and in a month he was good as ever." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and Druggists Everywhere.

BALTIC STATES FIGHT LIQUOR

Question of Smuggling Discussed at Meet in Christinia.

CHRISTIANA—Important questions deaning with the Baltic liquor-smuggling traffic were discussed at a conference here recently.

Representatives of Finland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and the small Baltic states attended the conference, and it is possible that the traffic will suffer a severe setback as a result.

The chief proposal considered by the conference was that licenses for the carrying of liquor should not be granted to small vessels at all, and that large vessels, given authority to carry liquor will have to furnish proof within a stipulated period that the liquor has been delivered to the legitimate purchasers.

A convention has been entered into between the States, which, when ratified, will give them the right to search suspected vessels and to seize all liquor.

Despite the conference, however smuggling still continues.

Prohibition agents recently discovered a large business in illegal liquor traffic being carried on by the clerks [illegible] one of this city's largest banks. Their ringleader was a former prohibition sleuth.

Among the insects spiders are weather prognosticators; among human beings, only fools and newcomers.

Charged with issuing false birth certificates supposedly copied from the church register, and selling them so that applicants could receive old-age pensions ahead of time, the session clerk of the Free Church of Lewis, Scotland, was arrested recently.

Home of First Plow Located.

Probably the first cast iron plow ever made in the world was fashioned by Jethrow Wood, a Moravia, N. Y., farmer, in 1814. Wood failed to receive enough money for his idea to enable him to have a decent funeral but a historical society in the Finger Lakes section of northwestern New York are arranging to mark the spot with a tablet.

CHILDRENS CROSS WORD PUZZLE

How To Solve Puzzle.

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combinatfotn of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

Word 1 the large fruit the lady is buying.

Word 4 what children play after school.

Word 5 what children often have too much of during the holidays.

Didn't Know His Brother

"My brother got so bad with stomach and liver trouble that when I saw him after a year I didn't know him. He was emaciated and yellow as a pumpkin and was often in great pain. He couldn't have lived long the way he was going. Doctors and medicine gave him no relief. I picked up a little booklet on Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which he said described his case perfectly. The first dose of it gave him great relief and in a month he was good as ever." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and Druggists Everywhere.

BALTIC STATES FIGHT LIQUOR

Question of Smuggling Discussed at Meet in Christinia.

CHRISTIANA—Important questions dealing with the Baltic liquor-smuggling traffic were discussed at a conference here recently.

Representatives of Finland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and the smaller Baltic States attended the conference, and it is possible that the traffic will suffer a severe setback as a result.

The chief proposal considered by the conference was that licenses for the carrying of liquor should not be granted to small vessels at all, and that large vessels, given authority to carry liquor will have to furnish proof within a stipulated period that the liquor has been delivered to the legitimate purchasers.

A convention has been entered into between the States, which, when ratified, will give them the right to search suspected vessels and to seize all liquor.

Despite the conference, however, smuggling still continues.

Prohibition agents recently discovered a large business in illegal liquor traffic being carried on by the clerks [illegible] The ringleader [illegible] a former [illegible] million sleuth.

Among the insects soldiers are weather prognosticators; among human beings, only fools and newcomers.

Charged with issuing false birth certificates supposedly copied from the church register, and selling them so that applicants could receive old-age pensions ahead of time, the session clerk of the Free Church of Lewis, Soctland, was arrested recently.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

But Dascome's question was even more steadily delivered. "Here? To your house?"

Rossiter raised his brows. "Of course not. I left Deeme's at ten minutes to twelve and reached Mrs. Kaime's at twenty minutes past—a quick journey. It occurred to me that Mrs. Kaime was the safest person to whom to entrust your daughter."

Colt was utterly surprised. Apparently Dascome was not; if Rossiter expected amazement, or consternation, he was disappointed; Dascome's voice was perfectly even. "I felt almost certain that you had taken her there, but I did not like to disturb Mrs. Kaime at so late an hour until I was entirely certain. Also I wanted to thank you for rescuing my daughter from a bad situation. Whatever your motive, I am indebted to you, and my thanks are genuine."

Colt caught his breath. It was damnable, Rossiter's resonant-voiced deliberation, his determined application of hot iron to a man who was using all the will he possessed to refrain from violence. Colt braced himself for a spring through the window; Rossiter did not realize his danger; he was plain reckless.

Over the cigarette held between his fingers Rossiter looked at him. "Yes? I called at Al Deeme's house this evening and saw how things were. I might have been able to warn you—Al Deeme's crowd are apt to go the lengths—but I knew that you were in your car somewhere with Mrs. Kaime, doubtless enjoying the fog. You were rightly informed—I brought Miss Dascome away, for she was incapable of doing anything for herself. Naturally, there was no place in town where it would be wise to take her, so I"—He turned deliberately and flicked the ash from his cigarette into the fire, turned and looked into Dascome's gray face and steady eyes—"so I brought her out here."

Rossiter's eyes did not lose their contempt, nor his voice its resonance. "It is unnecessary to thank me for a thing which afforded me much pleasure, Mr. Dascome," and he bowed.

Dascome bent his head. Then he turned and made his way through the drawing room. The Japanese was waiting at the front door and opened it for him.

Colt slipped from beneath the window and gained the car before Dascome did. Dascome got into the car without a word; it was Colt who spoke. "You're going to Mrs. Kaime's, I suppose? I heard it all, J. D. I wanted to be on hand if there was a fight. What's his game?"

Dascome drew an impatient breath. "Mrs. Kaime. I was there this evening, when he appeared, evidently their first meeting in five years."

"Oh! It was five years ago they were married—do you think they're still married?"

"Yes—I think so."

Herbert Colt would have liked to ask bluntly, "Have you been mad enough to fall in love with Mrs. Kaime? Evidently she has a husband and you can't marry." But, well as he knew John Dascome, there was a line he never overstepped. "It's a complication you didn't bargain for when you took her house," he remarked instead.

"I signed the lease, nevertheless—after I knew."

"Draw out of it, J. D. We've gotten out of it about all we can for the present."

"I haven't gotten out of it all I mean to."

Colt did not know what to make of the answer. His audible comment was, "She doesn't know yet, and he has taken the first step toward discrediting you. If I'm a judge of a man's eye, he won't stop at much."

"Let him. I have a perfect right to be Mrs. Kaime's tenant."

Colt knew better than any one else the indomitable will of the man beside him; how steadily and relentlessly and patiently he could hold to a purpose. John Dascome would not stop at much. Colt frowned at the darkness; he had been anxious ever since he had seen Karesia Kaime. "She struck me as a woman who'd care a deal for a man, if she cared at all."

Dascome said nothing.

"Was she surprised to see him, J. D.?

"Very much so, judged."

"Glad to see him?"

"I should say that, after her surprise wore off, she was not certain how she felt about it."

"He cares," Colt said with conviction. "A good bit of 'deviltry,' as you said, but that man wants his wife back and he means to get her. He has that look about him."

"It should have occurred to him before."

Colt was so anxious that he ventured on personal ground. "How about Clarice?" he asked.

He felt Dascome stiffen. "No one can prevent Clarice from climbing her Gethsemane. Perhaps the sooner she realizes it the better."

"Maybe." Then Colt burst out. "But, J. D., for God's sake find some safer place for—you know—Mary Bliss! I say it's dangerous, all of you there together. There's no telling what will happen."

"She's safer there, for the present, than she would be anywhere else, and she's having kind treatment," Dascome returned coolly. "I shall be there—on watch."

Colt drew a short breath. "Maybe you can stand it, I couldn't. You haven't changed your mind? You want me to go to Canada?"

"Just as quickly as you can get there. Your check will be honored for any amount that's necessary. Keep me informed, and I shall attend to this end of it."

"Let me out in the next block, then. There's a garage just below. I'll get a car and get back to town. I'll start in the morning."

"Better send a telegram to Mrs. Kaime from San Francisco, Bert."

"I will."

They shook hands when they parted—a firm clasp. Then Dascome bent forward, his steadfast eyes on Colt. "Don't forget that it's nearly seven years since that sixth of April, Bert."

Colt studied him gravely in the uncertain light. "I see. Well—you've dared and won out once before, J. D. Good luck to you."

"And to you, Bert."

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

With Amazing Speed It Stops That Tough Hang On Cough That Racks Your Whole Body

For simple coughs any simple sweet sugary cough syrup will probably do.

But when you want to throw out of your system one of those old timers that simply won't be conquered, but lingers on and on causing sleepless nights and days of torment then you've just got to have a real cough medicine.

Then you must ask your druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion for the harder and tougher and tighter they come the more joy Bronchuline gets in knocking them out.

Bronchuline isn't a cheap cough conqueror, mind you, for first raters are never cheap. But if you are one of the unlucky ones that a persistent health destroying cough is pushing towards the grave, get a bottle today and notice how the first dose takes right hold and soothes the terrible soreness.

Often three or four doses brings blessed relief and half a bottle forces the most stubborn cough into submission.

"A bottle of magic" one old man calls Bronchuline Emulsion. He was all worn out and ready to give up when a friend brought him the good news about Bronchuline.

Don't let a cough hang on—it's dangerous company—Get rid of it quick. Ask Jesse D. Holloway and Carnahan's Drug Stores, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., or any up to the times druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion. It's a good medicine to have around the house because it contains no chloroform or dope, and often two or three doses will stop any ordinary cough.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Runyon Says

Fans Care Nothing for Politics. Are Interested Only in GAME. A Word About Dunn, of Baltimore. Is Greatest of the Managers. Proves it by Winning SIX Times.

BY DAMON RUNYON.

Copyright, 1924, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IT has always been the opinion of this writer that the baseball public is little interested in baseball politics in the troubles of the magnates.

That is, if the game is conducted cleanly, HONESTLY, it is all the fans care to know.

The ownership of the clubs little concern them. A WINNING club draws the public, no matter who owns it.

The squabbles between the magnates, such as Landis and Johnson, are not viewed as matters of grave importance by the fans, however much may be made of them by the newspapers. The game itself is always paramount.

Long after all of us are dead, when men will find it difficult to recall the names of the club owners and league officials of the present day, baseball will be played in America, will be drawing crowds several times as big as those which now attend the games.

You have heard much of baseball politics recently. Therefore, you may be interested in the INTERESTING side of baseball, though this is not supposed to be the season when baseball is in order.

A man has been found who thinks the Philadelphia Athletics will win the 1925 pennant in the American League. The man is Jack Dunn, the old Pennant Maker, of Baltimore, greatest baseball manager in the business. The writer might have qualified this by saying the greatest MINOR LEAGUE manager. This would be minimizing Dunn's status.

He is the greatest manager, minor league or major, in the United States. He has won six consecutive championships in the International league with his Baltimore club, probably a record.

You may say, "Ah, but that was in the International league, a minor league."

The writer tells you that it is just as difficult to win a pennant in a minor league as it is i nthe American or National leagues.

The writer will go even farther. He will say that it is often MORE difficult to win a championship in a minor league than in the big leagues.

The minor league manager frequently has the handicap of lack of money, of material, to a greater extent than the average big league managers is handicapped.

Jack Dunn is an absolute genius in his business, no doubt of that.

He is an old time big league ball player. He has been conducting ball teams in Baltimore, home of the immortal Orioles for many years. Dunn's teams are still called the Orioles after the famous aggregation of the early nineties that gave Baltimore a permanent place in baseball history.

Dunn is both owner and manager That will answer the thought that is probably wandering through your mind as you read this, "Why isn't he in the big leagues if he is such a great manager?"

As owner and manager in Baltimore Dunn perhaps makes twice as much money every year as the richest big league club could afford to pay him as manager.

McGraw is said to get $65,000 per year as manager of the Giants, which is undoubtedly the largest salary paid any man in the big league. Dunn has probably averaged more income than that in his career at Baltimore. He is accountd wealthy.

Dunn is noted for his success in discovering and developing baseball talent. Then he has extraordinary business ability when it comes to disposing of this talent to the big leagues. He asks—and gets—terrific prices.

Dunn sent Babe Ruth to the majors as a left-handed pitcher. He has just sold another left-hander to Connie Mack. Dunn's prediction that the Athletics will win the 1925 pennant is based largely on that sale.

The pitcher is Groves. Dunn thinks Groves insures the pennant to the Philadelphia club. In this thought there is, of course, much of the enthusiasm of the salesman.

Dunn wouldn't care to go so far as to say to Connie Mack, "If Groves don't win the pennant for you, I don't want a dime for him."

Dunn didn't rich by being silly.

Groves is a good young pitcher, no doubt of that. The writer saw him work in Baltimore a couple of years ago, and was greatly impressed by him.

Dunn says Groves is the greatest pitcher he has seen in thirty-five years of baseball. This is taking in too much territory. Perhaps Dunn meant the greatest left handed pitcher. Even then he would be going far.

Dunn in his long baseball experience has seen "Noodles" Hahn, Theodore Breitenstein, Eddie Plank, Rube Waddell, Rube Marquard, and many other great left handers. He saw them display their skill in the big leagues. Groves has yet to meet the test of a big league pitching campaign.

Until then Dunn cannot truthfully say Groves is the greatest pitcher he has ever seen.

Alumni Cagers Defeat High Squad By Single Point

McCutcheon's Field Goal Decides Hard Fought Court Clash

Pitt Grid Star Scores Double-decker With 15 Seconds to go and Graduates Triumph; School Girls Victors Over Ex-Highs.

With 15 seconds of the game remaining and Coach O. V. Boone's squad leading by a score of 22 to 21, Red McCutcheon, one of Pitt's coming football stars, tossed the leather through the hoop for the Alumni for a field goal and the two points that changed almost certain defeat into victory for the graduates. These were the deciding points in the High-Ex High game Wednesday night on the high school floor.

It was anybody's game from start to finish. In all-around basketball, the Ex-Highs showed the effects of their experience. Both teams were off form in their tries for points following fouls, the Alumni especially showing weakness in this department.

McKeever made high school's first score when he counted on a free throw. English added two more points when he shot two from the foul line. Bromby tallied first for the Alumni from the foul line. Smith essayed a field goal and made it good, knotting the count. McConville put high school in the lead with a free throw. McKeever added another point from the free throw mark. The quarter ended 5 to 3 in favor of the highs.

English delivered the first field goal of the game for Boone's team in the second quarter, putting his squad again in the lead. Smith of the graduates also caged the ball for two points. English and McConville counted on free tries, making the score 9 to 5 for the highs which stood when the half ended.

Liebschner started the third period with a field goal and gave his team a six-point lead. Pusey for the Alumni came through with a foul and a field goal, reducing the high school lead by half.

McGraw made good from the foul line for the highs. Pusey tossed one in for a field goal and he made a free throw and the graduates advanced to within a point of their opponents.

McConville's pretty field goal added to the high school lead. Bromby made the score close again when he shot two straight on free throws. The Ex-Highs went into the lead for the first time when Smith scored from the field twice.

At the outset of the final quarter McKeever raised the hopes of school supporters when his toss for a field goal was good. Liebschner found the basket twice for the school lads who were entertaining visions of victory. But DeBolt tossed in a double decker and the graduates again were only a point behind.

McKeever and DeBolt scored a field goal apiece with a minute to play. The time shortened. The hands of the timer's clock crept around to within 15 seconds of the end. Red McCutcheon grabbed the ball and took the only chance left. He flung it to the basket and the leather swished through the net. The two points were enough to tie the score and win.

To point out the individual star would be difficult for both squads played bangup basketball. To Liebschner and McKeever go the scoring honors for high school while Smith and Pusey led the graduates.

Although he was off-color in his foul tries, Slim Bromby was a power on defense, breaking up the high school passwork frequently, while McCutcheon and Corns played star games at guards. McConville, English and McGraw gave good accounts of themselves and Tom Pusey put up a good game at forward in the final period.

In the preliminary the high school girls won a hard earned game from the Ex-High lassies by the score of 23 to 18.

The Ex-Highs led in the first half by the score of 11 to 5 but in the second half the high girls overcame their opponents' lead and won by five points.

Vorndran scored the first point for the Ex-High girls and Bevington scored another point from the foul line.

Corns made the high girls' first point. Bevington added to the Ex-High score by making good on a free throw. Bevington scored the first field goal for the Ex-High maids and McElravy tossed one through for High's first field basket.

The first quarter ended 5 to 3 in the Ex-High's favor.

In the second quarter Bevington scored three from the field making the Ex-Highs' score for the half eleven points while McElravy counted twice from the foul line, making the score 11 to 5 in the former high school girls' favor.

R. Cooper and Kannall found the basket three times for field goals, tieing up the game. Jones broke the tie with a one-point field goal for the Ex-High girls.

McElravy and Kannall both scored field baskets putting the high school lassies in the lead.

After this the High girls kept the lead though their opponents were always close. McElravy's field goal in the last minute of play put the game on ice for the high school maidens.

All the high lassies that played performed in an excellent manner, McElravy, Kannall and R. Cooper being aces for the high school girls.

Bevington, Jones, McConville and Johnson played best for the Ex-high sextette with Bevington the scoring star of the game. Lineups and summaries:

Groves has had astonishing success against Babe Ruth, who has batted against Dunn's left hander nine times in exhibition games between the Yankees and the Baltimore club.

Groves has struck out the great slugger nine times. That is to say, Ruth hasn't hit as much as a fly ball or a grounder of the pitching of the Oriole side-winder. This must have annoyed Ruth intensely.

Groves won about twenty-five games in the International League last season, according to the records. However, Dunn points out that Groves also frequently went into the box and won games that were credited to other pitchers.

Dunn, growing super-enthusiastic, says Groves' fast ball is faster than Johnson's fast ball, when Johnson was at his best. Many big league players will smile at this statement. "Ping" Bodie, a roly-poly outfielder who once played with the Yankees described Johnson's fast ball.

You can't hit 'em when you can't see 'em," said "Ping."

Baseball old timers say the greatest left hander of all time was Rube Waddell, who pitched for Conie Mack.

Waddell had astounding speed. The writer has heard it claimed that Waddell could split an inch plank with his fast ball at the pitching distance, a story which seems improbable.

The writer never saw Waddell. The best left hander he ever saw was Rube Marquard, along in 1911-12, when Marquard was at the top of his form. He became a craftier pitcher, later, but in those days he had a fast ball that was fast enough for all purposes.

The writer saw Marquard win his nineteen consecutive victories, tying the big league record. It was a tremendous exploit. He does not expect to see another left hander as good as Marquard in his baseball time.

FOUR HORSEMEN WIN GRID TITLE ON FINAL RIDE

Outspeed Warner's Stanford Crew; Nevers is Star.

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 2.—Two thousand miles from home in a strange setting of golden tinged orange groves and winter-blooming beds of crimson poinsettas, Knute Rockne's four horsemen and their comrades of the Notre Dame eleven today rested content with the laurels won in the annual New Year's day east-west football clash with Fullback Ernie Nevers and ten other Leland-Stanford men.

It was a thrill-packed fight to the 27 to 10 finish which proclaimed the Irish American's gridiron champions. It was the first eastern victory at Pasadena since 1920 when Harvard beat Oregon. Two intercepted forward passes and one costly fumble, at the buttery hands of Stanford's quarter, Fred Solomon, aided Notre Dame, but superior ability in following the ball, speed usually only seen at track meets, and a backfield more powerful than any that ever kicked the turf beside the broad Pacific was really responsible for their victory.

So swiftly moved the horsemen that Stanford's huge players, heavier ten pounds to a man, looked like Percherons, afflicted with elephantitis.

Every big game has its hero and the New Year's classic placed the laurel on Nevers, the greatest back the Pacific coast has ever produced.

With a limp in both feet, almost wallowing in fat from an inactive season due to injuries and practically alone in his brilliant performance, Nevers was largely responsible for the Red Shirters' offense and defense.

The Cardinals completed 12 forward passes against two for Notre Dame. They gained 180 yards from scrimmages while the Catholics did 133. They made 18 first down while the Irish accomplished seven.

Warner's backfield was miserably weak in contrast to the great quartet—Stuhldreher, Layden, Miller and Crowley.

These four while the setting sun ran down forever their football curtain, patted each other's backs rather solemnly at the end of the game, as southern California's Irish citizenry and some thousands of others hardly less elect howled their shouts of victory. The "Four Horsemen" had made their last ride.

Amateurs Will Battle.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2.—The first amateur boxing show to be staged in Cleveland for a year is scheduled for tonight. Sixteen fighters of more or less ability will participate in the evening's program.

INTERMEDIATES WIN FLOOR GAME

On the "Y" floor yesterday afternoon the Y. M. C. A. intermediates won from the Christian church aggregation by the score of 30 to 26. The victors held a lead of six points at the end of the first half, the score being 11 to 5.

In the second half the Christians forged ahead of their opponents and were leading by a fair margin until the last five minutes of the game when the intermediates staged a scoring rally that pulled them through for a victory. Davis, Larkins, Canne and Murphy were the stellar performers for the victors, Larkins carrying off the scoring honors. Reese, Owens, Bloor and Heddleston were the leading players for the Christians, Reese being the scoring star for the losers. Lineup and summary.

Y. M. C. A.		First Christians
Murphy	F	Lamping

GOLDEN BEARS END BIG SEASON

Victory Over Penn Marks Fifth Year of Unbeaten Football.

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 2.—One of the most remarkable gridiron seasons ever recorded stands ended today for the Golden Bears of California, who with their brilliant 14 to 0 victory yesterday over the great Red and Blue squad of Pennsylvania completed their fifth consecutive year of undefeated footbali.

California's attack was bewildering and virtually swept the visitors off their feet. Pennsylvania's goal line, crossed but twice throughout the eastern season, had never been crossed by straight plunging football.

Yesterday the line of this same mighty Pennsylvania squad was romped over twice by California, by straight, gruelling, plunging army football.

"Tut" Imlay, diminutive California halfback, and Captain McGraw and Jesse Douglas of Pennsylvania put up a splendid game.

Runyon Says

Fans Care Nothing for Politics Are Interested Only in GAME. A Word About Dunn, of Baltimore. Is Greatest of the Managers. Proves it by Winning SIX Times.

BY DAMON RUNYON.

Copyright, 1924, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IT has always been the opinion of this writer that the baseball public is little interested in baseball politics in the troubles of the magnates.

That is, if the game is conducted cleanly, HONESTLY, it is all the fans care to know.

The ownership of the clubs little concern them. A WINNING club draws the public, no matter who owns it.

The squabbles between the magnates, such as Landis and Johnson, are not viewed as matters of grave importance by the fans, however much may be made of them by the newspapers. The game itself is always paramount.

Long after all of us are dead, when men will find it difficult to recall the names of the club owners and league officials of the present day, baseball will be played in America, will be drawing crowds several times as big as those which now attend the games.

You have heard much of baseball politics recently. Therefore, you may be interested in the INTERESTING side of baseball, though this is not supposed to be the season when baseball is in order.

A man has been found who thinks the Philadelphia Athletics will win the 1925 pennant in the American League. The man is Jack Dunn, the old Pennant Maker, of Baltimore, greatest baseball manager in the business. The writer might have qualified this by saying the greatest MINOR LEAGUE manager. This would be minimizing Dunn's status.

He is the greatest manager, minor league or major, in the United States. He has won six consecutive championships in the International league with his Baltimore club, probably a record.

You may say, "Ah, but that was in the International league, a minor league."

The writer tells you that it is just as difficult to win a pennant in a minor league as it is i nthe American or National leagues.

The writer will go even farther. He will say that it is often MORE difficult to win a championship in a minor league than in the big leagues.

The minor league manager frequently has the handicap of lack of money, of material, to a greater extent than the average big league managers is handicapped.

Jack Dunn is an absolute genius in his business, no doubt of that.

He is an old time big league ball player. He has been conducting ball teams in Baltimore, home of the immortal Orioles for many years. Dunn's teams are still called the Orioles after the famous aggregation of the early nineties that gave Baltimore a permanent place in baseball history.

Dunn is both owner and manager That will answer the thought that is probably wandering through your mind as you read this, "Why isn't he in the big leagues if he is such a great manager?"

As owner and manager in Baltimore Dunn perhaps makes twice as much money every year as the richest big league club could afford to pay him as manager.

McGraw is said to get $65,000 per year as manager of the Giants, which is undoubtedly the largest salary paid any man in the big league. Dunn has probably averaged more income than that in his career at Baltimore. He is accountd wealthy.

Dunn is noted for his success in discovering and developing baseball talent. Then he has extraordinary business ability when it comes to disposing of this talent to the big leagues. He asks—and gets—terrific prices.

Dunn sent Babe Ruth to the majors as a left-handed pitcher. He has just sold another left-hander to Connie Mack. Dunn's prediction that the Athletics will win the 1925 pennant is based largely on that sale.

The pitcher is Groves. Dunn thinks Groves insures the pennant to the Philadelphia club. In this thought there is, of course, much of the enthusiasm of the salesman.

Dunn wouldn't care to go so far as to say to Connie Mack, "If Groves don't win the pennant for you, I don't want a dime for him."

Dunn didn't rich by being silly.

Groves is a good young pitcher, no doubt of that. The writer saw him work in Baltimore a couple of years ago, and was greatly impressed by him.

Dunn says Groves is the greatest pitcher he has seen in thirty-five years of baseball. This is taking in too much territory. Perhaps Dunn meant the greatest left handed pitcher. Even then he would be going far.

Dunn in his long baseball experience has seen "Noodles" Hahn, Teodore Breitenstein, Eddie Plank, Rube Waddell, Rube Marquard, and many other great left handers. He saw them display their skill in the big leagues. Groves has yet to meet the test of a big league pitching campaign.

Until then Dunn cannot truthfully say Groves is the greatest pitcher he has ever seen.

Alumni Cagers Defeat High Squad By Single Point

McCutcheon's Field Goal Decides Hard Fought Court Clash

Pitt Grid Star Scores Double-decker With 15 Seconds to go and Graduates Triumph; School Girls Victors Over Ex-Highs.

With 15 seconds of the game remaining and Coach O. V. Boone's squad leading by a score of 22 to 21, Red McCutcheon, one of Pitt's coming football stars, tossed the leather through the hoop for the Alumni for a field goal and the two points that changed almost certain defeat into victory for the graduates. These were the deciding points in the High-Ex High game Wednesday night on the high school floor.

It was anybody's game from start to finish. In all-around basketball, the Ex-Highs showed the effects of their experience. Both teams were off form in their tries for points following fouls, the Alumni especially showing weakness in this department.

McKeever made high school's first score when he counted on a free throw. English added two more points when he shot two from the foul line. Bromby tallied first for the Alumni from the foul line. Smith essayed a field goal and made it good, knotting the count. McConville put high school in the lead with a free throw. McKeever added another point from the free throw mark. The quarter ended 5 to 3 in favor of the highs.

English delivered the first field goal of the game for Boone's team in the second quarter, putting his squad again in the lead. Smith of the graduates also caged the ball for two points. English and McConville counted on free tries, making the score 9 to 5 for the highs which stood when the half ended.

Liebschner started the third period with a field goal and gave his team a six-point lead. Pusey for the Alumni came through with a foul and a field goal, reducing the high school lead by half.

McGraw made good from the foul line for the highs. Pusey tossed one in for a field goal and he made a free throw and the graduates advanced to within a point of their opponents.

McConville's pretty field goal added to the high school lead. Bromby made the score close again when he shot two straight on free throws. The Ex Highs went into the lead for the first time when Smith scored from the field twice.

At the outset of the final quarter McKeever raised the hopes of school supporters when his toss for a field goal was good. Liebschner found the basket twice for the school lads who were entertaining visions of victory. But DeBolt tossed in a double decker and the graduates again were only a point behind.

McKeever and DeBolt scored a field goal apiece with a minute to play. The time shortened. The hands of the timer's clock crept around to within 15 seconds of the end. Red McCutcheon grabbed the ball and took the only chance left. He flung it to the basket and the leather swished through the net. The two points were enough to tie the score and win.

To point out the individual star would be difficult for both squads played bangup basketball. To Liebschner and McKeever go the scoring honors for high school while Smith and Pusey led the graduates.

Although he was off-color in his foul tries, Slim Bromby was a power on defense, breaking up the high school passwork frequently, while McCutcheon and Corns played star games at guards. McConville, English and McGraw gave good accounts of themselves and Tom Pusey put up a good game at forward in the final period.

In the preliminary the high school girls won a hard earned game from the Ex-High lassies by the score of 23 to 18.

The Ex-Highs led in the first half by the score of 11 to 5 but in the second half the high girls overcame their opponents' lead and won by five points.

Vorndran scored the first point for the Ex-High girls and Bevington scored another point from the foul line.

Corns made the high girls' first point. Bevington added to the Ex-High score by making good on a free throw. Bevington scored the first field goal for the Ex-High maids and McElravy tossed one through for High's first field basket.

The first quarter ended 5 to 3 in the Ex-High's favor.

In the second quarter Bevington scored three from the field making the Ex-Highs' score for the half eleven points while McElravy counted twice from the foul line, making the score 11 to 5 in the former high school girls' favor.

R. Cooper and Kannall found the basket three times for field goals, tieing up the game. Jones broke the tie with a one-point field goal for the Ex-High girls.

McElravy and Kannall both scored field baskets putting the high school lassies in the lead.

After this the High girls kept the lead though their opponents were always close. McElravy's field goal in the last minute of play put the game on ice for the high school maidens.

All the high lassies that played performed in an excellent manner. McElravy, Kannall and R. Cooper being aces for the high school girls.

Bevington, Jones, McConville and Johnson played best for the Ex-high sextette with Bevington the scoring star of the game. Lineups and summaries:

Groves has had astonishing success against Babe Ruth, who has batted against Dunn's left hander nine times in exhibition games between the Yankees and the Baltimore club.

Groves has struck out the great slugger nine times. That is to say, Ruth hasn't hit as much as a fly ball or a grounder of the pitching of the Oriole side-winder. This must have annoyed Ruth intensely.

Groves won about twenty-five games in the International League last season, according to the records. However, Dunn points out that Groves also frequently went into the box and won games that were credited to other pitchers.

Dunn, growing super-enthusiastic, says Groves' fast ball is faster than Johnson's fast ball, when Johnson was at his best. Many big league players will smile at this statement. "Ping" Bodie, a roly-poly outfielder who once played with the Yankees described Johnson's fast ball.

You can't hit 'em when you can't see 'em," said "Ping."

Baseball old timers say the greatest left hander of all time was Rube Waddell, who pitched for Connie Mack.

Waddell had astounding speed. The writer has heard it claimed that Waddell could split an inch plank with his fast ball at the pitching distance, a story which seems improbable.

The writer never saw Waddell. The best left hander he ever saw was Rube Marquard, along in 1911-12, when Marquard was at the top of his form. He became a craftier pitcher, later, but in those days he had a fast ball that was fast enough for all purposes.

The writer saw Marquard win his nineteen consecutive victories, tying the big league record. It was a tremendous exploit. He does not expect to see another left hander as good as Marquard in his baseball time.

FOUR HORSEMEN WIN GRID TITLE ON FINAL RIDE

Outspeed Warner's Stanford Crew; Nevers is Star.

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 2.—Two thousand miles from home in a strange setting of golden tinged orange groves and winter-blooming beds of crimson poinsettas, Knute Rockne's four horsemen and their comrades of the Notre Dame eleven today rested content with the laurels won in the annual New Year's day east-west football clash with Fullback Ernie Nevers and ten other Leland-Stanford men.

It was a thrill-packed fight to the 27 to 10 finish which proclaimed the Irish American's gridiron champions. It was the first eastern victory at Pasadena since 1920 when Harvard beat Oregon. Two intercepted forward passes and one costly fumble, at the buttery hands of Stanford's quarter, Fred Solomon, aided Notre Dame, but superior ability in following the ball, speed usually only seen at track meets, and a backfield more powerful than any that ever kicked the turf beside the broad Pacific was really responsible for their victory.

So swiftly moved the horsemen that Stanford's huge players, heavier ten pounds to a man, looked like Percherons, afflicted with elephantitis.

Every big game has its hero and the New Year's classic placed the laurel on Nevers, the greatest back the Pacific coast has ever produced.

With a limp in both feet, almost wallowing in fat from an inactive season due to injuries and practically alone in his brilliant performance, Nevers was largely responsible for the Red Shirters' offense and defense.

The Cardinals completed 12 forward passes against two for Notre Dame. They gained 180 yards from scrimmages while the Catholics did 133. They made 18 first down while the Irish accomplished seven.

Warner's backfield was miserably weak in contrast to the great quartet—Stuhldreher, Layden, Miller and Crowley.

Amateurs Will Battle.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2.—The first amateur boxing show to be staged in Cleveland for a year is scheduled for tonight. Sixteen fighters of more or less ability will participate in the evening's program.

INTERMEDIATES WIN FLOOR GAME

On the "Y" floor yesterday afternoon the Y. M. C. A. intermediates won from the Christian church aggregation by the score of 30 to 26. The victors held a lead of six points at the end of the first half, the score being 11 to 5.

In the second half the Christians forged ahead of their opponents and were leading by a fair margin until the last five minutes of the game when the Intermediates staged a scoring rally that pulled them through for a victory. Davis, Larkins, Canne and Murphy were the stellar performers for the victors, Larkins carrying off the scoring honors. Reese, Owens, Bloor and Heddleston were the leading players for the Christians, Reese being the scoring star for the losers. Lineup and summary.

KID KAPLAN IS MADE FAVORITE

Both Aspire to Cop Title Vacated by Dundee.

By SID MERCER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—The old Queensbury pot in which the featherweight championship has been stewing since last summer comes to a boil tonight in Madison Square Garden, to eliminate either Kid Kaplan or Danny Kramer as a title aspirant.

Kaplan and Kramer are two Jewish youths who have fought their way through the lists at the direction of the New York Boxing Commission. Now they find themselves tearing each other in a fifteen round struggle to decide who is worthy to succeed Johnny Dundee.

General opinion favors Kaplan, although Kramer is recognized as a dangerous hitter and an awkard man to fight because of his left handed posturing. The betting is 8 to 5 on Kaplan.

Neither is a native or a resident of New York. Kramer hails from California but has been operating in Philadelphia for about three years. Kaplan's home is in Meriden, Conn.

If the Kid loses tonight, Meriden will go broke and put on mourning. Kaplan's expedition to New York after the golden fleece was more than an individual venture. In fact, it is a civic movement, as far as the city of Meridan is concerned.

Furthermore Meridan is going to furnish its championship candidate with something more than vocal support. The Meridenites will land here this evening on a special train 1500 strong and with a brass band to whoop it up. They come with the rubbers off their bankrolls, prepared to fight to the last dollar.

Kaplan's challenge of Dundee was accepted by the boxing commission early last summer. Dundee didn't want to make the weight. He squirmed and dodged but Kaplan bounded him.

Kramer has the legs of a bantam, with the torso of a lightweight. His wide shoulders proclaim rare hitting ability. His left hand is his ace and he is a specialist at body punishing.

Kaplan is a good two-handed fighter with ability to keep going at top speed. He has not been slowed by any of the lads who have fought him here. However, his punches were not deadly except when he had an opponent in a bad way.

Calomel is a good drug—in its place; but it's seldom in its place

The Brooklyn fighter was outboxed the entire ten rounds, throughout which Monroe kept picking at a cut he had opened over Ballerino's eye. Ballerino was warned several times for low hitting.

In the other final, Pete Sarimento, New York, barely outpointed Eddie Shea, of Chicago in the tenth round.

M. P. PASSERS GO INTO LEAD

Defeat First Presbyterians in Warm Battle. 44 to 29.

Methodist Protestant basketball passers went into the lead in the "Y" Sunday school league race when they defeated the First Presbyterians last night on the Methodist Protestant floor by the score of 44 to 29.

The M. P. lads outplayed their opponents during most of the game and though the First Presbyterians led at the end of the first half by a 12 to 11 score the M. P's played rings around their opponents in the third quarter, practically winning the game in this period, when the score stood 29 to 14.

In the last quarter the M. P. five kept the big lead that they gained in the third quarter, and were leading by fifteen points when the whistle ended the contest. Carey, Todd, Mackey and Wilson were the stars for the winners while Bough, Allison and Cooper were the mainstays for the Presbyterians.

In the preliminary game the First Presbyterian Juniors scored a victory over the Methodist Protestant Juniors by the count of 31 to 23. Feit was the scoring ace for the Presbyterian Juniors, while Angus led in the scoring for the Methodist Protestant Juniors.

HORNSBY MOST POTENT HITTER

St. Louis Star Compiled Extra-base Mark of .696.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Another honor has crept up unawares on Rogers Hornsby, the well-known ball player, and claimed him as its own. According to a list of official memoranda cast upon the public prints today, the St. Louis socker was the leading slugger of the National league last season, with an average of .696, the exact pertinence of which is best made clear by the fact that the young man was at bat 536 times and compiled a total of .373 bases. He also received the greatest number of gratitudes—which is drawing room English for bases on balls. Our Mr. Hornsby walked eighty-nine times, in case you are interested in sordid figures.

Cy Williams, of the Phillies, was runner-up for the slugging title, it seems. He was at bat 558 times and hit for a total of 303 bases, an average of .552. Zach Wheat, of the Dodgers; Hazen Cuyler, of the Pirates; Jack Fournier, of the Dodgers, and George Kelly, of the Giants, trailed this pair in the order named.

In addition, Brother Kelly was pleased to drive in the most runs—136; and Jim Bottomeley, of the Cardinals, established a major-league record for a single game when he made a personal issue of accounting for twelve tallies. James's rampage occured during a nine-inning game between the Cardinals and the Dodgers on September 16 last.

It also appears that Barney Friberg, of the Cubs, led the league at his own particular specialty. He was thrown out stealing the most times—twenty-seven, which is vaguely similar to nobody's business, like failure to wash behind the ears. Henry Knight Gro, of the Giants, also fell heir to an honor of doubtful value. Henry was hit with a pitched ball eleven times, leading the league in this respect. This fact will utterly confound Henry's critics, who have gone out of their way to assert that he is slipping.

The official statistician again indulges in personalities when he points out that George Grantham, of the Cubs fanned more times than any other National League player. George struck out sixty-three times.

However, all of the statistician's facts are not unpleasant. One of them is to the effect that Stuffy McInnes, of the Braves, fanned fewer times than any other player six in all. This is very commendable, and Stuffy may go right to the head of the class, provided he isn't demoted to the primary grade in the meantime.

KID KAPLAN IS MADE FAVORITE

By SID MERCER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—The old Queensbury pot in which the feather-weight championship has been stewing since last summer comes to a boil tonight in Madison Square Garden, to eliminate either Kid Kaplan or Danny Kramer as a title aspirant.

Kaplan and Kramer are two Jewish youths who have fought their way through the lists at the direction of the New York Boxing Commission. Now they find themselves facing each other in a fifteen round struggle to decide who is worthy to succeed Johnny Dundee.

General opinion favors Kaplan, although Kramer is recognized as a dangerous hitter and an awkard man to fight because of his left handed posturing. The betting is 8 to 5 on Kaplan.

Neither is a native or a resident of New York. Kramer hails from California but has been operating in Philadelphia for about three years. Kaplan's home is in Meriden, Conn.

If the Kid loses tonight, Meriden will go broke and put on mourning. Kaplan's expedition to New York after the golden fleece was more than an individual venture. In fact, it is a civic movement, as far as the city of Meridan is concerned.

Furthermore Meridan is going to furnish its championship candidate with something more than vocal support. The Meridenites will land here this evening on a special train 1500 strong and with a brass band to whoop it up. They come with the rubbers off their bankrolls, prepared to fight to the last dollar.

Kaplan's challenge of Dundee was accepted by the boxing commission early last summer. Dundee didn't want to make the weight. He squirmed and dodged but Kaplan hounded him.

Kramer has the legs of a bantam, with the torso of a lightweight. His wide shoulders proclaim rare hitting ability. His left hand is his ace and he is a specialist at body punishing.

Kaplan is a good two-handed fighter with ability to keep going at top speed. He has not been slowed by any of the lads who have fought him here. However, his punches were not deadly except when he had an opponent in a bad way.

BALLERINO IS SET BACK NOTCH

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 2—Mike Ballerino today was further removed from the field where champions frolic as a result of his overwhelming defeat at the hands of Frankie Monroe, Los Angeles, last night. The Brooklyn fighter was outboxed the entire ten rounds, throughout which Monroe kept picking at a cut he had opened over Ballerino's eye. Ballerino was warned several times for low hitting.

In the other final, Pete Sarimento, New York, barely outpointed Eddie Shea, of Chicago in the tenth round.

M. P. PASSERS GO INTO LEAD

Defeat First Presbyterians in Warm Battle, 44 to 29.

Methodist Protestant basketball passers went into the lead in the "Y" Sunday school league race when they defeated the First Presbyterians last night on the Methodist Protestant floor by the score of 44 to 29.

The M. P. lads outplayed their opponents during most of the game and though the First Presbyterians led at the end of the first half by a 12 to 11 score the M. P's played rings around their oponents in the third quarter, practically winning the game in this period, when the score stood 29 to 14.

In the last quarter the M. P. five kept the big lead that they gained in the third quarter, and were leading by fifteen points when the whistle ended the contest. Carey, Todd, Mackey and Wilson were the stars for the winners while Bough, Allison and Cooper were the mainstays for the Presbyterians.

In the preliminary game the First Presbyterian Juniors scored a victory over the Methodist Protestant Juniors by the count of 31 to 23. Feit was the scoring ace for the Presbyterian Juniors, while Angus led in the scoring for the Methodist Protestant Juniors.

HORNSBY MOST POTENT HITTER

St. Louis Star Compiled Extra-base Mark of .696.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Another honor has crept up unawares on Rogers Hornsby, the well-known ball player, and claimed him as its own. According to a list of official memoranda cast upon the public prints today, the St. Louis socker was the leading slugger of the National league last season, with an average of .696, the exact pertinence of which is best made clear by the fact that the young man was at bat 536 times and compiled a total of .373 bases. He also received the greatest number of gratitudes—which is drawing room English for bases on balls. Our Mr. Hornsby walked eighty-nine times, in case you are interested in sordid figures.

Cy Williams, of the Phillies, was runner-up for the slugging title, it seems. He was at bat 558 times and hit for a total of 303 bases, an average of .552. Zach Wheat, of the Dodgers; Hazen Cuyler, of the Pirates; Jack Fournier, of the Dodgers, and George Kelly, of the Giants, trailed this pair in the order named.

In addition, Brother Kelly was pleased to drive in the most runs—136; and Jim Bottomeley, of the Cardinals, established a major-league record for a single game when he made a personal issue of accounting for twelve tallies. James's rampage occured during a nine-inning game between the Cardinals and the Dodgers on September 16 last.

It also appears that Barney Friberg, of the Cubs, led the league at his own particular specialty. He was thrown out stealing the most times—twenty-seven, which is vaguely similar to nobody's business, like failure to wash behind the ears. Henry Knight Gro, of the Giants, also fell heir to an honor of doubtful value. Henry was hit with a pitched ball eleven times, leading the league in this respect. This fact will utterly confound Henry's critics, who have gone out of their way to assert that he is slipping.

The official statistician again indulges in personalities when he points out that George Grantham, of the Cubs fanned more times than any other National League player. George struck out sixty-three times.

However, all of the statistician's facts are not unpleasant. One of them is to the effect that Stuffy McInnes, of the Braves, fanned fewer times than any other player six in all. This is very commendable, and Stuffy may go right to the head of the class, provided he isn't demoted to the primary grade in the meantime.

LUIS ANXIOUS TO MEET TOM

Due in London Tomorrow to Finish Battle Plans.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—Luis Firpo will go to London tomorrow to conclude arrangements for his match with Tom Gibbons and within two weeks will be training at Nice for the meeting, he told the International News Service in an exclusive interview today.

"I will go to London Saturday for the final arrangements for the Gibbons match the second week in March," the big Argentinian said.

"Coming back to Paris January 10, I then will go to Nice for my training."

Firpo looked "in the pink" and said he was feeling that way.

"I weigh 225 now and am in the best sort of condition," he declared. "I am anxious to get in action."

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Orange Mint Cocktail—Divide six juicy oranges into sections, removing all skin and pith. Add six tablespoons sugar and four tablespoons maraschino cherry juice and set aside to chill for an hour. To this add two tablespoons finely chopped mint, mix thoroughly, pile high in small glasses and place a cherry on top of each.

Salad—Shred three cups of white cabbage and place in ice water. Cut a few red and green sweet peppers in narrow rings, removing seeds. Roll enough cottage or cream cheese into a ball the size of a walnut for each guest. Drain cabbage and mix with one and one-half cups diced celery. Mix with mayonnaise dressing to which one teaspoon of onion juice has been added. Pile in an attractive salad bowl, decorate with alternate rings of red and green peppers. Make a small hollow in the center of the salad and fill this with the cheese balls which have been previously rolled in crushed roasted peanuts.

Cranberry Sherbert—Cook one qt. cranberries with one pint water until berries burst. Strain, add one pound sugar and cook slowly until sugar is dissolved. Cool and add the strained juice of one lemon and freeze. When half frozen add the beaten white of an egg and finish freezing.

Scalloped Oysters—Butter a baking dish, strew the bottom with rolled cracker, wet with oyster liquor and milk slightly warmed. Lay on oysters, set closely, sprinkle with salt, pepper, bits of butter and a few drops of lemon juice, then another layer of moistened crumbs and so on until the dish is full. Let the top layer be of crumbs dotted with bits of butter. Bake covered one-half hour, uncover and brown quickly.

Baked Pork Tenderloins—Cut whole pork tenderloin lengthwise about an inch deep and fill with poultry dressing. Baste with tomato juice seasoned with onion and a pinch of cloves. Strips of bacon laid across the top add to the flavor.

Baked Rice Pudding — Two quarts milk, one-half cup rice, one cup raisins, butter size of a butternut, one cup sugar. Season with nutmeg. Bake two hours.

Baked Squash—Take a large white squash and cut a hole in the top big enough to remove the seeds, then fill with a dressing made of a pint of dry bread crumbs, an onion chopped fine, a scant teaspoon of mustard, two tablespoons of butter in small pieces, half a teaspoon of powdered sage, salt and pepper to taste and two beaten eggs. After the filling is in the squash replace the top, put in a baking pan and cook in the oven for two hours using pork drippings to baste with. If served with a few strips of bacon this makes a most substantial dish.

ZIMTSTERN
(Cinnamon Stars)

One-half pound sugar, five egg whites, beaten until stiff. Stir half hour. Add one-half pound almonds cut fine, one candied lemon peeling, cut fine, two teaspoons cloves, two teaspoons cinnamon, one-half teaspoon lump ammonia (bought at drug stores), enough flour to form. Roll dough about one-fourth inch thick. Cut with star cutter, sprinkle with granulated sugar. Press half almond in center of each cookie and bake in moderate oven.

Suggestion

An appetizing liver sandwich dressing is made as follows: One pound liver boiled with two bay leaves and five cloves. Boil until tender and cook broth until one cupful remains. Grind the liver using the finest knife and pour the broth over this. Cut up a medium sized onion and fry in one tablespoon of butter until tender. Put the onion with the liver and grind with the grinder. Put the juice of a lemon with this and grind again. Vinegar may used instead of lemon.

For a change for a luncheon try glazed almonds instead of the usual salted nuts. Blanch and shell a cup of almonds in the usual way. To one cup of sugar add one-half of water and boil about ten minutes, then drop in the almonds and continue the boiling until the nuts turn a faint yellow; then remove quickly from the fire and stir until the syrup reaches the sugary stage, clinging to the nuts. Then spread to cool on a plate on which a piece of waxed paper has been laid. Serve like salted almonds.

A delightful way to serve simple Sunday evening or holiday lunches is to prepare trays for each individual. For sandwich filling leftovers may be utilized or slices of the roast left from dinner. Coffee is served for the grown-ups and each child gets a cup of coca with a marshmallow.

It is an easy matter to gather up the trays and few dishes need be used. The older children like to help with this kind of a meal and lessons in serving and general manners may be taught incidentally. On hot summer evenings the lunch may be served on the porch or lawn and in the winter before the fireplace.

For those that have work benches in their basement or happen to be radio fans, this system will help to preserve order. Buy at the 10-cent store, different size muffin tins, using the large ones for large screws, nuts, bolts, etc., and the small sizes for all smaller things. You can find just the screw you want at a glance. These tins can be placed one on top of the other and take up little space.

In an emergency, or where one has little starching to do corn starch makes an excellent substitute for the gloss starch. In fact, it makes the clothes nicer than the ordinary gloss starch.

Bridesmaid Reveals Self as Newlywed Following Wedding

NEW YORK.—A bride herself and a bridesmaid a few hours later was the experience of Miss Ruth H. Levey, known as a successful real estate broker, though she is only twenty-seven.

She was married to Bernard Lindenberg, vice president of an advertising concern, in Greenwich, Conn., by a Justice of the Peace. A few hours after her wedding, Mrs. Linudenberg was bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Hortense Prowler to William Morrison, head of Morrison & Company, produce merchants.

Mrs. Lindenberg kept her own wedding a secret until after Miss Prowler became Mrs. Morrison. Then she released her surprise.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Orange Mint Cocktail—Divide six juicy oranges into sections, removing skin and pith. Add six tablespoons sugar and four tablespoons maraschino cherry juice and set aside to chill for an hour. To this add two tablespoons finely chopped mint, mix thoroughly, pile high in small glasses and place a cherry on top of each.

Salad—Shred three cups of white cabbage and place in ice water. Cut a few red and green sweet peppers in narrow rings, removing seeds. Roll enough cottage or cream cheese into a ball the size of a walnut for each guest. Drain cabbage and mix with one and one-half cups diced celery. Mix with mayonnaise dressing to which one teaspoon of onion juice has been added. Pile in an attractive salad bowl, decorate with alternate rings of red and green peppers. Make a small hollow in the center of the salad and fill this with the cheese balls which have been previously rolled in crushed roasted peanuts.

Cranberry Sherbert—Cook one qt. cranberries with one pint water until berries burst. Strain, add one pound sugar and cook slowly until sugar is dissolved. Cool and add the strained juice of one lemon and freeze. When half frozen add the beaten white of an egg and finish freezing.

Scalloped Oysters—Butter a baking dish, strew the bottom with rolled cracker, wet with oyster liquor and milk slightly warmed. Lay on oysters, set closely, sprinkle with salt, pepper, bits of butter and a few drops of lemon juice, then another layer of moistened crumbs and so on until the dish is full. Let the top layer be of crumbs dotted with bits of butter. Bake covered one-half hour, uncover and brown quickly.

Baked Pork Tenderloins—Cut whole pork tenderloin lengthwise about an inch deep and fill with poultry dressing. Baste with tomato juice seasoned with onion and a pinch of cloves. Strips of bacon laid across the top add to the flavor.

Baked Rice Pudding — Two quarts milk, one-half cup rice, one cup raisins, butter size of a butternut, one cup sugar. Season with nutmeg. Bake two hours.

Baked Squash—Take a large white squash and cut a hole in the top big enough to remove the seeds, then fill with a dressing made of a pint of dry bread crumbs, an onion chopped fine, a scant teaspoon of mustard, two tablespoons of butter in small pieces, half a teaspoon of powdered sage, salt and pepper to taste and two beaten eggs. After the filling is in the squash replace the top, put in a baking pan and cook in the oven for two hours using pork drippings to baste with. If served with a few strips of bacon this makes a most substantial dish.

ZIMTSTERN
(Cinnamon Stars)

One-half pound sugar, five egg whites, beaten until stiff. Stir half hour. Add one-half pound almonds cut fine, one candied lemon peeling, cut fine, two teaspoons cloves, two teaspoons cinnamon, one-half teaspoon hump ammonia (bought at drug stores), enough flour to form. Roll dough about one-fourth inch thick. Cut with star cutter, sprinkle with granulated sugar. Press half almond in center of each cookie and bake in moderate oven.

Suggestion

An appetizing liver sandwich dressing is made as follows: One pound liver boiled with two bay leaves and five cloves. Boil until tender and cook broth until one cupful remains. Grind the liver using the finest knife and pour the broth over this. Cut up a medium sized onion and fry in one tablespoon of butter until tender. Put the onion with the liver and grind with the grinder. Put the juice of a lemon with this and grind again. Vinegar may used instead of lemon.

For a change for a luncheon try glazed almonds instead of the usual salted nuts. Blanch and shell a cup of almonds in the usual way. To one cup of sugar add one-half of water and boil about ten minutes, then drop in the almonds and continue the boiling until the nuts turn a faint yellow; then remove quickly from the fire and stir until the syrup reaches the sugary stage, clinging to the nuts. Then spread to cool on a plate on which a piece of waxed paper has been laid. Serve like salted almonds.

A delightful way to serve simple Sunday evening or holiday luncheon is to prepare trays for each individual. For sandwich filling leftovers may be utilized or slices of the roast left from dinner. Coffee is served for the grown-ups and each child gets a cup of coca with a marshmallow.

It is an easy matter to gather up the trays and few dishes need be used. The older children like to help with this kind of a meal and lessons in serving and general manners may be taught incidentally. On hot summer evenings the lunch may be served on the porch or lawn and in the winter before the fireplace.

For those that have work benches in their basement or happen to be radio fans, this system will help to preserve order. Buy at the 10-cent store, different size muffin tins, using the large ones for large screws, nuts, bolts, etc., and the small sizes for all smaller things. You can find just the screw you want at a glance. These tins can be placed one on top of the other and take up little space.

250 ARE SAVED AS SHIP BURNS

CLYDE LINER MOHAWK'S PASSENGERS TAKEN OFF AS STIFF GALE RAGES

Steamer, Will be Beached Off Delaware Coast as Soon as Members of Crew, Still Aboard Vessel, are Picked up by Relief Craft, According to Navy Department Report.

VESSEL, CARRYING WINTER TOURISTS, WAS ON WAY TO JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

Wireless Message Reports Blaze in After Hold is Spreading to After Salon as Steamship Reaches Point Off Brandywine Light — Five Vessels Answer Distress Calls.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The 250 passengers on the Clyde line steamer Mohawk, reported afire off the Delaware coast, have been removed from the ship and landed safely, according to a wireless message picked up by the navy department here this afternoon.

The message said that the crew was still aboard the vessel but would be taken off by tugs and cutters and the Mohawk beached.

The survivors, said these messages, are being taken to Lewes, Del., where a special train is being made up to take them to their destinations, Charleston, S. C., and Jacksonville, Fla.

Captain J. M. Staples, the skipper, is preparing to beach the vessel on Delaware breakwater to prevent its loss.

The fire was extinguished at dawn. Captain Staples kept 35 of the crew aboard to man the ship.

When the passengers were aroused by stewards soon after discovery of the blaze, they made their way to a forward deck. There were 105 women among them. Men in the group volunteered their services and helped the sailors quench the fire.

Tremendous Sea Running.

LEWES, Del., Jan. 2—With more than 200 passengers on board the Clyde liner Mohawk is reported afire off Brandywine light, Delaware Bay, near here.

Five boats are reported standing by prepared to take the passengers off.

The boats reported standing by are: The Merchants' and Miners' liner Persian, two tugs from Lewes, the coast guard cutter Kickapoo from Cape May and a cutter from here.

A radio message indicated that the rescue of passengers was imminent, of not already taking place despite the gale that is raging.

The message received from the cutter Kickapoo by the Clyde agent said: "Fire has spread to the after salon. Will take passengers off".

The shivering passengers were lined up in the deck ready, according to reports received here.

The roof of the "Blue sky Garage" collapsed and buried a large number of automobiles in a mass of snow and debris, but no one was injured.

Compromise Solution of P. O. Wage Boost Looms.

SAVE NEWSPAPERS

Second Class Jumps Will be Sharply Reduced.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—American publishers won a sweeping victory today when the senate post office committee adopted a new postal rate schedule, sharply reducing the administration's recommediations for increases and second class mail.

The new rate bill, including also provisions for a $68,000,000 salary increase for postoffice employees, will be reported to the senate late this afternoon. It was drafted as a compromise to meet the storm of opposition raised against the new schedules, proposed by the postoffice department, which would have made publishers bear the burden of the salary increases.

Administration leaders hope to substitute the compromise measure for the postal salary bill which President Coolidge vetoed, before the senate reaches a scheduled vote on it next Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—A temporary increase in postal rates, effective for a single year, appeared today as a compromise solution to the administration's problem of financing the $69,000,000 wage advance to postoffice employees.

Under this plan administration leaders would materially amend the Postoffice Department's new rate schedule in the Sterling bill, which would place the burden of the rate increases upon American Newspapers and Magazines. The compromise would sharply reduce the department's recommendations for increases on second class rates, which apply to newspapers and publications.

Plan To Study Problem.

This action was virtually decided upon by administration leaders because of the great opposition levelled at the department's schedule by publishers and other users of the mails. The condemnation convinced administration leaders that the Sterling rates could never be enacted into law. Senator Moses, Republican of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate committee in charge of the bill, proposed the compromise.

"I believe that any changes in postal rates at this time should be of temporary character," said Moses. "Congress should initiate an investigation of the whole rate structure before making any permanent changes. That is why I offered a compromise plan, which could be adopted to provide increased revenues to meet the pay increases, for the coming year.

"Permanent changes could be made by the next Congress after sufficient time has been allowed for a thorough study of rate structure."

Consider Compromise.

The Moses plan incidentally would meet one of the chief objections raised by publishers which was that they had not had enough time to study the Sterling bill. They also contended the Sterling rates did not take into consideration the "problem of public service," for which the postoffice department was founded.

The senate postoffice committee met today to study the Moses compromise and to draft a report on the Sterling bill. Its work was hurried at the request of administration leaders, who want the omnibus measure reported to the senate by Monday so an effort can be made to substitute it for the postal pay bill, vetoed last spring by President Coolidge. Under an agreement, the senate votes next Tuesday on the question of overriding the veto, but if the substitution is made the president has indicated he will approve the pay increases because congress will have provided the additional revenue.

STONE OUSTS DEFIANT AIDE

FIVE INJURED ON NEW YEAR'S

Three Coasters Hurt—Auto Runs Down Two Women.

Five persons, three of them coasters, were victims of traffic accidents, in East Liverpool and vicinity, yesterday and today.

Billy Reark, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reark, 715 Edwards avenue, and Charles Taylor, seven-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taylor, 951 West Eighth street, were injured when they collided with an automobile while coasting on Division street, shortly after the noon hour New Year's day. The two youngsters, it is claimed, failed to notice the approach of the car.

They were taken to the city hospital where they were attended by Dr. C. R. Larkins. The Reark lad was lacerated about the face and his right knee fractured. His companion sustained lacerations and bruises only. The name of the automobile driver could not be ascertained.

Louis Michel, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Michel, Sixth and Jackson street, was injured about the left leg at 10:30 o'clock this morning when he collided with an automobile at the sharp turn in St. Clair avenue, just north of Walnut street. The lad, coasting down the hill, rolled off his sled to avert striking the car, which was traveling up the hill. The sled was demolished.

Mrs. Florence Gilmore, 42, and her daughter, Leola Gilmore, residing along the Lincoln Highway near Gilmore's stop, were run down by an unidentified motorist while returning from a neighbor's home about 10 o'clock last night. The women claim they were walking along the road on the left side when the machine traveling in the direction of East Liverpool, struck them. The driver failed to halt.

The women were discovered a few minutes later by Mathias Rudibaugh, who resides on the Georgetown road, as he was enroute to Lisbon. To avert striking the women, who were lying in the road, Rudibaugh ditched his car, putting it out of running order. He assisted the two women to their homes where they were attended by Dr. Hugh Maxwell, of Lisbon. Mrs. Gilmore suffered a broken collar bone while her daughter was injured about the lower part of the body.

Cars owned by Elmer Gray, of Ravenna and John Smith, of St. Clair township collided along the Lincoln highway near Lisbon Thursday morning. Both machines were badly damaged, but no one was injured.

East Liverpool Man, Defeated Last August by Gov. Donahey, Announces Candidacy for Nomination Two Years Hence.

James C. B. Beatty, pottery jobber, who was defeated for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by Governor A. V. Donahey at the primaries last August, today announced he intends to enter the 1926 race.

According to his announcement, he will seek the office on "purely Democratic principles, without fear, in behalf of equal human rights of every American citizen and without mercy against executive and judicial injustice that should not be exercised against the weak."

This will be Beatty's third appearance in politics. As an independent candidate for mayor in 1923 he ran second in a field of three. He is the first candidate to announce his hat is in the ring for the race two years hence.

Big Ears, Big Feet Are Born, Not Made, Says Scientist

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—Big ears and big feet are born, not made, to paraphrase the language of the scientists who have discovered that heredity and not environments is responsible for the differences in the physicial make up of individuals.

This fact was brought out here today by Dr. Adolph H. Schultz, of the Carnegie Institute, Baltimore, who declared the "trained eye of the anthropologist detects these individual characteristics at a stage in development when the individual is as yet but an inch or so in size."

"The person with unusually large ears," said Dr. Schultz did not acquire this distinctive feature by having his ears pulled by a tyrinical parent but possessed more conspicuous ears than other babies before birth."

ORDER ARREST OF MOTORISTS WHO FAIL TO HEED WARNING

Drivers Must Halt at Intersections of Streets.

Accidents Increased in 1924, Says Chief McDermott.

Declaring that 1924 had been a record-breaking year for automobile accidents in East Liverpool, Chief of Police McDermott today declared war on traffic violators.

Police have been instructed to enforce the one-way street regulations, as provided in the newly enacted traffic ordinance and also arrest motorists who fail to halt at street intersections. Cars parked in the restricted acreas will also be "tagged."

Traffic Hazards.

"East Liverpool is one of the worst cities in the state for traffic hazards," the chief said. "A man is taking his own life in his hands when he attempts to cross the busy street intersection because of careless drivers.

"During the last year there have been more traffic accidents here than in any other year, and we are determined to make the streets safe for the pedestrain as well as the automobile driver. Fully one-third of the machines which are being driven here are ready for the junk pile, and the drivers are not only endangering their own lives but also the lives of others.

"The practice of parking cars on the streets night and day must cease. Some automobile owners have no garages and permit their machines to stand on the streets 24 hours per day. These machines will be towed to garages in the future at the expense of the owners."

One-Way Streets.

One-way traffic regulations will be made effective on Washington street, between Fourth and Sixth street. Cars parked on the west side of this street must be backed into the curb instead of heading in. Automobiles parked in the wrong manner on this street will be "tagged" and the owners notified to appear before the mayor, the chief declared. Traffic will move in a northerly direction only.

Other one-way thoroughfares include Crook alley, from Fourth to Sixth street, northbound traffic only; Diamond street, from Broadway to Jackson street, westbound traffic only; Peach alley, from Fifth to Sixth street, adjoining Ceramic cafeteria, for northbound traffic only; Potters' alley from St. Clair avenue to Broadway for eastbound traffic only.

Police have been instructed to take the license numbers of cars which are "tagged" in order to make certain that the offenders appear in police court.

The department head also warned that no leniency would be shown motorists who have failed to have their brakes and headlights adjusted. It is claimed that less than one-half of the cars in use here have been tested.

Army Recruiting Service Resumed by Corporal Grossman

Corporal Alex Grossman arrived here today to resume army recruiting services, suspended about a month ago, when he was transferred to Canton.

Places are now open in the infantry, field artillery and coast artillery on the Hawaiian islands; medical corps at Carlisle barracks, Pa., and for qualified musicians at West Point and Marfa, Texas.

The recruiting office will be maintained in the basement of the postoffice building.

WOODSFIELD.—Advising Monroe county farmers to grow gooseberries, William Parsons, service director of the county farm bureau, asserted this crop should prove more profitable than others and may be produced successfully on the hills of "the Switzerland of Ohio," as Monroe county is often described.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Unhappy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a fellow for the last four years and I love him with all my heart and soul. I have done everything to make him happy. He was away from me for a while. I have found he has been out with other girls and it just breaks my heart. I want to leave him and every one tells me to do so, but I will never be happy without him. He makes me cry all the time. I want to go somewhere and forget him. Do you think a man loves a woman when he goes out with other girls? He never said anything about marrying me. I want a home so badly for I haven't any. Should I ask him if he will ever marry me? I am clean and always neat about myself. He never had me out to his home. I have gone through with so much that I don't want to live any more. I don't care what happens to me now. What should I do? I know he will never find a girl like me for I have been like a mother to him in every way.

BLUE.

My dear, you have worked yourself into a most unfortunate mental state and until you take hold of yourself and get over your blues and tears you cannot hope to hold the love of the man who is causing you so much suffering. Perhaps you have overpowered him with your love and he is getting tired of your devotion. No man likes to feel that his sweetheart is just like a mother to him. In the future let him feel that you are light hearted and happy even if you have to pretend. Don't try to boss him and by no means take offense if he goes out with other girls. He has not asked you to marry him and therefore he is free to go with any girl and as many as he cares to. You, too, are free to go with other young men, and if you have the opportunity I would certainly advise you to do so. Do not ask the young man if he intends to marry you. It is his place to mention the subject. You can do a great deal to bring about a proposal by changing from the unhappy girl you are now into a cheerful, enticing companion. Make it a rule never to show jealousy or to interfere when he shows interest in other girls. The more freedom you give him to do as he pleases, the more apt he is to cling to you. When a man is in love, he rarely cares to go with other girls. Perhaps your friend loves you but thinks he has grown tired of you because of the way you have been acting. Brace up and win back his regard.

No Cause To Worry.

Perplexed; From your husband's point of view he is doing nothing wrong. His recreation is quite harmless in my opinion and will not lead to anything worse. At least you have no cause to worry now and are making a great mistake in opposing him so strenuously and forcing him to disregard your wishes in the matter. When he goes away for an evening every three or four weeks, you ought to be very grateful that he does not return to you drunk and that it is every three or four weeks and not every night that he leaves you.

BROKEN - HEARTED — By all means let the man you love go. He does not love you as you love him or he would want to protect you. Of course it will be hard never to see him again, but unless you take that course your whole life will be broken.

And we'll never miss the typhoid 'til the shallow well is dry.

Gift of $200,000 For Disabled Men Made by Gothamite

NEW YORK — A gift of $200,000 has been made to the Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men by Jeremiah Milbank.

The income from the gift will be used in the work of training men who are physically handicapped to enable them to earn their own living.

Milbank always has been prominently identified with the work of the organization. He is a member of the board of trustees.

The institution, since 1917, has found jobs for 4,430 disabled men and has saved them $65,000 in employment fees. The 840 men trained in its classes earn more than $1,000,000 a year. The main objects of the organization are a free employment service, the production of artificial limbs and the furnishing of work to home-bound cripples.

"Air Trap" Blamed For Plane Crashes Near Croton, N. Y.

CROTON, N. Y. — Recalling that two other airplanes had fallen in separate accidents in Croton a short way from where Sergeant Samuel H. Turner, United States army, fell 2,000 feet recently, Judge Anderson and other residents expressed the opinion that Croton has an "air trap."

Like Turner, the other aviators escaped with only minor injuries.

Pennsy Co. Also Turns Over Land at Yellow Creek.

The Fidelity Title & Trust company of Pittsburgh, executors of the estate of William B. McCullough, who gave to Jefferson county under certain conditions the Jefferson County Children's Home at Yellow Creek, has deeded to the county the 70-acre tract on which the home is located.

The deed was recorded this week and along with it a deed from the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad company to the county, conveying land at Yellow Creek in Saline township. The deeds are the culmination of a long period of negotiations between the county, the railroad company and the executors of the McCullough estate.

The railroad company contemplates and has planned the building of a "Y" at Yellow Creek to further its freight transportation facilities and to construct it, it was necessary to acquire a new right of way near the children's home.

The county deeds to the railroad company a new right of way and in return the railroad company trades to the county 2 and 601-1000 acres, gives the county $17,500 and agrees to build a new 20-foot macadam road to replace the road which will be vacated, it being located on the plot traded to the railroad company and across which it will build its tracks.

In the course of the dealings between the railroad company and the county commissioners, the former took up the work of attempting to secure for the county a clear title to the home and did so.

The home has been in the hands of the commissioners under certain conditions, but the deed obtained through the efforts of railroad counsel gives the county clear title to the children's home estate and is worded so as to give the county full protection in the future.

Spitting Spreads Tuberculosis

Of importance, in view of the campaign of the City Federation of Women's Clubs here against the spread of tuberculosis, in which financial aid was sought through the sale of health seals, it is interesting to note the comment of a public health officer on expectoration.

Says the official: "If we can get folks not to spit, we will have the fight on the white plague won. It is not a pleasant thing to discuss, but neither is the disease."

Other factors in the struggle against tuberculosis are fairly under control. Physicians have learned the essential things about diet, fresh air and adequate rest to prevent the disease from appearing in most cases, or overcome it when it has appeared. And such knowledge is pretty well spread among the public. But there remains always the danger of unnecessary infection with tubercular germs. Such infection is probably spread more by careless expectoration than in any other way. There are a surprisingly large number of otherwise intelligent persons who persist in acting as if disease germs did not exist. And although America has improved in this respect, since Dickens accused the nation of universal spitting in public, it is shocking how many persons still cling to that unclean and dangerous habit.

A sign observed in a postoffice reads: "If you spit on the flor at home, by all means do so here. We want you to feel at home. But remember that it spreads disease." It might be a good thing to plaster the whole country with that sign. For there are not many who spit on their floors at home or who want to spread disease.

Why Not Summer Woolens?

If furs were used only for warmth, there would be little fear of exterminating the wild creatures from which they are taken. The region in which fur garments are essential is small compared with the rest of the world.

But furs are worn in most parts of the United States primarily for ornament. Dress trimmings, evening wraps of fur, cuffs and collars of fur on winter coats, are all sheer luxury. Indulgence in this luxury is likely to end, in time, in the disappearance of the fur-bearing creatures.

According to the government taxidermist at Victoria museum in Ottowa, Ont., the summer fur is the least justified of all milady's furs. If the summer fur is not soon barred, he maintains, the fur-bearers cannot be protected. "There should be a closed season for fur neckpieces," and no season seems more suitable for closing in this way than summer in the temperate zone.

This taxidermist suggests that women try summer woolens as a substitute for summer furs. Such a fad wouldn't put an end to wool production, because the domestic sheep supply can be made practically unlimited.

"Summer woolens!" one can imagine a chorus of ladies saying, and shuddering as they say it. "How silly!" But why any sillier than summer furs?

Movies

Mrs. Mary Clark, riding with her family in an automobile on Christmas night, was knocked out of the car by a collision with a Big Four express train near Oakland, Ind., and was caught on the "cow-catcher" and carried onward in the darkness, without the engineer knowing what had happened.

She clung to the pilot until at last the bitter cold forced her to relax her hold and she fell off, unconscious, about 20 miles from the scene of the accident. She was picked up, only slightly injured, by a passing farmer ,and is little the worse for her experience.

In the movies that would be "impossible melodrama." But in life, nothing is impossible. Life itself is the great moving picture.

Ibanez, the novelist, may be foolish to tilt at kings and dictators, but he is wise enough not to accept duel challenges sent him by men who can't argue any other way.

About the only thrifty idea that hasn't occurred yet to Henry Ford is to sell spare parts as boys' building sets, and save the cost of assembling.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

MR. WARFIELD'S PLAN

S. Davies Warfield, president of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, plans an increase in profits for railroads and better freight service for the public through common sense consolidation of box car service.

There are in the country 1,100,000 ordinary box cars owned by the different railroads. The life of these cars is wasted in being hauled back and forth, operated on sidings, empty. Mr. Warfield suggests a central agency to handle cars for the benefit of all railsoads and all carrying business. That would be legal under the plan that Mr. Warfield suggests. It couldn't be accomplished otherwise, except by putting all railroads into one great consolidation. That doubtless will come.

KILL POTATO BUGS

Britain forbids importation of United States potatoes; too many potato bugs. Canada also has potato bugs, but Canadian potatoes are not shut out.

Secretary Hughes' protest calls for equal treatment from Great Britain that potato bugs within the empire have important redeeming qualities.

The British empire takes care of the British empire, and all inside it. Therein, it differs from some of our mushy imitation statesmen, everlastingly worrying about outside nations.

Why not take a few of the millions we lavish on foreign countries and use them to kill off systematically all potato bugs, mosquitoes and such enemies. If cattle ticks can be killed off, why not other pests? How many billions would it be worth to get rid of flies, potato bugs and mosquitoes?

What would that mean to the public health?

QUEER JUSTICE

Justice works in her own queer way. The distinguished prize fighter, "Kid" McCoy, in private life Norman Selby, was accused of murdering a woman. A bullet went into the back of her head. He says she killed herself. The prosecutor says he killed her and planned to kill her.

The jury brings in a verdict of manslaughter, in spite of the fact that it was either murder or not murder. "Kid" McCoy, now safe from hanging, at all events, will appeal and can only be convicted of manslaughter.

Judging by recent juries it will probably be decided that he has "suffered enough" and he'll get off.

SNAKES ON STOCKINGS

Ladies in Berlin wear snakes embroidered on their stockings, and golden snakes for garters. It's eccentric, but based on gratitude. Ladies would not have any stockings but, perhaps, for the original snake, that walked on the tip of his tail until sentenced.

Woman, the restless element in humanity, is certainly working out some important step in evolution, and no one should presumptuously judge her.

Collins, chief of police in Chicago, says there are 93,000 men out of work in the city, and predicts "more crime" where there is already plenty. It might be cheaper to find work for men, instead of waiting to find prison room for them.

The trouble is that it's paternalism, almost socialism, to suggest creating government jobs, whereas it is quite all right to give the man free board in prison, after he has started as a criminal.

To discourage crime might seem unfair to lawyers. The gentlemen who saved Leopold and Loeb from the gallows have been paid $150,000 for their work. It was worth it to the parents. They kept hangings out of the family record, so far as is known.

The doctors got even more money than the lawyers. It's worth more to swear that a murderer is crazy than merely to tell the judge that the murderer is innocent.

DINNER STORIES

The story that follows is told at the expense of both Horace Greeley and Henry Watterson, but Greeley really appears to have inspired it.

Greeley's handwriting was the worst ever seen even in a newspaper office, unless it was Watterson's.

There was only one compositor in the Tribune office who could read Greeley's copy. One day while the compositor was out a bird had flown into the office, walked into some printing ink and then on a number of loose sheets lying on the floor, the story goes.

"Why," said one of the printers, picking up a sheet, "this looks like the old man's writing." So saying, he fastened the sheets together and put them on the absent compositor's case.

Presently the compositor came back and with all eyes turned on his picked up the sheets and to the amazement of the room started setting up the supposed "copy."

Presently, however, he hesitated at a word and asked the man nearest him what it was.

"How should I know?" was the reply. "You know that you alone can read the old man's writing. Better ask him."

Reluctantly the baffled compositor took the sheet to Greeley's sanctum.

"Well," said the great man, "what is it?"

"It's this word, Mr. Greeley."

Greeley snatched the sheet from the man's hand, looked at the alleged word and threw himself back with a snort of disgust. "Why," he shouted, "any fool could see what it is! It's 'unconstitutional.'"

Colonel Tilford Huston, once 50-50 owner of the Yankees with Colonel Jake Ruppert, sat on a restaurant stool one day when a youngster at his elbow introduced himself. He said he had been in the colonel's regiment over in France.

"I'm the guy," said he, "who ran Frenchy out of the cookhouse. He said I was going to kill him."

The colonel did not remember the event.

"What did I say?" he asked.

"You says," replied the ex-roughboy, "'Frenchy, go on back and git killed.'

"And there wasn't any fight."

Two brothers were being entertained by a rich friend. As ill luck would have it, the talk drifted away from ordinary topics.

"Do you like Omar Khayyam?" thoughtlessly asked the host, trying to make conversation. The elder brother plunged heroically into the breach.

"Pretty well," he said, "but I prefer Chianti."

Nothing more was said on this subject until the brothers were on their way home.

"Bill," said the younger brother, breaking a painful silence, "why can't you leave things that you don't understand to me? Omar Khayyam ain't a wine, you chump; it's a cheese."

A farmer, who indulged in sprees, was observed in his Sunday clothes throwing five bushels of corn on the ear into the pen where he kept a half a dozen hogs, and he was heard to mutter:

"Thar, blast ye! if ye're prudent, that orter last ye."

An ancient car chugged painfully up to the gate at the races.

The gatekeeper demanding the usual fee for automobiles, called:

"A dollar for the car."

"Sold."

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

PARIS, Jan. 2.—Portia is a common sight in Paris, where the courts of justice are accustomed to women in sombre black robes, with white frills, carrying brief cases under their arms. More than two hundred women have been added to the Paris bar in the last 20 years, and some 20 or 30 of them already have become well-known figures at the palace of justice. Nearly all of the pretty lawyers are young. Madame Lucille Tinayre, the daughter of the famous writer, at the age of 25, has attained greater recognition than any other woman of the French bar, except, of course, Madame Marie Verone the veteran of the palace of justice. Madame Verone is heard most often in the children's court. Madame Mirelpolska, a Pole, is one of the most brilliant pladers, as is Madame Suzanne Grimberg, wife, mother and lawyer. Little by little the public is becoming accustomed to French heels and curls around the venerable old law courts.

Twenty-five thousand francs has been awarded by the Academie Francaise to Madame Dubreil, the mother of 10 living children, including quadruplets, who bear the names Raymond, George, Elizabeth and Alexandra, after the illustrious godparents, President Poincare, King George of England, Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians and Empress Alexandra of Russia.

A restaurant built with an elastic floor will be one of the greatest novelties at the exhibition of Decorative Arts in 1925, for which elaborate preparations are now being made. The restaurant will be of special material, with a certain space reserved for dancing, and will be lighted from underneath. The tables and chairs will be set upon two platforms, turning in concentric fashion, not fast enough to make one dizzy, with the result of bringing each table alongside another. The little switchboard railway will be much longer than the one seen at Wembley this summer, and the cars will run at a speed of 60 miles an hour.

The family will not wear "mourning." This is the latest decision made by the Swiss, who find that a death in the family causes too many expenditures. Steps are being taken to curtail a few. To have old garments dyed black costs four times what it did before the war. To buy new ones makes a huge hole in the budget. The conclusion is that it is all unnecessary—this wearing of one's heart upon the sleeve. Now the funeral notices will not only read: "Now flowers or wreaths," but, also, "The family will wear no mourning."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Women in line to buy prize fight tickets. A movie studio. Tangled scenery and glaring lights. And always an orchestra to inspire the actors. There's Alan Dwan with a megaphone.

An old German cafe now an undertaking parlor. A full lipped and wise eyed movie star carrying a cane. She used to cry "Cash" in a five and ten. Now she poses as a Spanish noblewoman. How much is a widow's mite? There goes my hat again.

Three mental-rest-cures in a block. And the little shop where for 20 years an old man has been trying to urn carbon into diamonds. Winnie Sheehan and his ponderous car and a place where they make dummies for ventriloquists.

Lounging groups at the Palace. Gaudy paterned overcoats. Hats with tiny flaming feathers. And empty pockets. A swivel chaired lunch where you may read books as you eat. Butterflies beating frail wings against the winter.

Today an extra. Tomorrow a star. And vice versa. Boarding mouse window ledges. White jars. Muds and ointments. The futile cosmetic battle against age. A pawn broker district. Where men seem to have ice water in their veins.

The frightened bleat of an auto struck dog. Wiggles a little. And is lifeless. Poor little fellow. Now my day is ruined. The fringe of Hell's Kitchen. A few queer old peak-roofed houses. And little pen like yards. Where children shrink from passersby.

The smell of gas houses. Big dray horses. Men with bulging shoulders and undershot jaws. Never was a district so aptly named. And it's no place for a dude cop. Fire sales. Cheap jewelry auctions. Raw meat sandwich stands. And now for a fast walk home.

The Green Room club gave a dinner the other evening to honor Percy Hammond, the dramatic critic, and Jack Lait, recently made managing editor of the American. Both are from Chicago. One speaker said he was in Chicago recently and a group of newspapermen asked if it were true that Hammond was New York's highest paid critic and Lait a managing editor. He affirmed the report. "Funny," said the questioner, "they were driven out of Chicago by the ornithorynchi." And looking it up in the dictionary the speaker found it was a beast with a bill. Another speaker said he had understood that Chicago named "The Loop" after Hammond and Lait. And added: "They got the idea watching them go home in the early morning."

The old homes on lower Fifth avenue are giving way to ornate apartment houses. The section has failed ingloriously to halt the onslaught of the three room and bath. Ten of the old mansions where fine old families still retained their horse-drawn carriages for afternoon drives uptown have been torn down.

H. T. Webster, the cartoonist, says that when he was a boy his ambition was to be a cook stove namer. Another pleasant and similar task it seems to me, would be to name new apartment houses. In a block one sees such names as "Beverly Court," "Sheldon Arms," "Roosevelt Terrace," "Hildonia," "The Hillcrest" and the like.

WHO'S WHO

FREDERICK HUNTINGTON GILLETT.

When President Coolidge was only a member of the Massachusetts legislature, Frederick Huntington Gillett, of Springfield, who will enter the United States senate March 4, was in congress and a Republican power in his state. He was first elected to the house of representatives in 1892, and he was re-elected every two years until this fall, when he was successful candidate for the upper house. He was eminent in that body as its best bridge player, until six years ago he added to that distinction the speakership.

F. H. Gillett.

Seventy-three years old, he is a thin little man whose voice has the same quality that President Coolidge's has. Like the president he was graduated from Amherst college, and is the only alumnus ever to address that body in a dinner coat and tan shoes.

Following graduation from Amherst college with the degrees of A. B. and M. A., Gillett attended the Harvard law school and was admitted to the Springfield, Mass., bar in 1877. From 1879 to 1882 he was assistant attorney general of Massachusetts.

Shortly after his election to the house in 1892 Gillett was offered his life's ambition, a judgeship. The battle to decide for or against was the greatest fight of his career. He decided against it and remained in the house, winning his re-election 15 consecutive times.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

THE SPEAKERSHIP PRIZE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—One of the interesting features of the closing weeks of the Sixty-eighth congress is the fight that is being waged for the office of speaker of the house of representatives of the new congress, which will date from March 4, next. Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, and Martin B. Madden, of Illinois, are the contestants. It is a friendly fight, in the sense that the two men are on terms of amity and hold each other in esteem and respect, but the rivalry is none the less intense.

For the speakership of the house is a great prize. It gives the man who attains it tremendous power and influence in national affairs, and along with that go political and social prestige not to be held lightly.

It has long been regarded as a stepping stone to the presidency, although, singularly enough, with one exception, a speaker has never been able to make the next big step. The exception was James K. Polk, of Tennessee, who was speaker during the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth congresses.

Henry Clay, James G. Blain, Thomas B. Reed, Joseph G. Cannon and Champ Clark are conspicuous among the speakers who made strong bids for the presidency, but failed to make the grade. Blaine and Clark, one a Republican and the other a Democrat, came nearest attaining the supreme goal of American statesmen. Blaine was nominated by his party, and but for a foolish speech of one of his supporters—the famous "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" utterance of the Rev. Dr. Burchard—in all probability would have been elected.

Clark was the leading candidate of his party when the Democrats assembled in nation convention in 1912 and received more than a maority of the votes of the delegates on several ballots. But he could not secure the two-thirds necessary to a nomination. His old friend, William Jennings Bryan, encompassed his defeat with a speech attacking him as the candidate of Tammany and Wall Street financial interests.

Had Clark been nominated he would undoubtedly have been elected president, for that was the year when Roosevelt and Taft split the Republican forces and the door of the White House was opened wide to a Democrat.

TWO FATEFUL SPEECHES

Thus both Blaine and Clark were thwarted in their ambitions by speeches, and in both instances the speeches were delivered by friends. Burchard was a real friend of Blaine, no matter how indiscreet and erring in judgment he may have been. Bryan, however, was only an erstwhile friend of Clark—one who had received and accepted Clark's support for the presidency in three campaigns, but who was deaf to the call of friendship in Clark's hour of need.

Out of the present situation and contest there may emerge another speaker with White House aspirations and possibilities. Madden cannot be regarded as a prospective presidential candidate, whether or not he becomes the presiding officer of the lower branch of congress, for the very good reason that he was born in England, but Longworth is rated as a probable candidate.

Given the power and prestige of the speakership and a successfa administration of that office, Ohio may present him as her candidate to succeed President Coolidge in the election of 1928. Madden might be eliminated by the age factor, if not by the accident of birth, since he will be 70 years old next March, and four years more would put him beyond the age of men who are nominated and elected to the presidency.

Longworth, however, will celebrate his fifty-ninth birthday just about the time voters are going to the polls in 1928. Ohio has a live presidential possibility for 1928, on the Democratic side of the political fence, in the person of Governor Vic Donahey, and as a state that insists upon mothering presidents she may insist on furnishing both the Republican and Democratic nominees four years hence, as she did in 1920 when Warren G. Harding and James M. Cox were the standard bearers of their respective parties.

Time was—in fact, it was for almost 95 years—when the speakership was a real stepping stone to the presidency. Under the statute of March 1, 1792, it was provided that in case of the removal, death, resignation, or inability of both the president and vice president, the first in line for the succession to the White House should be the president of the senate, or, if there should be none, the speaker of the house for the time being should act as president until the disability should be removed or a president should be elected.

CHANGED IN 1886.

That law stood until by the act of January 19, 1886, congress provided for the succession to the presidency through the secretary of state and other members of the cabinet down to and including the secretary of the interior.

The contingency provided for, and which might have brought a speaker direct from the capitol to the executive offices at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue, never occurred. This is said to have been fortunate for the country, because there were grave doubts as to the constitutionality of the law which remained in force for almost a century. If a situation has been presented in which a president of the senate or a speaker might have been in line for the presidency the succession of either might have been seriously contested.

The basis for such a contest would have been found in the fact that the constitution says that congress may provide by law what "officer" shall act as president in case both the president and vice president have been eliminated. The question would have been raised, doubtless, whether the word "officer" as used in the constitution did not mean an officer of the United States, and, if so, whether the president of the senate and the speaker of the house are such officers or are only representatives of states or the people, chosen b ythe two branches of congress to preside over their deliberations.

There have been 68 congresses and 36 speakers. The new congress will be the sixty-ninth, and the new speager the thirty-seventh. The discrepancy is due, of course, to the fact that in many cases the same man has been re-elected speaker one or more times.

Of the 36 speakers the house has had, five were representatives from Massachusetts, three from Indiana, two from New Jersey, two from South Carolina, two from Georgia, two from Maine, two from Tennessee and one each from Connecticut, North Carolina, New York, Ohio, Iowa, Illinois and Missouri.

Henry Clay, of Kentucky, held the speakership longer than any other man, having been elected to the office six times. Clay did not, however, serve six full terms, as he resigned from the office twice before the expiration of the congresses for which he had been chosen.

In the present situation it is interesting to note that the states of the two candidates have each had he speakership once: both Longworth and Madden represent the First congressional districts of their states, and both have served the same length o ftime in congress—20 years. Longworth got a two-years' start on Madden, having been first elected to the Fifty-eighth congress, while the Illinoisan first won his seat in the Fifty-ninth. Longworth dropped out one congress, the Sixtythird, however, while Madden has served continuously.

Both are popular, able and hard working members, and so regarded by their colleagues on both sides of the house.

Camp Rest Dance Pavilion, Glenmoor, Will Open Tonight

A new dance pavilion, located at Camp Rest, in St. Clair township along the Y. & O. railroad and close to the Lincoln highway, will be formally opened tonight under the management of Daniel Morgan.

Dances will be conducted semi-weekly—Tuesday and Friday evening. Dorsey Mann's Swanee Serenaders will furnish the music. The floor measures 40x60 feet and contains checking and refreshment stands. It is so constructed that the sides can be opened during the summer months.

Erection of approximately 100 cottages on the camp site, consisting of 20 acres, will begin early in March. The cottages will contain two, three and four rooms each. An artificial lake for bathing, boating and fishing privileges will also be constructed during the coming season.

The Y. & O. railroad officials have established a separate stop along their line at the camp. The station, which is the second north of Stop 55, will be known as the Woodmen's Stop.

180 Couples at Elks' Dance.

With approximately 180 couples in attendance, the Elks' New Year's eve dance proved one of the most successful affairs of its kind in the B. P. O. E. lodge in recent years.

The Seven Syncopating Sirens, feminine musicians of Youngstown, provided a varied program of music and song. Dancing started at 10 o'clock and continued until 3 a. m.

Following a thunder and lightning introduction, "Father Time," emulated by Christy Stewart, in becoming costume, appeared before the dancers at the stroke of 12 to bid adieu to the departing year and to welcome the incoming 1925.

Immediately following came the grand march, led by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Davis.

Thereafter, the program provided a succession of features, in which novel electrical designs were brought into use with brilliant effect, including the dance of the snow, confetti dance, spotlight dances, and other numbers.

Appropriate decorations were used throughout the ball room, an abundance of laurel, holly wreaths and bells suggesting the season. Spotlights played from the four corners of the room and the balcony.

Iodine Salt in Switzerland

More than 700,000 inhabitants of Switzerland are using "Standard Salt" daily according to a bulletin recently issued by Dr. H. Eggenberger, chairman of the Red Cross "sektion" in that country. This is ordinary kitchen salt containing a small quantity of iodine.

For many years Switzerland health authorities fought goiter in the schools by feeding the children chocolate tablets containing iodine.

In the Canton Appenzella about 40,000 persons have used the "Standard Salt" continuously for two years. According to the bulletin results were best with infants. Owing to the use of Standard Salt by prospective mothers no babies were born with goiter. Before there were 50 per cent of new borns who showed thyroid enlargement.

In adults no new goiter appeared and existing goiters were arrested in their development.

The frequency of operations for goiter diminished by 75 per cent during the two years. Many medical measurements showed that in young individuals goiter decreased slowly in size and many of the older cases became smaller.

The bulletin concludes with the statement that "Standard Salt will free Switzerland and other countries from goiter and Cretinism".

American health authorities have been paying close attention to the work being done to stamp out goiter in Switzerland. What is known in this country as Iodine Salt, which was placed on sale in grocery stores less than a year ago at the request of health officials, is practically the same article that the Swiss people have been using since 1922.

Mulkey's Iodine Salt was produced, as a goiter preventive, at the request of Health Authorities in Michigan. Also note the "Certificate of approval" on label.

It is to be used in all food instead of ordinary salt.

NAB MAN AFTER LONG SEARCH

Three-year Hunt for Ambrose Grafton Ends in Indiana.

A three-year search for Ambrose Grafton, former potter, who is alleged to have abandoned his wife and three children here, ended at Indianapolis, Wednesday, when the Hoosier police apprehended the accused, who is said to have been living under the assumed name of Green.

Captain of Police Conley left yesterday for Indianapolis to bring Grafton back to East Liverpool. He is said to have expressed his willingness to return without the formality of extradition.

Grafton's whereabouts have been a mystery ever since his alleged desertion of his family here, although for a time he was thought to be residing in Boston. A few days ago, Chief McDermott received information from Boston that Grafton was working under an assumed name as an engraver in Indianapolis.

A warrant for Grafton's arrest was issued through the office of Prosecuting Attorney Hanley. The warrant, with a photograph of Grafton, was forwarded to the Indianapolis police, with instructions that he be arrested at the address given in the tip received by Chief McDermott.

The police received a telegram from Indianapolis yesterday that Grafton was being held pending the arrival of an officer.

Gales Swept British Towns.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Unremitting gales and rains which have made the holidays a season of terror for coast towns and riverside points, continued today with a 90-miles gale sweeping England.

Havoc in the trail of this latest storm mounted higher than the damage previously exacted. England's storm bill for the week of gales will be enormous.

Shipping was having the greatest difficulty today, smaller boats making harbors only after a long fight.

A steady 12-hour rain increased the flooded area all over England.

A woman was killed by lightning in Ireland during the storm.

The wind blew a motor truck into the sea at Folkstone. The driver was drowned. Telephone communication is seriously crippled. The air ministry reported that the storm extended far into the Atlantic. Harbors were full of ships which had taken refuge from the storm. The liner Manitur went aground at Gravesend, but was refloated.

FRANCE ACTS ON WAR DEBT

Seeks Parley With U. S.-England Makes Suggestion.

BY FRANK E. MASON.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—France "considers itself on the threshold of conversations with America on the subject of the Franco-American debt."

The foreign office in making this statement today added, "while the note of Finance Minister Clementel to the United States is not binding and is only semi-official it serves as a point of departure for negotiations."

Terms specified in Clementel's "semi-official note," were learned by International News service. Clementel suggested a 10-year moratorium after which payments would cover a period of 80 years, with interest at one half of one percent. All payments would be completed at the end of the 90 years.

The full text of the note will be made public, it was said, following a conference in Paris next week between Clementel and Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer.

BY DAVID M. CHURCH.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Great Britain has made an "informal suggestion" to the United States government that when France begins making payments on its debt to the United States it "shall make equal and simultaneous payments to England."

This information was learned in unofficial quarters today by international News Service.

The British "suggestion" is said to make "no mention of the question of a moratorium for France on a lower interest rate than England is paying America.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—While administration officials choose to throw an atmosphere of secrecy around the numerous "conversations" and under cover diplomatic moves now going on in London, Paris and Washington anent the whole foreign debt problem, there appears to be in official quarters here today more optimism than there ever has been that out of this activity will finally emerge a complete settlement of the six-year old controversy.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Bullish sentiment ruled in the stock market in the first session of the new year. Stock prices started with the opening of the market today to shatter the best price records of the last year.

Buying orders in the oil and specialty stocks crowded the books of the commission houses prior to the opening and prices ranged from one to four points above Wednesday's close.

Though Radio Corporations, Westinghouse, American Can and other speculative leaders were more spectacular in their movements. The most substantial feature of the market in this period was the heavy demand for oil stocks. With the turn of the year completing the selling for tax losses in oil shares, with stocks in this important group far behind the market and with evidences of a considerable decline in the amount of crude and refined oils in storage in this country, Wall Street has been gradually turning to the oil stocks as the natural leader in the forward movement in prices this year.

All of the oil shares which featured the market in the early part of the week were in good demand at higher prices. Skelly, Shell Union, Cosden Marland and the Pan-Americans and the listed Standard Oils were the leaders in a movement in which oil stocks were more prominent than in any session since December 1. Atlantic refining gained 2½ points and Pacific Oil was up 2.

Radio Corporation jumped 4¼ points to a new high at 69 and sold as high as 69½ after which profit taking set in and prices declined to around 67. The stock was the most active on the big board today. Westinghouse Electric sold nearly five points higher on heavy dealings which were also inspired by the company's successful record of accomplishments in the radio industry. General Electric declined about five points on profit-taking.

Sterling exchange rose to a new high since 1919 at 4.37¾, following its brilliant record in London yesterday. Call money renewed at five per cent, but time money was easier with 3½ per cent quoted for 60 day funds. Cotton and grain markets were steady, with slight changes in the early quotations.

"POWER TRUST" QUIZ BLOCKED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—An investigation by the federal trade commission of an alleged federal "Power Trust" in the United States was again defeated by Senator Edge, Republican, of New Jersey.

The new inquiry was proopsed by Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, who, when it was defeated by Edge, launched into a lengthy discussion of an alleged "power monopoly" over the country's public utilities.

In hoarding wealth he lost his health and that was the last of Mammon.

LONDON SPEECH

Predicts Crown Prince Will Become New Kaiser.

LONDON—There will be another war with Germany within the next two years, and Crown Prince William will become Kaiser of Germany, in the opinion of William Le Quex, novelist and former journalist, who voiced his fears in a speech before the Hastings Rotary Club.

Le Quex is understood to have intimate knowledge of the secret services of the continential Powers, and is frequently consulted by various governments on subjects connected with spying. In his book, "The Invasion," published in 1908, he predicted the outbreak of the World War.

"I expect to be ridiculed for this prediction," Le Quex said, "just as I was when I prophesied correctly the last war. But the war of revenge is on the lips of everybody in Germany today. There is now in England, as there always has been, the hidden hand at work. I hope the new Baldwin Government will take steps to be prepared."

Le Quex quoted French official intelligence reports to prove that Germany is preparing, manufacturing poison gas and germ bombs in plants supposed to be manufacturing laces and dyes; constructing more "Big Berthas" and storing up guns and ammunition in all sorts of "outlandish places."

"Outside Hanover there is an experimental laboratory established in a private house," Le Quex declared, "where well known bacteriologists are even now working on bacteria of deadly and contagious diseases. One method by which the Germans hope to spread these diseases is by exporting a great quantity of chocolates which have been infected with the various germs.

"In dozens of towns all over Germany there are hidden stores of rifles and machine guns. Many of these have been discovered by the Allied Control Commission, but the majority are well hidden.

"A great store of arms in the barracks near Leipzig was revealed by a man named Dietrich, who recently, in consequence, was sent to penal servitude for 14 years by the Imperial Court of Leipzig, the highest court in Germany.

"It is also known that stores of arms and ammunition exist in Berlin, Stendahl, Madgeberg, Halle, Hirchberg and many other places.

"In addition to the seven Big Berthas which the Germans hid successfully after the armistice and still have in readiness, it is known that she has constructed four other colossal guns, which have a range of 120 miles, so that should she get to any part of the French or Belgian coast, between Nieuport and Dieppe, London would be bombarded."

Frenchman Leaves Queer Collection of Things Ridiculous

PARIS.—An old Frenchman has just died and left the queerest collection ever imagined. He had spent his life going about the world searching for things ridiculous. He ended by creating a museum filled with the furniest fads men and women have ever been guilty of. His examples of human craziness include clothing, paintings, furniture and works of so-called art which appeared to him to exceed the limits of ordinary ridicule.

The collector often paid big sums for his treasures, and one of his greatest surprises came when a connoisseur offered him $4,000 for a picture which he had bought thirty years before on account of its utter grotesqueness.

Public Helps Agencies Urged.

The Russell Sage Foundation has recommended the establishment of public employment agencies to be conducted by states in every community, as a result of its disclosures based on the five-year study of conditions in more than 70 large cities in Canada and the United States. Unemployment is not an occasional, but a constant problem, the report says.

CASE IS APPEALED BY CAR COMPANY

When an automobile driven by Byrne Mollohan collided with a bus of the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction Co., on the River Road, East Liverpool Oct. 28 last, Mollohan filed an action in the court of Justice of the Peace P. V. Mackall at East Liverpool against the company for $300 damages.

Then the company filed a counter claim against Mollohan for $196.78.

When the case went to trail, judgment for the full amount was entered in favor of the plaintiff, but the defendant has now filed their appeal bond for $600, and the case has been carried to common pleas court.

RULINGS HANDED DOWN BY COURT

On Dec. 8, Attorney K. L. Coburn of Salem filed an action for divorce in common pleas court in behalf of his client, Zora Flecker, against her husband Benjamin Flecker.

This case has been dismissed by Judge James G. Moore on motion of the plaintiff and at her costs, and the restraining order previously entered in this action has been dissolved.

The sale of property has been confirmed and a distribution ordered in the case of Keneth Walker, a minor and others against Marion Fultz and others. The action was one in partition and set.

Service by publication has been approved by the court in the case of Sol Ostrow against M. M. Marks doing business under the name of the K. & M. store, East Liverpool, and judgment by default in favor of the plaintiff for $2,794.45 has been rendered by the court. An order of sale of attached property has also been issued by the court.

TRAFFIC SURVEY NOW IN PROGRESS

The federal highway department and the state highway department jointly are now engaged in making a survey of the traffic over the main highways of the state, and representatives of both departments have been at work in Columbiana county during the last few days.

Wednesday the record of traffic on the Lincoln Highway between Stop 55 and West Point was taken, and this will continue for a few days. Cars and trucks are being stopped by these highway record keepers, and the destination of the car is asked, also from whence it came. At times the weight of a truck is taken, and the driver of the truck is asked questions as ordinary car drivers are asked to give.

The object is to determine eventually a new type of road that will withstand the heaviest kind of traffic.

Little Appeals Case.

A bill of exceptions has been filed in common pleas court in the case of Raymond E. Anderson of East Liverpool against W. B. Little of 206 Washington avenue, Wellsville, who sued for $60 damage to his automobile by that owned by Little.

Little as plaintiff in error, through his counsel Charles Boyd has filed the record of the case. The lower court rendered a judgment for $43.50 in favor of Anderson.

Columbiana

Tuesday night was alumni night for young people of Columbiana. About forty couples atended the annual dance, which was held at Kelly's park, and danced to the music of the Country Club orchestra of Youngstown. Previous to this, a large crowd witnessed the two basketball games at the Columbiana gym, seeing what proved to be the closest alumni games ever played here, the girls game resulting in a tie at 16-16, while the C. H. S. boys won from their older opponents by the close margin of 23 to 19. Both games were tied many times, first one team and then the other being ahead.. The Alumni girls presented a strong line-up but showed lack of practice. The forwards were Grace Frye, Miriam Detwiler and Dorothy Calvin, while the guarding was done by Mabel Brungard, Gladys Sponseller and Grace Fellers, the latter being replaced late in the game by Helen Esterly. The shooting was very poor on both sides and the high school lassies were very weak on pass work. Miss Brungard played a wonderful guarding game, while Miss Frye's floor work was good, but she failed miserably on her shooting, where she was expected to star.

The C. H. S. boys completely outplayed the Alumni boys, but they, too, shot miserably, missing chance after chance. Crumbacher was the chief offender in this respect, missing more chances than any others, although he played a fine floor game. Marshall was the alumni star, making over half their points, while Brown guarded well for the High School.

The Youngstown & Suburban Transit Co. has added another link to its chain of bus lines, by purchasing the Blue Bus Line, which has been operated for several years by R. M. McDonald, running from Columbiana to Salem, via. Leetonia. It is understood that they will discontinue this line entirely as it has never been a great money-maker. Mr. McDonald is undecided as to his future plans.

TOMORROW
THE NEW HUPMOBILE EIGHT IS TO BE UNVEILED

At 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the eagerly-awaited Hupmobile Eight will be revealed for the first time at our salesrooms.

Hupmobile invites your immediate comparison between the performance of its new Eight, and all other eight-cylinder cars and all superior sixes.

For Hupmobile has here produced an Eight with all the sound qualities of endurance and reliability which have made Hupmobile famous the world over—

A car which now brings within reach of the average American family, for the first time, every eight-cylinder advantage for which buyers in the past willingly paid hundreds of dollars more.

The Hupmobile Eight possesses superiorities of its own, over and above the super-abilities of the eight-cylinder principle, which unquestionably single it out as a new leader among American eights.

In many important respects the Hupmobile Eight far outdistances anything hitherto accomplished in eight-cylinder engineering in America.

It produces more power per cubic inch of piston displacement than anything which has preceded it.

Its performance is so smooth and symmetrical that there is not even a murmur of "roughness" at any speed.

More than any other fine car, it combines compactness for handling and parking with roominess for riding comfort.

It records an average gasoline economy heretofore unequaled among eights.

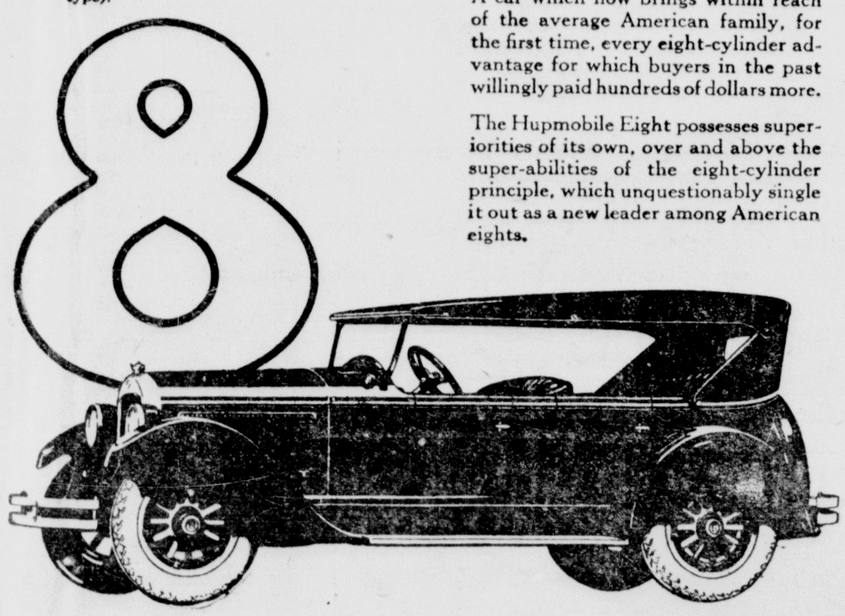

It has beauty of design, finish and equipment not excelled within $1,000 of its price; and its own price is less than that of many sixes.

We venture to predict that the men and women who drive the Hupmobile Eight, in their own way and at their own pace, will never again be satisfied with any car that falls short of its amazing abilities.

The price of the New Hupmobile Eight is undoubtedly the most attractive ever placed on such a car. We are now ready to give out complete price information when you come in to see the car.

Feshionable Women Envy Silver Fox Farm Near Oxford, Eng.

OXFORD, England — Women of fashion would go green with envy if they could see 40 little "silver" foxes —each one a potential and exquisite fur—which have just arrived in England.

They have been brought over by Captain A. S. Robertson, a Canadian, who intends to start a silver fox farm at Baldon, near Oxford.

Silver fox skins fetch anything up to $750 on the market; the demand far exceeds the supply, and Captain Robertson believes that the English climate is extremely suitable for breeding the animals.

—to have a good APPETITE!

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.

You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong, cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically run-down condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells,—the spark that rejogs your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Pretty Jap Girls Not Seeking Jobs As Conductorettes

TOKIO, Dec. — Superintendent Saaw, of the City electric bureau, is bewailing the lack of pulchritude among the women of Japan.

The bureau recently decided to install a new motor bus service and conceived the scheme of "beautifying the buses" by hiring girl conductors. It advertised for comely maidens and Sawa picked himself as the beauty expert who would select the fairest from the applicants.

More than 100 would-be-conductorettes turned up. Sawa looked them over.

"They were pretty, all right," he said. "Ah, yes, pretty poor. It was a procession of the homeliest faces I ever gazed upon. I am beginning to think that Japan has no pretty girls. If there are any they certainly are not looking for jobs as bus conductors.

FAIR 'RAFFLES IS CAUGHT BY LONDON POLICE

LOOTED FLATS

Daring Maiden Netted From $400 to $10,000 on Each Raid.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—London's female "Raffles," heroine of several score burglaries, has met her Waterloo and been "sent up" for 21 months; Petite, auburn-haired, fashionably dressed, in stolen raiment, she wept pathetically in court.

For three years she had been shadowed by detectives, always suspected, but always sufficiently clever to avoid capture. And then just a piece of bad luck led to her undoing.

Crissie Deardon specialized in robberies from flats, and her loot was jewelry, or expensive apparel. Always garbed in the height of fashion, she would walk, unnoticed, into a building filled with high-class flats and ring the bell at one of the doors.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" —bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

Below is the solution to puzzle No. 63

Copyright, 1925, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

If there was any answer, she would ask impulsive questions about an imaginary sister.

But if nobody answered, after a prolonger period, she would raise the beading in the light of the door, break the small glass panel, place the pieces in her handbag, and then, slipping her slender hand through the aperture, draw back the latch and give herself the "open sesame." Her proceeds ranged from $400 to $10,000.

One day, when Chrissie was exploiting her customary method, the door of an adjuacent flat opened, and a lady inquired what she was doing. Chrissie gave the usualy reply, but the lady recognized her as having been on a similar errand in the building a month before, and rang for the janitor.

Chrissie made a run for it, but was caught.

Heavy Sentences.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE.—Penitentiary and reformatory sentences, aggregating 210 years, were imposed by Judge W. W. Cowen, in the Belmont county criminal court, during the fall term, ending today. In addition, one life term and two death sentences were announced. Only two "not guilty" verdicts were returned out of 84 indistments.

Aliposity begets pomposity; pomposity, animosity.

Don't miss it.

Two Arrests Made.

ATHENS.—Two arrests have been made by Athens county officers, following the carrying off of two safes from business houses, one in Athens and the other near Gloucester. One of the big boxes was found but the other is still missing. In each case the papers that were lost were more valuable than the money the safes contained.

Probably the first cast iron plow ever made in the world was fashioned by Jethrow Wood, a Moravia, N. Y., farmer, in 1814. Didn't Know His Brother

"My brother got so bad with stomach and liver trouble that when I saw him after a year I didn't know him. He was emaciated and yellow as a pumpkin and was often in great pain. He couldn't have lived long the way he was going. Doctors and medicine gave him no relief. I picked up a little booklet on Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which he said described his case perfectly. The first dose of it gave him great relief and in a month he was good as ever." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. BALTIC STATES FIGHT LIQUOR

Question of Smuggling Discussed at Meet in Christinia.

CHRISTIANA—Important questions dealing with the Baltic liquor-smuggling traffic were discussed at a conference here recently.

Representatives of Finland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and the smaller Baltic States attended the conference, and it is possible that the traffic will suffer a severe setback as a result.

The chief proposal considered by the conference was that licenses for the carrying of liquor should not be granted to small vessels at all, and that large vessels, given authority to carry liquor will have to furnish proof within a stipulated period that the liquor has been delivered to the legitimate purchasers.

A convention has been entered into between the States, which, when ratified, will give them the right to search suspected vessels and to seize all liquor.

Despite the conference, however, smuggling still continues.

Prohibition agents recently discovered a large business in illegal liquor traffic being carried on by the clerks

By Elizabeth Dejeans

But Dascome's question was even more steadily delivered. "Here? To your house?"

Rossiter raised his brows. "Of course not. I left Deeme's at ten minutes to twelve and reached Mrs. Kaime's at twenty minutes past—a quick journey. It occurred to me that Mrs. Kaime was the safest person to whom to entrust your daughter."

Colt was utterly surprised. Apparently Dascome was not; if Rossiter expected amazement, or consternation, he was disappointed; Dascome's voice was perfectly even. "I felt almost certain that you had taken her there, but I did not like to disturb Mrs. Kaime at so late an hour until I was entirely certain. Also I wanted to thank you for rescuing my daughter from a bad situation. Whatever your motive, I am indebted to you, and my thanks are genuine."

Colt caught his breath. It was damnable, Rossiter's resonant-voiced deliberation, his determined application of hot iron to a man who was using all the will he possessed to refrain from violence. Colt braced himself for a spring through the window; Rossiter did not realize his danger; he was plain reckless.

Over the cigarette held between his fingers Rossiter looked at him. "Yes? I called at Al Deeme's house this evening and saw how things were. I might have been able to warn you—Al Deeme's crowd are apt to go the lengths—but I knew that you were in your car somewhere with Mrs. Kaime, doubtless enjoying the fog. You were rightly informed—I brought Miss Dascome away, for she was incapable of doing anything for herself. Naturally, there was no place in town where it would be wise to take her, so I"—He turned deliberately and flicked the ash from his cigarette into the fire, turned and looked into Dascome's gray face and steady eyes—"so I brought her out here."

Rossiter's eyes did not lose their contempt, nor his voice its resonance. "It is unnecessary to thank me for a thing which afforded me much pleasure, Mr. Dascome," and he bowed.

Dascome bent his head. Then he turned and made his way through the drawing room. The Japanese was waiting at the front door and opened it for him.

Colt slipped from beneath the window and gained the car before Dascome did. Dascome got into the car without a word; it was Colt who spoke. "You're going to Mrs. Kaime's, I suppose? I heard it all, J. D. I wanted to be on hand if there was a fight. What's his game?"

Dascome drew an impatient breath. "Mrs. Kaime. I was there this evening, when he appeared, evidently their first meeting in five years."

"Oh! It was five years ago they were married—do you think they're still married?"

"Yes—I think so."

Herbert Colt would have liked to ask bluntly, "Have you been mad enough to fall in love with Mrs. Kaime? Evidently she has a husband and you can't marry." But, well as he knew John Dascome, there was a line he never overstepped. "It's a complication you didn't bargain for when you took her house," he remarked instead.

"I signed the lease, nevertheless—after I knew."

"Draw out of it, J. D. We've gotten out of it about all we can for the present."

"I haven't gotten out of it all I mean to."

Colt did not know what to make of the answer. His audible comment was, "She doesn't know yet, and he has taken the first step toward discrediting you. If I'm a judge of a man's eye, he won't stop at much."

"Let him. I have a perfect right to be Mrs. Kaime's tenant."

Colt knew better than any one else the indomitable will of the man beside him; how steadily and relentlessly and patiently he could hold to a purpose. John Dascome would not stop at much. Colt frowned at the darkness; he had been anxious ever since he had seen Karesia Kaime. "She struck me as a woman who'd care a deal for a man, if she cared at all."

Dascome said nothing.

"Was she surprised to see him, J. D.?

"Very much so, judged."

"Glad to see him?"

"I should say that, after her surprise wore off, she was not certain how she felt about it."

"He cares," Colt said with conviction. "A good bit of 'deviltry,' as you said, but that man wants his wife back and he means to get her. He has that look about him."

"It should have occurred to him before."

Colt was so anxious that he ventured on personal ground. "How about Clarice?" he asked.

He felt Dascome stiffen. "No one can prevent Clarice from climbing her Gethsemane. Perhaps the sooner she realizes it the better."

"Maybe." Then Colt burst out. "But, J. D., for God's sake find some safer place for—you know—Mary Bliss! I say it's dangerous, all of you there together. There's no telling what will happen."

"She's safer there, for the present, than she would be anywhere else, and she's having kind treatment," Dascome returned coolly. "I shall be there—on watch."

Colt drew a short breath. "Maybe you can stand it, I couldn't. You haven't changed your mind? You want me to go to Canada?"

"Just as quickly as you can get there. Your check will be honored for any amount that's necessary. Keep me informed, and I shall attend to this end of it."

"Let me out in the next block, then. There's a garage just below. I'll get a car and get back to town. I'll start in the morning."

"Better send a telegram to Mrs. Kaime from San Francisco, Bert."

"I will."

They shook hands when they parted—a firm clasp. Then Dascome bent forward, his steadfast eyes on Colt. "Don't forget that it's nearly seven years since that sixth of April, Bert."

Colt studied him gravely in the uncertain light. "I see. Well—you've dared and won out once before, J. D. Good luck to you."

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

With Amazing Speed It Stops That Tough Hang On Cough That Racks Your Whole Body

For simple coughs any simple sweet sugary cough syrup will probably do.

But when you want to throw out of your system one of those old timers that simply won't be conquered, but lingers on and on causing sleepless nights and days of torment then you've just got to have a real cough medicine.

Then you must ask your druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion for the harder and tougher and tighter they come the more joy Bronchuline gets in knocking them out.

Bronchuline isn't a cheap cough conqueror, mind you, for first raters are never cheap. But if you are one of the unlucky ones that a persistent health destroying cough is pushing towards the grave, get a bottle today and notice how the first dose takes right hold and soothes the terrible soreness.

Often three or four doses brings blessed relief and half a bottle forces the most stubborn cough into submission.

"A bottle of magic" one old man calls Bronchuline Emulsion. He was all worn out and ready to give up when a friend brought him the good news about Bronchuline.

Don't let a cough hang on—it's dangerous company—Get rid of it quick. Ask Jesse D. Holloway and Carnahan's Drug Stores, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., or any up to the times druggist for a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion. It's a good medicine to have around the house because it contains no chloroform or dope, and often two or three doses will stop any ordinary cough.

Runyon Says

Fans Care Nothing for Politics.
Are Interested Only in GAME.
A Word About Dunn, of Baltimore.
Is Greatest of the Managers.
Proves it by Winning SIX Times.

BY DAMON RUNYON.

Copyright, 1924, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IT has always been the opinion of this writer that the baseball public is little interested in baseball politics in the troubles of the magnates.

That is, if the game is conducted cleanly, HONESTLY, it is all the fans care to know.

The ownership of the clubs little concern them. A WINNING club draws the public, no matter who owns it.

The squabbles between the magnates, such as Landis and Johnson, are not viewed as matters of grave importance by the fans, however much may be made of them by the newspapers. The game itself is always paramount.

Long after all of us are dead, when men will find it difficult to recall the names of the club owners and league officials of the present day, baseball will be played in America, will be drawing crowds several times as big as those which now attend the games.

You have heard much of baseball politics recently. Therefore, you may be interested in the INTERESTING side of baseball, though this is not supposed to be the season when baseball is in order.

A man has been found who thinks the Philadelphia Athletics will win the 1925 pennant in the American League. The man is Jack Dunn, the old Pennant Maker, of Baltimore, greatest baseball manager in the business. The writer might have qualified this by saying the greatest MINOR LEAGUE manager. This would be minimizing Dunn's status.

He is the greatest manager, minor league or major, in the United States. He has won six consecutive championships in the International league with his Baltimore club, probably a record.

You may say, "Ah, but that was in the International league, a minor league."

The writer tells you that it is just as difficult to win a pennant in a minor league as it is i nthe American or National leagues.

The writer will go even farther. He will say that it is often MORE difficult to win a championship in a minor league than in the big leagues.

The minor league manager frequently has the handicap of lack of money, of material, to a greater extent than the average big league managers is handicapped.

Jack Dunn is an absolute genius in his business, no doubt of that.

He is an old time big league ball player. He has been conducting ball teams in Baltimore, home of the immortal Orioles for many years. Dunn's teams are still called the Orioles after the famous aggregation of the early nineties that gave Baltimore a permanent place in baseball history.

Dunn is both owner and manager That will answer the thought that is probably wandering through your mind as you read this, "Why isn't he in the big leagues if he is such a great manager?"

As owner and manager in Baltimore Dunn perhaps makes twice as much money every year as the richest big league club could afford to pay him as manager.

McGraw is said to get $65,000 per year as manager of the Giants, which is undoubtedly the largest salary paid any man in the big league. Dunn has probably averaged more income than that in his career at Baltimore. He is accountd wealthy.

Dunn is noted for his success in discovering and developing baseball talent. Then he has extraordinary business ability when it comes to disposing of this talent to the big leagues. He asks—and gets—terrific prices.

Dunn sent Babe Ruth to the majors as a left-handed pitcher. He has just sold another left-hander to Connie Mack. Dunn's prediction that the Athletics will win the 1925 pennant is based largely on that sale.

The pitcher is Groves. Dunn thinks Groves insures the pennant to the Philadelphia club. In this thought there is, of course, much of the enthusiasm of the salesman.

Dunn wouldn't care to go so far as to say to Connie Mack, "If Groves don't win the pennant for you, I don't want a dime for him." Dunn didn't rich by being silly.

Groves is a good young pitcher, no doubt of that. The writer saw him work in Baltimore a couple of years ago, and was greatly impressed by him.

Dunn says Groves is the greatest pitcher he has seen in thirty-five years of baseball. This is taking in too much territory. Perhaps Dunn meant the greatest left handed pitcher. Even then he would be going far.

Dunn in his long baseball experience has seen "Noodles" Hahn, Theodore Breitenstein, Eddie Plank, Rube Waddell, Rube Marquard, and many other great left handers. He saw them display their skill in the big leagues. Groves has yet to meet the test of a big league pitching campaign.

Until then Dunn cannot truthfully say Groves is the greatest pitcher he has ever seen.

Groves has had astonishing success against Babe Ruth, who has batted against Dunn's left hander nine times in exhibition games between the Yankees and the Baltimore club.

Groves has struck out the great slugger nine times. That is to say, Ruth hasn't hit as much as a fly ball or a grounder of the pitching of the Oriole side-winder. This must have annoyed Ruth intensely.

Groves won about twenty-five games in the International League last season, according to the records. However, Dunn points out that Groves also frequently went into the box and won games that were credited to other pitchers.

Dunn, growing super-enthusiastic, says Groves' fast ball is faster than Johnson's fast ball, when Johnson was at his best. Many big league players will smile at this statement. "Ping" Bodie, a roly-poly outfielder who once played with the Yankees described Johnson's fast ball.

You can't hit 'em when you can't see 'em," said "Ping."

Baseball old timers say the greatest left hander of all time was Rube Waddell, who pitched for Conie Mack.

Waddell had astounding speed. The writer has heard it claimed that Waddell could split an inch plank with his fast ball at the pitching distance, a story which seems improbable.

The writer never saw Waddell. The best left hander he ever saw was Rube Marquard, along in 1911-12, when Marquard was at the top of his form. He became a craftier pitcher, later, but in those days he had a fast ball that was fast enough for all purposes.

The writer saw Marquard win his nineteen consecutive victories, tying the big league record. It was a tremendous exploit. He does not expect to see another left hander as good as Marquard in his baseball time.

Alumni Cagers Defeat High Squad By Single Point

McCutcheon's Field Goal Decides Hard Fought Court Clash

Pitt Grid Star Scores Double-decker With 15 Seconds to go and Graduates Triumph; School Girls Victors Over Ex-Highs.

With 15 seconds of the game remaining and Coach O. V. Boone's squad leading by a score of 22 to 21, Red McCutcheon, one of Pitt's coming football stars, tossed the leather through the hoop for the Alumni for a field goal and the two points that changed almost certain defeat into victory for the graduates. These were the deciding points in the High-Ex-High game Wednesday night on the high school floor.

It was anybody's game from start to finish. In all-around basketball, the Ex-Highs showed the effects of their experience. Both teams were off form in their tries for points following fouls, the Alumni especially showing weakness in this department.

McKeever made high school's first score when he counted on a free throw. English added two more points when he shot two from the foul line. Bromby tallied first for the Alumni from the foul line. Smith essayed a field goal and made it good, knotting the count. McConville put high school in the lead with a free throw. McKeever added another point from the free throw mark. The quarter ended 5 to 3 in favor of the highs.

English delivered the first field goal of the game for Boone's team in the second quarter, putting his squad again in the lead. Smith of the graduates also caged the ball for two points. English and McConville counted on free tries, making the score 9 to 5 for the highs which stood when the half ended.

Liebschner started the third period with a field goal and gave his team a six-point lead. Pusey for the Alumni came through with a foul and a field goal, reducing the high school lead by half.

McGraw made good from the foul line for the highs. Pusey tossed one in for a field goal and he made a free throw and the graduates advanced to within a point of their opponents.

McConville's pretty field goal added to the high school lead. Bromby made the score close again when he shot two straight on free throws. The Ex-Highs went into the lead for the first time when Smith scored from the field twice.

At the outset of the final quarter McKeever raised the hopes of school supporters when his toss for a field goal was good. Liebschner found the basket twice for the school lads who were entertaining visions of victory. But DeBolt tossed in a double decker and the graduates again were only a point behind.

McKeever and DeBolt scored a field goal apiece with a minute to play. The time shortened. The hands of the timer's clock crept around to within 15 seconds of the end. Red McCutcheon grabbed the ball and took the only chance left. He flung it to the basket and the leather swished through the net. The two points were enough to tie the score and win.

To point out the individual star would be difficult for both squads played bangup basketball. To Liebschner and McKeever go the scoring honors for high school while Smith and Pusey led the graduates.

Although he was off-color in his foul tries, Slim Bromby was a power on defense, breaking up the high school passwork frequently, while McCutcheon and Corns played star games at guards. McConville, English and McGraw gave good accounts of themselves and Tom Pusey put up a good game at forward in the final period.

In the preliminary the high school girls won a hard earned game from the Ex-High lassies by the score of 23 to 18.

The Ex-Highs led in the first half by the score of 11 to 5 but in the second half the high girls overcame their opponents' lead and won by five points.

Vorndran scored the first point for the Ex-High girls and Bevington scored another point from the foul line.

Corns made the high girls' first point. Bevington added to the Ex-High score by making good on a free throw, Bevington scored the first field goal for the Ex-High maids and McElravy tossed one through for High's first field basket.

The first quarter ended 5 to 3 in the Ex-High's favor.

In the second quarter Bevington scored three from the field making the Ex-Highs' score for the half eleven points while McElravy counted twice from the foul line, making the score 11 to 5 in the former high school girls' favor.

R. Cooper and Kannall found the basket three times for field goals, tieing up the game. Jones broke the tie with a one-point field goal for the Ex-High girls.

McElravy and Kannall both scored field baskets putting the high school lassies in the lead.

After this the High girls kept the lead though their opponents were always close. McElravy's field goal in the last minute of play put the game on ice for the high school maidens.

All the high lassies that played performed in an excellent manner, McElravy, Kannall and R. Cooper being aces for the high school girls.

FOUR HORSEMEN WIN GRID TITLE ON FINAL RIDE

Outspeed Warner's Stanford Crew; Nevers is Star.

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 2.—Two thousand miles from home in a strange setting of golden tinged orange groves and winter-blooming beds of crimson poinsettas, Knute Rockne's four horsemen and their comrades of the Notre Dame eleven today rested content with the laurels won in the annual New Year's day east-west football clash with Fullback Ernie Nevers and ten other Leland-Stanford men.

It was a thrill-packed fight to the 27 to 10 finish which proclaimed the Irish American's gridiron champions. It was the first eastern victory at Pasadena since 1920 when Harvard beat Oregon. Two intercepted forward passes and one costly fumble, at the buttery hands of Stanford's quarter, Fred Solomon, aided Notre Dame, but superior ability in following the ball, speed usually only seen at track meets, and a backfield more powerful than any that ever kicked the turf beside the broad Pacific was really responsible for their victory.

So swiftly moved the horsemen that Stanford's huge players, heavier ten pounds to a man, looked like Percherons, afflicted with elephantitis.

Every big game has its hero and the New Year's classic placed the laurel on Nevers, the greatest back the Pacific coast has ever produced.

With a limp in both feet, almost wallowing in fat from an inactive season due to injuries and practically alone in his brilliant performance, Nevers was largely responsible for the Red Shirters' offense and defense.

The Cardinals completed 12 forward passes against two for Notre Dame. They gained 180 yards from scrimmages while the Catholics did 133. They made 18 first down while the Irish accomplished seven.

Warner's backfield was miserably weak in contrast to the great quartet—Stuhldreher, Layden, Miller and Crowley.

Amateurs Will Battle.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2.—The first amateur boxing show to be staged in Cleveland for a year is scheduled for tonight. Sixteen fighters of more or less ability will participate in the evening's program.

INTERMEDIATES WIN FLOOR GAME

On the "Y" floor yesterday afternoon the Y. M. C. A. intermediates won from the Christian church aggregation by the score of 30 to 26. The victors held a lead of six points at the end of the first half, the score being 11 to 5.

In the second half the Christians forged ahead of their opponents and were leading by a fair margin until the last five minutes of the game when the Intermediates staged a scoring rally that pulled them through for a victory. Davis, Larkins, Canne and Murphy were the stellar performers for the victors, Larkins carrying off the scoring honors. Reese, Owens, Bloor and Heddleston were the leading players for the Christians, Reese being the scoring star for the losers. Lineup and summary.

GOLDEN BEARS END BIG SEASON

Victory Over Penn Marks Fifth Year of Unbeaten Football.

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 2.—One of the most remarkable gridiron seasons ever recorded stands ended today for the Golden Bears of California, who with their brilliant 14 to 0 victory yesterday over the great Red and Blue squad of Pennsylvania completed their fifth consecutive year of undefeated football.

California's attack was bewildering and virtually swept the visitors off their feet. Pennsylvania's goal line, crossed but twice throughout the eastern season, had never been crossed by straight plunging football.

Yesterday the line of this same mighty Pennsylvania squad was romped over twice by California, by straight, gruelling, plunging army football.

"Tut" Imlay, diminutive California halfback, and Captain McGraw and Jesse Douglas of Pennsylvania put up a splendid game.

KID KAPLAN IS MADE FAVORITE

By SID MERCER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—The old Queensbury pot in which the feather-weight championship has been stewing since last summer comes to a boil tonight in Madison Square Garden, to eliminate either Kid Kaplan or Danny Kramer as a title aspirant.

Kaplan and Kramer are two Jewish youths who have fought their way through the lists at the direction of the New York Boxing Commission. Now they find themselves facing each other in a fifteen round struggle to decide who is worthy to succeed Johnny Dundee.

General opinion favors Kaplan, although Kramer is recognized as a dangerous hitter and an awkard man to fight because of his left handed posturing. The betting is 8 to 5 on Kaplan.

Neither is a native or a resident of New York. Kramer hails from California but has been operating in Philadelphia for about three years. Kaplan's home is in Meriden, Conn.

If the Kid loses tonight, Meriden will go broke and put on mourning. Kaplan's expedition to New York after the golden fleece was more than an individual venture. In fact, it is a civic movement, as far as the city of Meridan is concerned.

Furthermore Meridan is going to furnish its championship candidate with something more than vocal support. The Meridenites will land here this evening on a special train 1500 strong and with a brass band to whoop it up. They come with the rubbers off their bankrolls, prepared to fight to the last dollar.

Kaplan's challenge of Dundee was accepted by the boxing commission early last summer. Dundee didn't want to make the weight. He squirmed and dodged but Kaplan bounded him.

Kramer has the legs of a bantam, with the torso of a lightweight. His wide shoulders proclaim rare hitting ability. His left hand is his ace and he is a specialist at body punishing.

Kaplan is a good two-handed fighter with ability to keep going at top speed. He has not been slowed by any of the lads who have fought him here. However, his punches were not deadly except when he had an opponent in a bad way.

Calomel is a good drug—in its place, but it's seldom in its place

BALLERINO IS SET BACK NOTCH

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 2—Mike Ballerino today was further removed from the field where champions frolic as a result of his overwhelming defeat at the hands of Frankie Monroe, Los Angeles, last night. The Brooklyn fighter was outboxed the entire ten rounds, throughout which Monroe kept picking at a cut he had opened over Ballerino's eye. Ballerino was warned several times for low hitting.

In the other final, Pete Sarimento, New York, barely outpointed Eddie Shea, of Chicago in the tenth round.

M. P. PASSERS GO INTO LEAD

Defeat First Presbyterians in Warm Battle, 44 to 29.

Methodist Protestant basketball passers went into the lead in the "Y" Sunday school league race when they defeated the First Presbyterians last night on the Methodist Protestant floor by the score of 44 to 29.

The M. P. lads outplayed their opponents during most of the game and though the First Presbyterians led at the end of the first half by a 12 to 11 score the M. P's played rings around their oponents in the third quarter, practically winning the game in this period, when the score stood 29 to 14.

In the last quarter the M. P. five kept the big lead that they gained in the third quarter, and were leading by fifteen points when the whistle ended the contest. Carey, Todd, Mackey and Wilson were the stars for the winners while Bough, Allison and Cooper were the mainstays for the Presbyterians.

In the preliminary game the First Presbyterian Juniors scored a victory over the Methodist Protestant Juniors by the count of 31 to 23. Feit was the scoring ace for the Presbyterian Juniors, while Angus led in the scoring for the Methodist Protestant Juniors.

HORNSBY MOST POTENT HITTER

St. Louis Star Compiled Extra-base Mark of .696.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Another honor has crept up unawares on Rogers Hornsby, the well-known ball player, and claimed him as its own. According to a list of official memoranda cast upon the public prints today, the St. Louis socker was the leading slugger of the National league last season, with an average of .696, the exact pertinence of which is best made clear by the fact that the young man was at bat 536 times and compiled a total of .373 bases. He also received the greatest number of gratitudes—which is drawing room English for bases on balls. Our Mr. Hornsby walked eighty-nine times, in case you are interested in sordid figures.

Cy Williams, of the Phillies, was runner-up for the slugging title, it seems. He was at bat 558 times and hit for a total of 303 bases, an average of .552. Zach Wheat, of the Dodgers; Hazen Cuyler, of the Pirates; Jack Fournier, of the Dodgers, and George Kelly, of the Giants, trailed this pair in the order named.

In addition, Brother Kelly was pleased to drive in the most runs—136; and Jim Bottomeley, of the Cardinals, established a major-league record for a single game when he made a personal issue of accounting for twelve tallies. James's rampage occured during a nine-inning game between the Cardinals and the Dodgers on September 16 last.

It also appears that Barney Friberg, of the Cubs, led the league at his own particular specialty. He was thrown out stealing the most times—twenty-seven, which is vaguely similar to nobody's business, like failure to wash behind the ears. Henry Knight Gro, of the Giants, also fell heir to an honor of doubtful value. Henry was hit with a pitched ball eleven times, leading the league in this respect. This fact will utterly confound Henry's critics, who have gone out of their way to assert that he is slipping.

The official statistician again indulges in personalities when he points out that George Grantham, of the Cubs fanned more times than any other National League player. George struck out sixty-three times.

However, all of the statistician's facts are not unpleasant. One of them is to the effect that Stuffy McInnes, of the Braves, fanned fewer times than any other player six in all. This is very commendable, and Stuffy may go right to the head of the class, provided he isn't demoted to the primary grade in the meantime.

LUIS ANXIOUS TO MEET TOM

Due in London Tomorrow to Finish Battle Plans.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—Luis Firpo will go to London tomorrow to conclude arrangements for his match with Tom Gibbons and within two weeks will be training at Nice for the meeting, he told the International News Service in an exclusive interview today.

"I will go to London Saturday for the final arrangements for the Gibbons match the second week in March," the big Argentinian said.

"Coming back to Paris January 10, I then will go to Nice for my training."

Firpo looked "in the pink" and said he was feeling that way.

"I weigh 225 now and am in the best sort of condition," he declared. "I am anxious to get in action."

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Orange Mint Cocktail—Divide six juicy oranges into sections, removing all skin and pith. Add six tablespoons sugar and four tablespoons maraschino cherry juice and set aside to chill for an hour. To this add two tablespoons finely chopped mint, mix thoroughly, pile high in small glasses and place a cherry on top of each.

Salad—Shred three cups of white cabbage and place in ice water. Cut a few red and green sweet peppers in narrow rings, removing seeds. Roll enough cottage or cream cheese into a ball the size of a walnut for each guest. Drain cabbage and mix with one and one-half cups diced celery. Mix with mayonnaise dressing to which one teaspoon of onion juice has been added. Pile in an attractive salad bowl, decorate with alternate rings of red and green peppers. Make a small hollow in the center of the salad and fill this with the cheese balls which have been previously rolled in crushed roasted peanuts.

Cranberry Sherbert—Cook one qt. cranberries with one pint water until berries burst. Strain, add one pound sugar and cook slowly until sugar is dissolved. Cool and add the strained juice of one lemon and freeze. When half frozen add the beaten white of an egg and finish freezing.

Scalloped Oysters—Butter a baking dish, strew the bottom with rolled cracker, wet with oyster liquor and milk slightly warmed. Lay on oysters, set closely, sprinkle with salt, pepper, bits of butter and a few drops of lemon juice, then another layer of moistened crumbs and so on until the dish is full. Let the top layer be of crumbs dotted with bits of butter. Bake covered one-half hour, uncover and brown quickly.

Baked Pork Tenderloins—Cut whole pork tenderloin lengthwise about an inch deep and fill with poultry dressing. Baste with tomato juice seasoned with onion and a pinch of cloves. Strips of bacon laid across the top add to the flavor.

Baked Rice Pudding — Two quarts milk, one-half cup rice, one cup raisins, butter size of a butternut, one cup sugar. Season with nutmeg. Bake two hours.

Baked Squash—Take a large white squash and cut a hole in the top big enough to remove the seeds, then fill with a dressing made of a pint of dry bread crumbs, an onion chopped fine, a scant teaspoon of mustard, two tablespoons of butter in small pieces, half a teaspoon of powdered sage, salt and pepper to taste and two beaten eggs. After the filling is in the squash replace the top, put in a baking pan and cook in the oven for two hours using pork drippings to baste with. If served with a few strips of bacon this makes a most substantial dish.

ZIMTSTERN
(Cinnamon Stars)

One-half pound sugar, five egg whites, beaten until stiff. Stir half hour. Add one-half pound almonds cut fine, one candied lemon peeling, cut fine, two teaspoons cloves, two teaspoons cinnamon, one-half teaspoon lump ammonia (bought at drug stores), enough flour to form. Roll dough about one-fourth inch thick. Cut with star cutter, sprinkle with granulated sugar. Press half almond in center of each cookie and bake in moderate oven.

Suggestion

An appetizing liver sandwich dressing is made as follows: One pound liver boiled with two bay leaves and five cloves. Boil until tender and cook broth until one cupful remains. Grind the liver using the finest knife and pour the broth over this. Cut up a medium sized onion and fry in one tablespoon of butter until tender. Put the onion with the liver and grind with the grinder. Put the juice of a lemon with this and grind again. Vinegar may used instead of lemon.

For a change for a luncheon try glazed almonds instead of the usual salted nuts. Blanch and shell a cup of almonds in the usual way. To one cup of sugar add one-half of water and boil about ten minutes, then drop in the almonds and continue the boiling until the nuts turn a faint yellow; then remove quickly from the fire and stir until the syrup reaches the sugary stage, clinging to the nuts. Then spread to cool on a plate on which a piece of waxed paper has been laid. Serve like salted almonds.

A delightful way to serve simple Sunday evening or holiday lunches is to prepare trays for each individual. For sandwich filling leftovers may be utilized or slices of the roast left from dinner. Coffee is served for the grown-ups and each child gets a cup of coca with a marshmallow.

It is an easy matter to gather up the trays and few dishes need be used. The older children like to help with this kind of a meal and lessons in serving and general manners may be taught incidentally. On hot summer evenings the lunch may be served on the porch or lawn and in the winter before the fireplace.

For those that have work benches in their basement or happen to be radio fans, this system will help to preserve order. Buy at the 10-cent store, different size muffin tins, using the large ones for large screws, nuts, bolts, etc., and the small sizes for all smaller things. You can find just the screw you want at a glance. These tins can be placed one on top of the other and take up little space.

In an emergency, or where one has little starching to do corn starch makes an excellent substitute for the gloss starch. In fact, it makes the clothes nicer than the ordinary gloss starch.

Bridesmaid Reveals Self as Newlywed Following Wedding

NEW YORK.—A bride herself and a bridesmaid a few hours later was the experience of Miss Ruth H. Levey, known as a successful real estate broker, though she is only twenty-seven.

She was married to Bernard Lindenberg, vice president of an advertising concern, in Greenwich, Conn., by a Justice of the Peace. A few hours after her wedding, Mrs. Linndenberg was bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Hortense Prowler to William Morrison, head of Morrison & Company, produce merchants.

Mrs. Lindenberg kept her own wedding a secret until after Miss Prowler became Mrs. Morrison. Then she released her surprise.

Self preservation is the first law of nature, but like so any laws, it isn't enforced.
